Senators Dig Into Their Fitness.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Secretary of State Stettinius and the six men he wants as his aids faced a senatorial questioning today in a setting believed to be without parallel in American history.

Before a crowd of spectators held back by ropes, the seven men sought to demonstrate their fitness to direct the nation's foreign policy against questions so hot that they were sometimes halted by Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the senate foreign relations committee and sometimes by the pleas of the nominees themselves.

The nominees were asked if the British dominate the American state department. They were asked their views on the Atlantic charter, whether they believe in permitting other countries to choose their own form of government, their intentions with regard to the orient, Greece and Russia, and their attitude on lend-lease and keeping the Japanese militade in power.

Grew Defends Jap Trading.

Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and President Roosevelt's nominee for undersecretary of state, defended pre-war American shipment of scrap iron and oil to Japan as "just plain common sense," a Roosevelt phrase frequently heard during the proceedings.

William L. Clayton, millionaire surplus property administrator nominated for assistant secretary of state, testified he is an ancient enemy of cartels.

Archibald MacLeish, the poet who has just resigned as librarian of congress in anticipation of being made an assistant secretary of state, defended himself against charges of Sen. Clark [D., Mo.] that MacLeish had criticized congress and the state department for their actions during the Spanish revolution.

"Many Mad" Among Family.

MacLeish was also called upon by Clark for explanation of a brief autobiography in which the poet described himself as a descendant of a family "with many mad among them," and told of entering Harvard law school "to avoid going to work," and joining a hospital unit in World War I. "so as to do the right thing but not be hurt."

James C. Dunn, a state department executive nominated for assistant secretary, denied knowledge of any effort of Prime Minister Churchill to "force the state department to play second fiddle" to Britain.

The spectacular hearing closed without reference to senators' charges that Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization of the state department was dictated by Harry Hopkins. These charges were made last Wednesday when Democrats led a rebellion which halted efforts to railroad confirmation of the nominees thru the congress and stunned Connally's committee, which had urged the haste, with a mandate for public hearings. The hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

Under consideration for the posts with Grew, Clayton, MacLeish, and Dunn are two others nominated as

Lt. J. C. Stanley.

An attractive young woman whose life was shadowed by the mystery of her birth and in recent years by two unhappy marriages was found dead yesterday in the apartment of Lt. James C. Stanley, U. S. N. R., 1209 Sherwin av., her fiance, whose love she feared she had lost.

She was Miss Virginia Thompson, 35, who returned to Chicago Dec. 1 from California to marry Lt. Stanley. She arrived the day after he had been taken to the Great Lakes naval training center hospital, suffering from pneumonia, and at his suggestion was occupying his apartment pending his recovery.

Visited Him at Hospital.

She visited him several times at the hospital during the last 10 days, and on her final visit last Sunday became convinced that Lt. Stanley no longer loved her. That night she wrote a farewell letter which was left in a drawer near the bed in which her body was found yesterday by a maid. In the dead woman's arms was clasped a photograph of Lt. Stanley, and on a bedside table was an empty cardboard box which might have contained sleeping tablets.

At the Great Lakes hospital, Lt. Stanley suffered a relapse when notified of her death. He asserted his love for Miss Thompson had not cooled, that they would have been married immediately after his recovery, and that she appeared in good spirits when he last saw her Sunday.

Her Farewell Note.

The farewell note, written a few hours after her return from the hospital, was on blue paper in blue black ink. It read:

"My dearest: I guess I knew all along I was only dreaming, but today I was sure. I also knew all week you were trying to tell me you didn't love me, but I didn't want to believe it.

"My life has been a horrible mess from the day I was born, and this chance of happiness with you was what I tried for and, knowing now I lose that, too, I just can't go on.

"Hoped Against Hope."

"Forgive me for taking this way out, but there is nothing else to life, for now that I know you don't care. I was hoping against hope you would take me in your arms tonight before I left the hospital and tell me everything was all right, but no.

"Only remember, my dearest, I loved you far more than life itself. Don't think too harshly of me, and try to forgive me. I just couldn't take it this time. Without you life is too damn empty. Always,

"VIRGINIA."

Letters Indicate Love.

That Lt. Stanley's love for her had not wavered during the months they were apart was indicated by five of his letters, written to her on the west coast while she still was seeking her freedom from Joseph Corrado of Evanston, now a navy chief specialist in charge of physical training, stationed at Navy pier.

The letters were at first impounded by naval intelligence officers on the possibility they might contain matter relating to national security. They later requested Capt. Michael

"NOT A CREATURE WAS STIRRING"

Charges Key to Atlantic Air Kept by British

New York, Dec. 12 [Special].—By excluding Newfoundland from the agreements reached at the recent international civil aviation conference at Chicago, Great Britain has retained a "possible stranglehold" over the Atlantic, while the United States released its hold over the Pacific, Jack Nichols, vice president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., charged tonight.

An unpublicized notation made to the agreement by Philip Cunliffe-Lister, head of the British delegation, he said, excluded Newfoundland's participation in the two basic freedoms of the air—the freedom of peaceful transit and the freedom to refuel, repair, or take refuge in a storm. Nichols made the statement in an address before a meeting of the Export Managers' Club of New York.

May Become a Dominion.

Altho at the time Cunliffe-Lister had explained that the exclusion was made in the case of Newfoundland "because she is a crown colony which we anticipate may be given dominion status and therefore we could not want to bind her," Nichols asserted there may be many people, "altho I am not one of them," who may view this as "not cricket."

Hailing the results of the conference, Nichols stated its accomplishments were ably summed up by Adolf A. Berle Jr., president of the conference, when he said the agreements meant for Britain the "giving up of a possible stranglehold on the Atlantic crossings, which must take off or land at Newfoundland, making it possible for planes from North America to cross the Atlantic ocean."

"Contrary to His Promise."

"Altho Lord Swinton [Cunliffe-Lister] was within his every right to make the notation," Nichols declared, "it was contrary to his promise. To that extent our great ally, who tomorrow will be our greatest competitor, failed to take the stranglehold off the Atlantic."

Nichols emphasized that the right of free passage and landing in Newfoundland would be necessary for economic and profitable trans-Atlantic flight operations.

Turning to competitive aspects of international aviation, Nichols declared that American operators did not fear competition from foreign monopolies.

REPORT ARMY, NAVY SELL ROUND WORLD TRIPS IN AIRPLANES

Miami, Fla., Dec. 12 (AP).—The Miami Herald said tonight that both the army and navy quietly have started selling seats on their world-girdling air routes at about the usual commercial rate of 13 cents a mile.

Civilian passengers can get bucket seats on oceanic transports tagged with their names, the Herald reported, if the trips are deemed to be "in the best interest of the country and they can't reasonably be carried by a regular air line."

So far passengers mostly have been business men on important war missions, but rumors persist the fare-paying passenger business may be expanded about Feb. 1. The Herald quoted army transport command officials in Washington as saying the plan was set up after the way was cleared by a Presidential order.

JAPAN'S PALACE GROUNDS HIT BY BOMBS: TOKYO

LONDON, Dec. 13 [Wednesday]—(AP).—A Tokyo home broadcast, recorded in Melbourne, Australia, said today that bombs had fallen recently in the imperial palace grounds. The broadcast said a manor house had been damaged.

[Only a few days ago photographs taken from Super Fortresses disclosed that the B-29s had flown over the palace, but there was no indication that it was a target for bombing.]

The Berlin radio said yesterday that the Japanese have started a mass evacuation of nonessential civilians from bombed and blacked out Tokyo. A German dispatch from Tokyo said 20,000 persons had been ordered to leave the capital yesterday.

TOKYO BOMBED, JAPS SAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Another incendiary bomb attack on Tokyo Tuesday night by American Super Fortresses was reported by the Tokyo radio.

The broadcast said one or two B-29s from the Marianas Islands roared over the city at 7 p. m. [4 a. m., Tuesday, Chicago time], unloaded incendiaries "in two or three places," and then "fled toward the southeastern sea."

Note Sewn in Tie Brings Aid to Islanders

BY JAMES SLOAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—More than four years after they were occupied by the Germans, Britain's Channel Islands—Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, and Sark—soon will receive food, medicine, soap, and supplies from the homeland. Home Security Minister Morrison told commons today the Germans have granted safe conduct to ships which will carry relief cargoes to the 70,000 islanders isolated off the French coast.

The "mercy supplies" will include 300,000 food parcels containing one week's supply for one person, 10,000 invalid parcels, four tons of soap, two tons of drugs and medical supplies, and five tons of salt.

Germans May Share.

A small Swedish Red Cross ship now loading at Lisbon with the first instalment of relief for the starving island folk is expected to sail within a few days.

The probability the Germans will share in the relief supplies sent to the desperate islanders was raised tonight when it was pointed out that in addition to the regular garrison of 15,000, the islands also have about 5,000 wounded enemy troops who were evacuated from St. Malo, France. Under Red Cross rules at least the Nazi wounded will be entitled to share in the medical supplies and food.

Note Sewn in Necktie.

A note scrawled in blue pencil on a torn scrap of brown wrapping paper was disclosed to have been the factor which finally decided the British government to take steps to help the hungry islanders. This tragic plea, sewn into the necktie of a man who recently escaped from the islands, won help because it bore the signature of a well known islander, a member of the Jersey states [parliament] and warned Morrison, to whom it was addressed, that all food supplies would be exhausted by the end of November.

The government said recently it could not spare the troops and ships necessary to retake the islands from the Germans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN HAGUENAU FOREST, Dec. 12.—At least one portion of the so-called Maginot zone defense is a fiction, Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army infantry men discovered today as they swept thru the eastern portion of the Haguenau forest, covering the eight miles from Souffleheim to Seltz in less than eight hours. This was a gain of 16 miles since Haguenau was captured yesterday.

Not only had the Germans pulled out of the woods but there was only slight evidence of the once vaunted French bulwark in this area.

Some Points Flooded.

There had been some pillboxes and little forts camouflaged in the woods. Some were too well camouflaged, being so clogged by brush and hemmed in by trees that they could have had little military utility. Other structures which might have been considered as strong points were flooded. At none of these locations were there guns or any indications of recent tenancy.

Civilians said the Germans had not shown any intention of occupying the Maginot zone where it cuts into the forest, and there were reports that the bulk of the Germans who withdrew from the Haguenau area already may have gone as far back as the Siegfried line [the portion built westward from the Rhine] some seven miles above the woods.

Speeded On by Engineers.

The swift progress of the infantry from Souffleheim to Seltz was aided by the combat engineers, who this morning put a bridge across a stream north of Souffleheim, the old span having been demolished by the enemy. One of the bridge builders was Pvt. Louis Milling, 4343 N. Troy st., Chicago.

At Seltz the Americans were a mile west of the Rhine, four and a half miles from the German Palatinate

British Submit Terms to Stop War in Greece

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 12 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, today informed an emissary of the leftist EAM-ELAS forces that they must cease hostilities and surrender their arms before any settlement could be reached in the civil strife.

These conditions were handed to Miltiades Porphyrogenis, representative of the EAM [National Liberation party], a Communist and former minister of labor in the cabinet of Premier George Papandreou. He was brought to the British headquarters in a British army vehicle while heavy fighting raged in sections of Athens.

Confers with Alexander.

The leftists' peace feeler which resulted in the meeting between Scobie and Porphyrogenis came shortly after the British commander had conferred with Field Marshal Alexander and Harold MacMillan, British minister of state. They arrived in Athens yesterday. Alexander, allied commander in the Mediterrainean, left the city this morning.

Scobie, it was announced, said that as soon as the conditions were fulfilled he would inform Alexander, who would take the steps necessary to end the turmoil in Greece and restore democratic liberties, "the first step to which must be the disbandment of all private armies."

Porphyrogenis returned to his headquarters with the British requirements for restoration of peace. There has been no subsequent report of further negotiation.

Shell Heart of City.

The hostilities continued with increased ferocity this morning. The ELAS [fighting arm of the EAM] sent the heaviest shellfire yet into the center of the city.

ELAS sharpshooters returned to some sections from which they previously had been driven by the British and Greek regulars. The latter were slowed by mines as well as by sharpshooters. Several large fires started by the ELAS burned unchecked.

Shortly after his meeting with the EAM delegate, Scobie drove thru the sniping, standing upright in the front seat of a scout car, to inspect the British forward positions. He wore his red banded general's cap and his medals.

Little Improvement Noted.

A bulletin from his headquarters said: "There has been no slackening of rebel resistance, and altho some progress has been made in Piraeus [port of Athens], and several sectors of the city, the general situation has improved little."

[Premier Papandreou says his government would welcome any attempt by the United States to end the civil war thru diplomatic intervention. Story on page 6.]

NOZAY, French Atlantic front, Nov. 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—French marines have obtained the release of 17 American prisoners of war who were shot down in a troop carrier plane Oct. 28 off the port of La Rochelle, which still is in German hands.

The exchange was made Nov. 23, but the Americans did not reach Nozay until last night. Fourteen were infantry replacements en route to Italy.

Plane Cut to Pieces.

"Tracers began to cut the ship to pieces," said Corp. Eugene Westhoven, crew chief, of Compton, Cal. "The tail was shot away and almost simultaneously the left motor was torn loose and fell into the sea."

The pilot, who was killed a few moments later, managed to bring the ship down at sea, about a mile off shore. German craft immediately pulled up to them and hauled the struggling men from the water.

"But before they would touch us they asked if we were English or American," said Pvt. Ray Tanner, Binghamton, N. Y. "We all yelled American. Later I asked the guard why they asked if we were Americans and the guard replied: 'If you'd been English, they'd have machine-gunned you in the water.'"

Tanner said the Germans held a machine pistol to each man's head as they asked his nationality. Only after an answer had been given were the Americans pulled from the water.

One Man Drowns.

One of the men drowned and another later died of wounds.

Pvt. Robert L. Stufflebeam of Corry, Pa., said he was interrogated by a German captain who once lived in Philadelphia and whose wife and mother still live there.

"He told me things about Pennsylvania I never heard of and spoke better English than I do," Stufflebeam said.

The men were imprisoned in a cage six miles out of La Rochelle. They said the French had taken the lead in forcing the negotiations for the exchange, and had handed over German prisoners for their release.

Among the Americans exchanged were Pvt. Robert W. Toosley, 7648 S. Maplewood av., Chicago; Pvt. Leo Jurczak, Saginaw, Mich.; Pvt. Frederick Temple, Milwaukee, Wis.; Pvt. Tommy Tretheway, Muskegon, Mich., and Pvt. Hugh E. Thompson, Indianapolis, Ind.

4 DESTROYERS, 6 TRANSPORTS HIT OFF LEYTE

Super Forts Bomb Enemy Homeland.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (Wednesday)—(AP).—Super Fortresses in sizable force attacked industrial targets on the Japanese home island of Honshu today. A war department bulletin said "this is another attack on the Japanese mainland by Saipan based B-29s in the mounting aerial drive on enemy strategic targets." Details of the attack will be announced when further information is available.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Dec. 13 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Three Japanese destroyers and four transports of an 11 ship convoy attempting to run reenforcements to Leyte Island were sunk by American planes and PT boats Monday and Tuesday, Gen. MacArthur said today.

One other enemy destroyer and two freighter-transports were so severely damaged in the 36 hour running fight they may have sunk. They were left dead in the water and burning, the bulletin said. Fifty Japanese planes were destroyed. The Americans lost eight.

Only one Nipponese vessel, a destroyer, escaped from the Lightning fighters, marine Corsairs, and PT boats. The battle occurred off the northwest coast of Leyte. Enemy losses by drowning are believed to have been heavy, Gen. MacArthur said.

U. S. Ships Damaged.

Thirty Japanese planes attacked an American convoy returning from a supply run to Ormoc at dawn Sunday, but were met by marine fighter planes which downed 11 of the enemy. The American supply ships suffered some damage, the bulletin said.

The Japanese convoy was first attacked at dawn Monday in the Visayan sea. By nightfall American bombs had sunk three of the six transports and two of the five escorting destroyers, after fighting off relays of enemy fighter planes. The destroyed vessels were of 10,000, 5,000, and 4,000 tons.

The remaining enemy vessels were sunk off Palompon, northwest of fallen Ormoc, and were in that harbor yesterday morning when the American attack was resumed. The PT boats sank a 5,000 ton enemy cargo-transport out of the convoy Monday night.

Lt. Melvin W. Haines of 2771 Prairie av., Evanston, Ill., captained the "Impatient Virgin," one of the PT boats. He now has sunk two Jap ships.

39 Transports Now Sunk.

Altho troops were seen aboard the enemy vessels, the Americans believed supplies and equipment bulked large in the cargoes. The Japanese had all night to unload the vessels which survived the initial phase of the attack, but flyers over the scene saw little evidence either of men or material on the beach.

This was the ninth Japanese convoy to be intercepted and smashed by American planes and naval surface craft during the battle for Leyte. In these actions the enemy has lost a total of 39 transports and 28 escort vessels, mostly destroyers.

Late reports from western and northern Leyte showed little change in the ground situation.

ISLE WON: TOKYO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo radio said last night a Japanese force "completely occupied" Ponson Island in the Camotes sea early last Friday morning and thus "frustrated an enemy plan to use that island as a base for his torpedo boats." There was no allied confirmation. Ponson is a dot of land in Ormoc bay, which now is under American control.

Japanese Domei news agency asserted yesterday that Japanese planes had "attacked enemy forces on the western coast of Biliran Island," which is north of Leyte.

frontier, and only 15 miles from the major German city of Karlsruhe.

Langensoultzbach, 10 miles north of Haguenau, was entered against moderate resistance. Just north of Haguenau forest the Americans seized Gunstett and cleared nearby Walbourg. At one point Patch's advance units were only two and a half miles from the German Palatinate frontier.

Among the French towns liberated by the 79th infantry division in its plunge toward Germany were Runtzenheim, Roeschwoog, Lautenheim, Kauftenheim, Merkwiller, Beinheim, and Kesseldorf.

On the western flank the Yanks cleared Rederching, five miles west of Bitche and less than four from the border, after a stiff fight in which the Germans used tanks. Sierstahl, about two miles southeast of Rederching, also was occupied.

3D ARMY CROSSES RIVER

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Dec. 12 (AP).—The American 1st army drove within half a mile of Duren today and virtually eliminated the Germans' Roer river salient blocking the route to Cologne. The 3d army crossed the Blies river northeast of Sarreguemines, forcing a new wedge across the German border.

The advances of the ground forces were strongly supported by allied planes, which hammered Nazi targets in and behind the battle zone thruout the day.

More than 30 towns and villages—at least seven of them inside Germany—fell during the day as Gen. Eisenhower's armies pounded at the last barriers guarding the reich's three main industrial areas. At some vital points enemy resistance appeared to be slackening, altho this might be explained as German withdrawals to previously prepared positions.

Advance Thru Rubble.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army men and armor crashed thru the rubbled towns of Hoven, Schophoven, Pier, Merken, Merode, Gey, and Derichweiler, all within a six mile arc from northwest to southwest of Duren.

Leave Most of Forest Behind.

The first troops of Hodges' army to reach the Roer drove east from the town of Hurtgen and established a firm grip on the river bank along the shore of the Ober Maubach reservoir. The Roer in that sector south of Duren is susceptible to flooding by the opening of several dams.

With the capture of Merode, 3½ miles southwest of Duren, and the advance to the Roer east of Hurtgen, the 1st army's doughboys left almost the last of the Hurtgen forest battleground behind them.

Lt. Gen. Simpson's United States 9th army, immediately adjoining Hodges' forces on the left, reached the Roer several weeks ago and since has been held up by floods and by the necessity for resting and regrouping before continuing its offensive. Activity on the front between Julich and Linnich along the Roer still was confined to patrols. The Nazis stepped up their flying bomb attacks in that sector after a lull of several days.

Melting sno wturned the ground into a quagmire.

Cross in Assault Boats.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army made gains against Siegfried line defenses while its artillery, now moved up close behind the infantry, poured heavy fire into the Saar basin.

The 35th infantry division entered Germany northeast of Sarreguemines after crossing the 60 foot Blies river on assault boats without the loss of a man. The Saar town of Habkirchen was seized without resistance.

Other elements of the 35th division were forced to withdraw from Bliesbruck, a mile and a half southeast of Habkirchen, and later the 19th tactical air force bombed the town.

Fighting at Saarlautern was confined mainly to the suburban towns of Roden and Fraulautern on the north and Ensdorf on the east.

At Dillingen, two miles north of Saarlautern, the 90th infantry division repulsed several enemy counterattacks and knocked out seven German tanks.

German reports that the battle for the Saar had cost the 3d army between 20,000 and 30,000 men since Dec. 1 drew no comment from allied headquarters. It was admitted here, however, that losses had been heavy in the winter offensive.

CHICAGO BLACK HORSE TROOPERS AWARDED STARS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, Dec. 12.—Valor awards were made today to 29 officers and men of the 106th cavalry group [mechanized], which includes members of Chicago's famous Black Horse troop. Seven silver stars and 22 bronze stars were awarded for gallantry and meritorious service in the group's 340 mile sweep from Normandy to the Vosges mountains in the period it was spearheading the advance of the 15th corps.

The group is still at it today, pushing out its reconnaissance and fighting mounted in scout cars or dismounted as infantry. The 17 who arrived today to be decorated could be spared for only a short time, and returned to action as soon as the awards had been pinned on them by Maj. Gen. Haislip, commander of the 15th corps.

Nine Are Posthumous Awards.

Fifteen bronze stars and two silver stars were presented by the general at the ceremony in a clearing in the woods. Of the 12 other awards, nine are posthumous, and two silver stars and one bronze star were sent to wounded men in hospitals.

Among those receiving bronze stars were Capt. John K. Winkler, 956 N. Lockwood av., Chicago; Lt. Col. Kelton S. Davis, 1838 S. 10th av., Maywood, and Sgt. Anton W. Rupelt, 1309 S. 4th av., Maywood. One of the silver stars went to Lt. Col. John F. Homfeld, 708 E. Oregon st., Urbana, Ill.

Winkler was with the Black Horse troop from 1938 to 1940, when some of its membership was inducted into federal service as part of the 106th cavalry group. His award was won for "sound judgment and leadership maintained in the face of intense enemy fire" as commander of Troop A of the 106th cavalry reconnaissance squadron [the 106th group being composed of that squadron and the 121st squadron].

Directed Attack on Forest.

Davis' medal was for his direction of the 106th squadron in its dismounted attack on a German strong point in the forest of Parroy on Oct. 3.

The group's origin was in the Spanish American war, when it was known as the 5th cavalry regiment of Illinois. It became the 1st Illinois cavalry in 1914, but went overseas in the last war with the Illinois 33d division as an artillery unit.

It was reorganized as a horse regiment in 1920, and two years later, when it consisted of one Illinois squadron and two from Michigan, it received the number 106. Mechanization was begun in 1939, and last March in England the transformation into a cavalry group with two squadrons was completed. The group is commanded by Col. Vennard Wilson, a regular army officer.

Gen. Haislip, who refers to the group as the "fightingest" unit he has ever known and the "eyes and ears" of his corps, also styles its sprint thru France as "outblitzing anything military science ever has known."

There are many Chicagoans in the group, including Maj. Edwin A. Cavanagh, 5404 Kenmore av.; Sergeants William J. Szydlowski, 2538 Long av.; William D. Coole, 10042 Perry av.; John G. Gelzaines, 5928 S. Elizabeth st.; Frank V. Stefaniak, 444 S. California av.; Ernest T. Bellack, 5700 Pensacola av., and Walter S. Sawicki, 9802 Merrill av.

There are also Corporals Pat G. Corrado, 4053 Harrison st.; James W. Foley, 4423 Irving Park rd.; Richard H. Bruscato, 4249 West End av.; Privates Joseph P. Nesci, 729 S. ALLIES TO BLOCK NAZI PROPERTY, GERMANS TOLD

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gen. Eisenhower said yesterday in a proclamation broadcast to Germany that "the allied military government proposes to block all property of the Nazi party, its leading officials and supporters," so that questions of ownership might be determined in an orderly manner.

This was the ninth in a series of proclamations directed to the Germans, explaining allied plans for occupied Germany.

Promising that the property of the allies and their nationals would be protected, the statement said present holders of blocked properties "are required to hold and preserve them, subject to the instructions of the military government."

HEAR U. S. SEEKS TO BAN GERMAN WAR INDUSTRIES

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—American proposals for "complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries and strict control of the country's future economy tonight were reliably reported to be under discussion by the European advisory commission as a part of a tough allied plan to suppress Germany's aggressive powers forever.

Ambassador Winant of the United States was understood to have presented to the commission two or more memoranda containing the American proposals for controling future German industry, foreign and domestic trade.

It was said that the American proposals called for:

1. Abolition of German war industries.
2. Wiping out the German aviation industry.
3. Control of German industries so that they could not dominate European economy.

Recall Morgenthau's Plan.

There was a general feeling that the American proposals did not go nearly so far as the reported plan of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau virtually to wipe out German industry and make Germany largely dependent upon its agriculture.

The Americans were believed to have suggested that it should be made impossible for German chemical industries to manufacture poison gas or similar weapons.

The proposals specified, however, that civilian requirements of medicines and drugs should be allowed. They added that the whole question of allied control of the chemical industry, as in all other branches of industry, should be settled jointly by the United States, Britain, Russia, and France.

Plan to Watch Imports.

The American plan was said to grant a much greater latitude in Germany's future textile industries, since production would be for civilians.

Less is known about potential allied control of Germany's foreign trade, but the American proposals were understood to favor "drastic supervision" of German imports, with a view to preventing Germany buying abroad raw materials adaptable to strategic uses.

In this connection, it was recalled that the European advisory commission for several months has had under consideration plans for controling German finance, both at home and abroad.

It was emphasized that all plans for dealing with post-war German economy must be extremely tentative until the physical condition of German factories is known at the end of the war.

108 HOUR WEEK PLEDGED BY JAP WAR WORKERS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

In an effort to increase war goods production, Japanese workers at a war plant have pledged to work 108½ hours weekly—from 7:30 a. m. to 11 p. m., seven days a week—the Japanese news agency Domei said yesterday.

The dispatch added that the workers had set themselves to increase production by 80 per cent.

Hampered by a shortage of iron, Japanese industrial engineers "have hit upon the idea of producing wooden boring machines" and their experiments have been rewarded with "amazing success," Domei reported.

NEW FIGHT OVER DRAFT BREWS IN MONTREAL VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 12.—Canada's conscription fight was believed far from permanent settlement today following the election of Camillien Houde, long time foe of the war draft in any form as mayor of Montreal.

Camillien Houde.

Houde, who was interned by the government of Prime Minister King for four years after urging French-Canadian Montreal to disregard the national registration order, and released only four months ago, will enter the race for parliament early next year, most political observers expect. Houde was mayor when interned.

If Houde runs for parliament it is probable that the draft question will be raised again. Prime Minister King recently won a long battle in cabinet and parliament for a vote of confidence in his policy of partial conscription for overseas fighting duty.

Asked Vindication at Polls.

Houde made conscription and his internment an issue in his campaign for reëlection and asked vindication of his stand. Speaking in French, he said:

"I preach in protest against conscription. I preach it in a manner becoming a dignified people—passive resistance."

Again he said:

"By placing me in internment, the authorities hoped to scare French Canada into supporting the government and keeping silent in their opposition to conscription." And when he was criticized by his political opposition for not keeping to municipal issues, Houde asserted:

"I choose the subjects close to the heart of French Canada."

"I want a large majority," he continued, "so that the federal and provincial governments will know that you are pleased with me."

Calls Foe a Mason.

Houde's most important deviation into local matters was to accuse Adhemar Raynault, his French-Canadian and Catholic opponent in the mayoralty race, of being a Free Mason.

Raynault made no direct answer to Houde's charge, but published his indorsement by Archbishop Joseph Charbonneau of Montreal.

Observers believe that Raynault has no more love of conscription, particularly conscription for other than home defense, than has Houde.

Raynault, however, retaliated for Houde's personal attack upon him by referring to Houde's apparent lack of success as a private business agent and to the fact that Montreal's finances were in dire straits when Houde was interned and Raynault took over as mayor.

Wins by Wide Margin.

"Municipal funds should not be left to a man who can't conduct his own affairs," was Raynauld's argument.

The final returns of the election Monday gave: Houde, 62,917 votes; Raynault, 48,134. Raynault had drawn his greatest support from English speaking districts of Montreal, a circumstance of which Houde took note when he said shortly after his victory was assured.

"We may not see eye to eye now on some important matters, but the day will come when you will need Quebec's soundness for other purposes than war. I hold no bitterness and when that day comes you will be welcome."

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP SONJA BE G.I.'S SANTA

2 Ice Show Tickets Go with Each Bond.

Eight thousand five hundred service men will receive free tickets to take their girls or next best friends to the Sonja Henie ice show at the Stadium on Dec. 22 if enough Chicagoans with holiday spirit buy war bonds, officials of the sixth war loan drive announced yesterday.

Under a plan sponsored jointly by the treasury department and THE TRIBUNE, Chicagoans will have the privilege of providing soldiers and sailors stationed in and near the city with free tickets to the ice revue. Two tickets will be alloted for each $100 war bond purchased after today. One of the tickets will be used by the service man and the other is for whomever he chooses to take with him to the show.

No Limit on Number of Bonds.

Readers wishing to participate in this holiday gesture need only to clip out the coupon in the adjoining column and take it any place where war bonds are sold and buy a $100 bond. The result will be that a service man and his girl will spend the evening of Dec. 22 watching Sonja Henie and her troupe of 200 performers. Two tickets will go with each $100 bond regardless of the number of bonds purchased.

The bond buyer will give The Tribune coupon to the bond salesman, who will send it to a Chicago service men's center where the tickets will be distributed. Bond buyers will have no further responsibility.

The service man, when he receives his tickets, also will receive a card bearing the name and address of the person whose bond purchase made the ticket gift possible. The tickets, treasury officials pointed out, will be a Christmas offering from Chicago to the nation because the men receiving tickets will represent nearly every state in the Union.

Ninth Run in Chicago.

The performance of the revue for service men was made possible by Miss Henie and Arthur M. Wirtz, the producer, who also is vice president and general manager of the Stadium. Miss Henie is donating her time, but the other members of the cast will be paid.

The show, which has thrilled Chicago for the last eight years, boasts new dances arranged by Catherine Littlefield, the famed ballet choreographer. "Carnival Russe," featuring the dancing of Miss Henie, is one of the show's major items. It tells a story of gypsy life.

The entire Stadium will be reserved for service men on Dec. 22. The public will be admitted at succeeding performances beginning Dec. 23.

Ice Show Ticket

I wish to give two tickets to the Sonja Henie ice show to a service man stationed near Chicago thru my purchase of a war bond.

PACIFIC YANKS GO FISHING AND CATCH 29 JAPS

WITH THE UNITED STATES 41ST INFANTRY DIVISION, Southwest Pacific [Delayed]—(AP).—When you go fishing in the Southwest Pacific these days you may catch most anything.

An American "J" boat crew, out to contact a patrol, decided to fish a bit in a small bay. The fish were biting fine, but the party was broken up when a crewman noticed some one waving from the beach with a piece of white cloth. The glasses showed he was a Japanese soldier marooned on the island.

Before the day was over the "J" boat had aboard 29 Japanese fighting men who braved the surf and swam out to the little ship to surrender. They said they had had enough of the jungles and were hungry.

FRANCE TO SHOOT 9 CITIZENS WHO AIDED GERMANS

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Nine members of an organization known under German occupation as the French Gestapo, were sentenced to death tonight. They were found guilty of working with the enemy in denouncing, torturing, and blackmailing French citizens.

Two members of the group, headed by Henri Chamberlain, alias Lafont, and assisted by Police Inspector Pierre Bony, were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor. They escaped the death penalty because of their youth. Both are 20 years old.

Cheats Firing Squad.

The 12th man, Edmund de la Haye, cheated the firing squad. He died at 11 a. m. in prison from diabetes, six hours before his death sentence would have been pronounced. He collapsed in court yesterday.

A lawyer for one of the men who was sentenced to death, announced that the defendant's father had died during the night. He begged leniency for his client.

When final arguments were closed Judge Auguste Ledoux and his four jury men retired from the courtroom to deliberate. They sat around a green baize table in the jury room. A ballot box was put on the table. Answers of yes or no in the case of each of the prisoners were made. The verdict was reached by majority vote.

Reads Death Sentence.

Almost an hour later the judge, wearing a scarlet, ermine trimmed robe and velvet cap, accompanied by the four jury men, filed back into the courtroom. Ledoux put his cap on the bench. He then read the sentence:

"The court ordains that the condemned be shot, that their property be confiscated, and that they be declared unworthy nationals."

Ledoux put on his hat and said, "Guards, lead away the condemned." The prisoners were handcuffed and led back to prison.

New State Department Under Senate Fire.

The hearing was in the senate caucus room, the size of a hotel ballroom. Long before the inquiry began a huge crowd of Washingtonians was waiting.

There were women in galoshes for the first snow of the season, men of high rank and low, members of the army and navy, and many government workers. So many tables were required for the press and state department representatives that plump senators had difficulty getting thru the aisles to their reserved seats.

Pleading against the senate's rebuke to his committee, Connally had predicted that no more than three senators outside the committee would attend a public hearing. But the room was filled with senators when Connally, in a black and gray statesman's coat of tweed, called for order.

His bronzed face gleaming in the movie flood lights, white haired, black eyebrowed Stettinius burst into the room followed by Grew, whose eyebrows are quite as black and bushy as Stettinius'. Striding behind was the prospective new state department on parade, for confirmation of the nominees would leave only one assistant secretary from the Cordell Hull regime, Dean Acheson.

"Get your photographs taken," Connally invited with a nod toward the line. And to the photographers, "Go ahead. Get your pictures. We have some other business."

Stettinius seated his men and then had them rise while he introduced them. The secretary had a special word for beribboned Gen. Holmes, explaining that Holmes was just ready to fly back to his job as Gen. Eisenhower's aid and asking that Holmes be heard second so the general could make his plane, as he had missed one to attend the hearing.

"I took him off an airplane," said Stettinius.

Called Stettinius' Team.

Excerpts from the nominees' formal statements, questions by senators and the replies follow:

SEN. GUFFEY [D., Pa.]—Is the policy of the state department to follow the British lead in Europe completely and depend on the British lead in the far east?

STETTINIUS—I will discuss that later.

Guffey asked if Stettinius, when lend-lease administrator, had required a pledge that American made tanks and planes should not be used against our allies. The secretary said there had been a clause barring their transfer, without our authorization.

When Guffey asked Stettinius if the British were using American munitions against the Ethiopians in two provinces, Connally interposed that he considered such a question hardly proper, taking into consideration the present military situation. Stettinius said he would be glad to discuss this and other matters in executive session.

Stettinius Commends Hull.

Stettinius paid tribute to his predecessor, Cordell Hull, whom he called "one of the truly great statesmen of your times." He disclaimed any intention of abandoning Hull's "principles and objectives" in future foreign policy.

Holmes, a mustached, youthful looking man who accompanied Lt. Gen. Clark on Clark's celebrated expedition to meet French leaders in North Africa, took the stand after Stettinius had outlined general policies.

SEN. MURRAY [D., Mont.]—Are you friendly to Russia?

HOLMES—Yes. But I have nothing to do with Russian affairs.

MURRAY—You don't desire to influence countries as to the kind of government they will have?

HOLMES—No.

CONNALLY—What business were you in before entering the army?

A moment later Holmes was off for Eisenhower's headquarters. The women restrained themselves from applauding the dashing figure in view of Connally's stern admonition against any demonstration.

Believes in President.

Grew took the stand to say he is willing to fill a "hard slugging job" because his country is at war, he believes in the President, and Stettinius is "the man who gets things done."

A veteran of 40 years' government service, Grew said the job of undersecretary is very different from 20 years ago, when he held the job, explaining:

"Now a new and liberal pattern is emerging."

When he finished his formal statement, a distinguished appearing white haired man with enough influence to get standing room in a coveted spot behind the committee clapped his hands long and loud in defiance of Connally's edict of silence.

"Where are the police?" shouted Connally.

The police bounced the applauder out.

Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] asked if Grew, when undersecretary, had been instrumental in sending the marines to Nicaragua. Grew replied that the action was taken by the President and secretary of state.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD [R., Minn.]—Should we remain permanently in the orient?

GREW—The question has many phases.

SHIPSTEAD—If we were asked to hold permanent occupation, with Great Britain and Holland, the former owners, of various colonies in the orient?

GREW—That is difficult to answer in a public hearing.

GUFFEY—What was the reason for sending oil and scrap iron to Japan?

GREW—In the middle and late '30s, we were not prepared for war. Our people didn't want war. An embargo is an international sanction [penalty], taken as an international threat. I told our government if and when we put on embargoes, our relations with Japan would go on the down grade and it might and probably would end in war. Appeasement is a word that is overworked. I call it a policy of just plain common sense . . . we should not shake our fist and end up shaking our finger.

GUFFEY—Newspapers report you are for keeping Hirohito in power after the war.

"Plain Common Sense."

GREW—That is a distortion. . . . We must demilitarize Japan, physically and intellectually. . . . When we defeat Japan we must use our assets and get rid of our liabilities. . . . That's plain common sense. No one knows yet whether the emperor's an asset or a liability. . . . The emperor's position has been greatly exaggerated. When we get to Tokyo—and we certainly will get there in due course—our main objective will be to render it impossible for Japan again to threaten world peace. We shall have to take specific measures to demilitarize Japan, both physically and intellectually. This will obviously include among other things the destruction of the Japanese military machine and the destruction of their tools of war and the paraphernalia for making those tools of war in the future.

Rockefeller, youthful grandson of the late John D. and leading advocate of the South American good neighbor policy which senators have called a six billion dollar boondoggle, was called.

Guffey asked if Rockefeller hadn't given eight young men $1,000 each to train for good neighbor work at Harvard.

"You must have me confused with somebody else," replied Rockefeller. "It's an interesting scheme—but not mine."

Sen. Johnson Enters Probe.

JOHNSON—Where is the Atlantic Charter?

DUNN—It's still there, senator.

JOHNSON—Are you in favor of placing in effect the four freedoms originally provided?

DUNN—They're not in the Charter. We stand for our own principles and our own policies.

JOHNSON—Are they any different? Have you had any difficulties with Greece?

DUNN—We stand on the statement of our secretary in favor of permitting countries to choose their own governments.

MURRAY [referring to state department discussion in connection with the statement on Greece]—Did you mention Churchill?

DUNN—Yes. That's in the secretary's statement.

Hints Monarchy Is Favored.

MURRAY — When you read the statement you get the idea that Churchill's against their having their own kind of government and thinks they should have a monarchy.

DUNN—I don't think it's advisable to discuss the Greek situation here.

MURRAY—The opinion has been expressed that the state department is largely under the influence of the British. Have you noticed any of that?

DUNN—No.

MURRAY — Isn't it a fact that Churchill is forcing the state department to play second fiddle?

DUNN—I have no knowledge of that.

MURRAY—He didn't consult the state department about Greece?

Connally objected to further discussion of the British, but not until after Dunn had answered "No."

MacLeish was taken to task by Sen. Clark for criticizing the state department and congress while librarian of congress. MacLeish answered that he had a right to express his own views.

"You were extremely critical of their attitude toward Spain and China," Clark said.

MacLeish conceded this was true as to Spain.

Chuckles swept the audience when Clark read an article MacLeish had written about himself. Exerpts:

"Her [his mother's] family . . . very passionate people with many mad among them. . . . Went to Harvard law school to avoid going to work. Led my class the last year.

"Did the Right Thing."

"Went abroad in a hospital unit so as to do the right thing but not be hurt. . . . In France got shifted to the field artillery out of shame . . . few weeks at the front. . . .

"Taught a year at Harvard to avoid [again] going to work. . . . Winter of 1923 decided to go to France. . . . Date the beginning of my life from that year."

Clark said he realized the autobiography was facetious, but that "facetiousness isn't the outstanding quality of a diplomat."

MacLeish stilled the laughter by saying he had always felt rather "inadequate" when he compared his own war record to that of a hero brother killed in the war.

Clayton Favors Hull's Views.

Clayton, the last witness, had only time to read his formal statement before the session closed. He pledged his support to former Secretary Hull's views of economics and told of long opposition to cartels.

Clayton testified his family owns 40 per cent of Anderson, Clayton & Co., cotton brokers, with assets of 50 million dollars plus 10 million in foreign subsidiaries. He will be cross-examined tomorrow.

Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.], one of the most severe critics of the state department appointees, tonight complained to reporters because only members of the committee had been given an opportunity to question them.

"This is not the way to get any information about these fellows," he said. "I had a lot of questions ready to ask them, but I didn't get a chance. However, I expect to take some time in the senate to discuss the matter."

Has a Baby.

GYPSY ROSE LEE.

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—Gypsy Rose Lee, who traveled from burlesque theater runways to mystery story writing, started a new career today—motherhood. She became the mother of a 5½ pound son only a few hours before her recently divorced husband, Actor Alexander Kirkland, took his second bride, Phyllis Anne Adams, New York debutante.

June Havoc, sister of Miss Lee, said the infant, born a month prematurely, would be named Eric Lee.

Born Louise Rose Hovick, Miss Lee was a child when she first appeared in the theater. Later she was a nation-wide burlesque favorite, appeared on Broadway and in the films, and then wrote two best selling detective stories and a play.

Palmolive Beacon to Go on Again After 3 Years

The beacon atop the Palmolive building, most powerful navigation light in the world, will be turned on again Sunday night after nearly three years of darkness because of the war, it was announced last night. The beacon will be relighted by one of Chicago's war mothers during the infantry demonstration Sunday night at Key Branch stadium, Central av. and Roosevelt rd. The 2 billion candlepower beam was turned off Feb. 28, 1942, at the request of the navy, when it was considered possible that the enemy might bomb major American cities.

U. S. FLYERS BOMB RAIL FEEDERS TO SAAR BASIN LINE

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—More than 1,250 American Fortresses and Liberators, and their escort of 900 fighters, today dumped more than 3,000 tons of bombs on German Saar basin battle line rail facilities in the Frankfurt area and the Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg. The bombers hit Frankfurt, Hanau, Darmstadt, and Aschaffenburg.

Nine bombers and nine fighters were reported missing—the smallest loss of the war for an attack in such strength.

American 15th air force Fortresses from Italy bombed Blechhammer in southern Silesia, the site of a huge German synthetic fuel plant. Escort fighter bombers shot down 15 enemy planes for a loss of seven of their own.

A powerful force of Britain based R. A. F. Lancasters, escorted by Mustangs, attacked the Ruhr industrial and railway city of Witten, and shot down six German planes.

Tonight a strong force of R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes blasted the great armament center of Essen and squadrons of Mosquitoes bombed Osnabruck, another steel center of the Ruhr.

NAZI PRISONERS STRIKE AT FORT; 1,300 PUNISHED

Quit Work When Their Demand Is Rejected.

More than 1,300 German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan went on a sit down strike yesterday after removal of one of their comrades as a group leader and were placed promptly on a bread and water diet.

The disciplinary action was ordered by Maj. E. R. Schuelke, commander of the prisoner of war camp. The bread and water diet will be in effect for 14 days, which will include Christmas.

Col. George H. Cushman, post commandant, said the group leader was stripped of his authority Monday when he refused to perform a task assigned him.

Prisoners Refuse to Work.

Yesterday all prisoners in the stockade refused to go to work until the leader was reinstated. The prisoners' decision was communicated to the post authorities by a spokesman designated by the Germans.

Maj. Schuelke refused to yield to the prisoners' demand, and directed them to report to work immediately. Their refusal led to the bread and water order, which is in conformance with regulations formulated at the Geneva convention.

Work assigned to prisoners included firing of furnaces, kitchen tasks, painting, carpentry, and similar labor, for which they received 80 cents a day. Before the prisoners were taken to Fort Sheridan last May, these chores were performed by recruits, who yesterday found themselves back at work.

Spending Money Lost.

Loss of their 80 cents a day wages imposed numerous hardships upon the prisoners, foremost among which is their inability to buy the maximum of two pints of beer normally allowed them. Prisoners also were dependent upon their wages for razor blades, cigarets, and candy.

The strike, Col. Cushman said, is the first serious difficulty the post has encountered from the prisoners since their arrival there.

YANK CAPTIVES IN NAZI CAMPS LAY YULE PLANS

Within their barbed wire enclosures in Germany, American prisoners are again trying to observe the Christmas season as they remember it at home.

"There is already a Christmas feeling in the air here," a Y. M. C. A. War Prisoners' Aid worker reported from one German camp in a letter received in Chicago yesterday. "The prisoners are busy decorating the rooms and especially the chapel here at Stalag VI. A, and they are preparing little gifts to send home to their relatives."

Tree decorations, lights, ornaments, and other Yule supplies have been sent to the camps by War Prisoners' Aid, said Frank A. Hathaway, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Chicago. "Chicago families may be certain that, within limitations, the prisoners are contriving simple but heart warming observances of Christmas."

The organization has received no reports in three years from Japan's prison camps.

TAKE COUPONS FOR 1,650 GALLONS GAS. Ration coupons redeemable for 1,650 gallons of gasoline, tools valued at $76, and $4 in change were taken yesterday by burglars from the filling station at 3515 Grand av., Frank Nitti, the owner, told police.

Suffers Shock

GRACE MOORE.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 12 (AP).—Grace Moore, Metropolitan Opera soprano, suffered a wrenched shoulder and a "terrific shock" when the taxicab in which she was riding swerved on a slippery street here yesterday afternoon, her manager announced today. As a result, it was explained, the singer's throat muscles were affected to the point of hoarseness and she had to cancel a singing engagement here scheduled for tonight. She was under care of a physician and arrangements were being made for her immediate transportation to New York.

ARMY TIGHTENS UP ON RELEASE OF LUMINARIES

Discharge of Stars Arouses Criticism.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—Athletes and other prominent persons in the army may have a difficult time obtaining discharges in the future.

Criticism over the release from service of athletic stars, stage, screen, and radio figures has been so great that the war department has decided to tighten controls on their release, it was disclosed today.

A policy has been put into effect which requires that all such cases hereafter shall be given special examination by the war department. Heretofore, a commanding officer has had authority to approve the discharge of any one under his command. At the navy department it was said no such policy has been formulated.

Army Outlines Policy.

The war department policy, which went into effect Nov. 29, says:

"The discharge of able bodied prominent figures to permit them to participate in activities not considered to be essential to the national health, safety, or interest cannot be justified to the general public.

'While it is not intended to discriminate against any group in the matter of opportunity for discharge, cases involving discharge of nationally prominent athletes, stage, screen, radio stars, and so forth, which might occasion criticism of the war department discharge policies, will be referred to the war department for final determination."

Sports Figures Cited.

A war department source said criticism which led to the new policy had been aimed chiefly at sports figures who received discharges, principally medical, but who proved in good enough physical condition to return to strenuous athletic competition.

"What the public doesn't realize is that these fellows have suffered injuries during their playing careers which can't be seen from the stands," a spokesman said.

This policy is interpreted in athletic circles as meaning that all phases of sports, which have been bolstered by a trickle of men coming out of service, will have to get along for the rest of the war on the man power now available.

BELIEVE FRENCH PATRIOTS DIED SINGING LUSTILY

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The finding of 14 bodies with wide open mouths was accepted today as confirmation of the general belief that French patriots usually faced German firing squads singing the Marseillaise.

The bodies are those of resistance members who were shot last Aug. 17. They were discovered a few days ago in a common grave in the Fontainebleau forest. The coroner who examined the bodies said the mouths of all the victims were wide open, as tho they had been in the act of singing lustily when the executioners' bullets snuffed out their lives.

The only explanation the coroner could offer for this unusual circumstance was that the patriots went to their deaths singing the Marseillaise.

Funeral ceremonies for the victims will be held Thursday by the "Liberation Vengeance" group at Fontainebleau, near the spot where the bodies were discovered.

Andre Diethelm, minister of war, announced the creation of a special service to try to locate and identify the bodies of thousands of other patriots and members of the Maquis who were buried in unmarked graves in forests and rural districts in France.

Predicts Lublin Regime Will Form Government of Poland

Plan Land Reforms

MOSCOW, Dec. 12 (AP).—Boleslaw Berut, peasant born president of the Polish national council, predicted today that the new year would be ushered in by the formation of a provisional government of Poland dedicated to satisfying the land hunger of 8,000,000 landless peasants.

[The soviet government has sponsored the development of Berut's council with its seat at Lublin, Poland.]

Berut said the construction of the provisional government would be the major task before the 120 deputies at the next session of the national council.

"We are gathering forces for a new liberation offensive in Poland in which the Red army will be aided by Polish troops, and especially by the Polish 1st army, which already has had valuable battle experience," the 52 year old leader of the Lublin regime said. [He referred to the Polish force under Maj. Gen. Zygmunt Berling, which was raised, trained, and outfitted in Russia and has fought beside the Red army.]

Asserts London Poles Hate Reds.

"We hope that western Poland will be freed from the Germans in the next few months," he said.

Asked whether he saw any possibility of the Poles of the London exiled government resuming relations with Russia, broken since 1943, Berut replied:

"They hate the soviet union because they represent the Polish land owners and nobility under Raczkiewicz [Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, president of the London regime], who bases his authority on the 1935 constitution which set up a dictatorship. This nobility once possessed large estates in soviet territory of the Ukraine, White Russia, and Lithuania. [Pre-war Poland included areas which Russia has now incorporated into those three soviet republics.] They wish to get back these lands and therefore will intrigue constantly for a future war against the soviet union."

Berut was asked whether Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who resigned recently as premier of the London Polish regime, would be welcomed back to Poland under the prospective provisional government.

Offered Post of Premier.

"Everything depends on Mr. Mikolajczyk himself," he replied. "We have met and talked together twice in Moscow. He assured me often he agreed with the policy and work of the Polish committee of national liberation [Brut's group], but still felt himself incapable of breaking with the 1935 constitution because of certain obligations it imposed on him.

"He also said that agrarian reform, which is a most important matter, should be put into effect not now but after the war.

"He was offered the post of premier in our government, but he did not avail himself of this offer. On the contrary friends of Mikolajczyk and sympathizers of the exiled government have waged a violent struggle in Poland against the committee of national liberation."

Seeks Patriots' Help

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, president of the Polish republic, appointed tonight an acting deputy premier and three cabinet ministers inside Poland as the exiled government here sought from the homeland's underground army a new guide on policy to strengthen its shaky standing.

An announcement by the Polish government said the deputy premier and three cabinet ministers, whose names were not disclosed because of security, already were performing their duties and that all were well known members of the underground movement.

The statement said the acting deputy premier was known in the Polish underground under the pseudonym of "Sobolewski" and the three ministers as "Opolski," "Walkowicz," and "Traugutt."

Represent Three Parties.

Sobolewski also was deputy premier and government delegate in Poland in the Mikolajczyk regime.

The ministers represent three main parties which form the council of national unity in Poland—peasant, national, and Socialist.

The deputy premier, a member of the Christian Democratic Labor party, became a nonparty member when he assumed his duties.

Diplomats here expect soon an announcement that Russia has recognized the Lublin Polish council as the provisional government of Poland.

Claim French Recognize Group.

PARIS, Dec. 12 (AP).—A rumor in legislative circles here said today that one item of the Franco-Soviet agreement was recognition by France of the Lublin committee of national liberation as the provisional government of Poland.

GREEK AND CRETE CAMPAIGNS COST 40,000 MEN—EDEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12—Operations to rid Greece and Crete of German and Italian domination cost British forces some 40,000 casualties, mainly in 1941, Foreign Secretary Eden told the house of commons today.

He said nearly 500 aircraft and 120,000 tons of British merchant shipping were lost. He added that five cruisers, 13 destroyers, one sloop, three submarines, and 47 minor vessels were lost. Three battleships, one escort carrier, 12 cruisers, two destroyers, one corvette, three submarines, and a small number of minor war vessels were listed as badly damaged.

"It must be remembered," Eden said, "that in those days we were all alone against a victorious Germany and Italy and in dire peril." He said British casualties in the present fighting in Greece have been small.

Alsace Gauleiter Slain in Home by French, Report

STRASBOURG, France, Dec. 12 (AP).—Robert Wagner, Nazi gauleiter, German representative of Alsace and Baden and district Volkssturm [people's army] leader, was assassinated by Frenchmen, who cut his throat in his apartment here last week, say reports widely circulated.

GREEK PREMIER 'WELCOMES' U. S. INTERVENTION

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 12.—The Greek government would gratefully welcome any attempt by United States state department to bring the civil war to an end by diplomatic intervention, Premier George Papandreou said today in an exclusive interview.

This is the first time the leader of this British-supported government has given such a view. It indicates the extreme seriousness of this vicious revolution, which has converted Athens into a battleground and now is spreading thru Greece.

Scorn Assurances.

Leftist leaders of the guerrillas fighting the government and British forces indicated long before the revolt began that one of the main reasons they refused to disband their ELAS troops was the fear the eventual plebiscite on the return of King George would be a bayonet point affair assuring the renewal of his reign.

The leftists are certain that both the British and the present government secretly desire the king's return. They have refused to believe assurances from both that a plebiscite and any following election, which will determine the future government of Greece, will be fair. Consequently they have refused to disarm.

Papandreou was asked for his reaction if the United States, thru diplomatic representatives here, should ask the guerrillas to disarm, assuring them that any plebiscite and election to follow would be absolutely impartial and that if necessary United States troops would guard the polls to insure such fairness.

Approves Such Action.

"The proposal is important and I desire to give a responsible answer, which proves the good faith of my government," Papandreou answered. "Not only would we approve such action by the United States, but we would also be grateful for every allied presence which would guarantee the realization of general disarmament and freedom of the plebiscite and elections to follow. This is my answer."

Asked if American Ambassador Lincoln MacVeigh had come forward with any such proposal, Papandreou answered no.

BATTLE FOR FAENZA HALTS AS RAIN TURNS RIVER INTO TORRENT

ROME, Italy, Dec. 12 (AP).—The 8th army offensive aimed at Faenza, highway center, was brought to a standstill today as floods from the Apennines turned the Lamone river into a torrent. Rains raised the Lamone until it was seven to eight feet deep. Only patrol action was reported near the Lamone bridgehead south and west of Faenza. Units of the 5th army patroled the hill regions south and southeast of Bologna yesterday and engaged the Germans in heavy battles.

Peoria Rejects Plan for Commission Rule

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 12 (AP).—A proposal to adopt the commission form of city government for Peoria was defeated today in a special election. With 141 of the city's 144 precincts reported the vote was 9,139 to 7,426 against the measure.

POLISH LEADERS PLEAD WITH U.S. TO CURB STALIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Representatives of Polish fraternal and church organizations in eight eastern states today charged that Marshal Stalin, following Nazi methods, has established his own gauleiters in liberated European countries and "thus, what he failed to achieve in partnership with Adolf Hitler he is gaining in partnership with allied democracies."

The delegation, headed by Joseph Kaszubowski of Buffalo, N. Y., wound up two days of calling at the state department and on senators with a demand that the United States aid Poland by insisting that Russia observe the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

Kaszubowski said his group had received no assurances from the state department.

He said it would be folly to think that the "Red revolution" could be stopped by the medium of spheres of influence, and that it is naive to believe that Poland, Estonia, Lithuania, Hungary, and other countries could be abandoned to communism and the rest of Europe still preserved for democracy.

A jolly Christmas celebration at Mount Vernon in 1789 was described by Washington in a letter to his old aide-de-camp, David Humphreys. It expressed regret that he couldn't have been present "in the attack of Christmas pies." And huge and glorious pies they must have been, as the letter went on to say, "We had one yesterday on which all the company, tho' pretty numerous, were hardly able to make an impression."
FOR A Merry Christmas
In many homes all over the nation, the box of Martha Washington candies is almost as traditional a part of Christmas as is the tree, the turkey, and the mince pie or fruit-cake. And these fine candies have long been a favorite way to express the friendly, warm-hearted greetings of the season. We're sorry our quantities are limited for this wartime Christmas, but the famous Martha Washington quality is exactly the same.

RED ARMY RAMS THRU BUDAPEST RING OF DEFENSE

Bombs and Shells Rock Hungarian Capital.

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Burning Budapest rocked under a deluge of bombs and shells tonight as Russian storm troops broke thru its ring of defenses and fought the Germans with bayonets. Unofficial Moscow advices said the Russians had burst into the eastern suburbs.

The violence of the attack and the gloomy tone of German broadcasts indicated that the Hungarian capital's hours were numbered. There was no direct evidence as yet that the Germans were abandoning the city, which is under assault from three sides.

A war reporter for the German Transocean agency said Russian guns had been pumping shells into the capital for the last 36 hours.

Reports Fighting in Suburb.

"They fall on hotel terraces, houses, and squares and into the Danube," he said. "Flames color the gray December sky blood red."

German broadcasts said Russian planes were dropping bombs on the center of the city.

A Moscow broadcast by a correspondent for the soviet army newspaper Red Star said that a breach thru which the Russians were pouring into the industrial area northeast of Budapest "is like a gate cut in a compact wall of defenses."

Heavy German Losses.

Now that the Russians had rammed thru the defenses, "all these empty fortifications stretch out dejectedly in the rear," the correspondent added. He said enemy losses were heavy as the Germans were forced to use tactical reserves.

Moscow said the Germans had built a rigid anti-tank ring around the city on the east bank of the Danube, anchored in Ujpest on the north and stretching to the town of Csepel at the tip of the Danube Island of Csepel on the south.

Russian troops have seized Gdollo, last big railway junction and fortified town 10 miles northeast of Budapest. Other Russian forces driving northwest of Miskolc toward the Czechoslovakian border captured a communications center and mining town.

The Russians captured Locz, 36 miles northeast of Budapest, as they lengthened their front along the Slovak frontier in that sector to more than 27 miles.

FREED NATIONS SEEK CIVILIAN GOODS FROM U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 [Special].—Liberated foreign countries were disclosed today to be flooding the United States and her allies with urgent requests for a vast array of materials ranging from fish hooks to locomotives with which to build up their peace time economies even while Americans are still fighting on their battlefronts.

Some nations, having cash reserves, expect to pay for supplies, while other liberated nations expect to receive the goods without payments.

Sicily wants horseshoe nails. The Netherlands wants water pumping machinery. France wants 700 steam locomotives and Italy wants highway repair machinery. Sewing needles, ration book covers, dental equipment, pesticides, and postoffice forms for the Balkans are among the many and varied items sought for foreign use.

War Needs Come First.

The profusion of appeals was revealed by the combined production and resources board and the combined raw materials board in notifying the petitioners that allied war needs must take priority over their requests for materials to restore their shattered economies.

"Even as the United States, Britain and Canada are reaching the peak of their military and war production effort, they are being called upon to give help to again start industry within the liberated areas," the joint statement of the English-American-Canadian boards said.

"Altho allocations are being made and shopping licenses issued, the amount that can be delivered to liberated areas is severely limited by other demands on united nations' shipping and by limitation of port facilities and inland transportation in Europe. Military needs must inevitably come first."

"Shopping licenses" permit paying governments to seek more plentiful goods wherever they choose.

Seek to Fill Orders.

Despite shortages of many of the materials sought, the combined boards said they are exploring every source to find them in order to fill the requests.

Some of the appeals to the relief and rehabilitation section of the twin boards are for military uses. Locomotives have been sought for military transportation in France.

But other requests include coal mining machinery for Spitzbergen, Norway; 60,000 railway freight cars for liberated Europe, and diesel and steam power generating equipment for several areas, the report said.

The boards, which coördinate the production and economy of the English speaking allies, receive requests thru the military, the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, and—in the case of countries with cash to pay—from the liberated or exiled governments themselves. The latter include France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Norway.

ALLIES EXECUTE 8 NAZI TRAINED ITALIAN SPIES

ROME, Italy, Dec. 12 (AP).—Eight Italian spies ranging in age from 20 to 27 have been executed after conviction by allied military courts, it was announced today in a statement describing spy schools set up by Germans in occupied Italy.

The Germans use promises of large rewards, threats of blackmail and propaganda to hire spies, the announcement said, but disguise the danger.

"The Germans are well aware from the numbers of their agents who do not return that allied counter measures are effective and take a heavy toll," it said.

Tito and Premier Reach Accord on United Rule

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Agreement on the formation of a united provisional Yugoslav government and for elections to a constituent assembly was announced tonight by the Yugoslav radio. A bulletin said the agreement between Marshal Tito, commander of the national army of liberation, and Dr. Ivan Subasic, the Yugoslav premier, was reached following talks in Belgrade. The new government will consist of representatives of all peoples and of all the federal units of Yugoslavia, the bulletin said.

BRITISH TO HELP BURMA REBUILD AFTER THE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The British government is planning to help Burma meet the costs of reconstruction when the Japs are defeated, L. S. Amery, secretary for India, revealed in the house of commons today.

Replying in a debate in which members of parliament demanded an announcement of government policy and suggested the Burmese were suspicious as to British intentions, Amery said he believed when the time comes "the Burmese will welcome us as their liberators," and added, "we desire to make good what people have suffered, in part at any rate, owing to lack of our own defensive foresight."

Amery refused to commit the government to any program at present on the ground the time was not yet ripe. He said, however, that the first task would be the restoration of food, clothes, cattle, roads, docks, and agriculture.

STRIKERS END WALKOUTS IN 2 WAR PLANTS

LCM Launching Delayed at Pullman Yards.

Strikes at two war plants were settled yesterday, one after seven days' loss of work, the other after 12. Both were described as costly to war production. One walkout was called over the promotion of a Negro, the other over the refusal of the war labor board to approve a wage increase. In the latter case both the company, which had agreed to the pay boost, and the union blamed the WLB.

The seven day strike was at the Calumet Harbor shipyard of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, makers of LSM's [landing ships, medium] and PCER's [patrol escort craft, rescue.] The 12 day strike occurred at the Ramapo Ajax division of the American Brake Shoe company, 2503 Blue Island av., makers of railroad equipment for the army and lend-lease.

Pullman Strike More Serious.

The Pullman strike, altho shorter, was the more serious. It began Dec. 5 when 176 of 311 pipefitters on the day shift walked out in protest against the promotion of a Negro co-worker to group leader, a minor supervisory position.

Thereafter, more than 700 other workers — electricians, cranemen, riggers, and burners—quit work in sympathy. About 2,400 men are employed on the day shift. Several hundred returned Dec. 8, perhaps under influence of the Pearl Harbor anniversary. Yesterday the remaining strikers met at 215 E. 115th st., and renewed their demands for the demotion of the Negro. The company refused. The strikers shortly afterward voted to return to work this morning.

Says Promotion Was Merited.

A company spokesman said the strikers had no fair grievance for their action. He said the Negro was entitled to promotion "on merit and seniority as provided by the CIO steelworkers union contract." Most of the men who struck are CIO members.

Another spokesman said the strike impaired ship production. "The actual loss of LSM's and PCER's will not be known for several weeks," he said. "But we do know that a scheduled launching of an LSM set for the next few days had to be rescheduled a week later." The LSM's are sorely needed in the Pacific invasions.

Board Decision Called Wrong.

The Ramapo Ajax strike was called Nov. 30 by 170 workers after the regional WLB had refused to approve a slight wage increase agreed upon by the company and members of the independent union who work there. Yesterday George B. Christensen, attorney for the company; Val Blazic, president of the union; George Alongi, union bargaining agent, and Edwin R. Hackett, union attorney, appeared before the board.

Christensen said the "board did wrong" in failing to grant the wage increase, an action that he said was contrary to decisions it had made for employes of other plants of the company in Chicago. Blazic and Alongi accused the WLB of favoring AFL and CIO unions to the detriment of the independents.

Philip Marshall, vice chairman of the regional WLB, promised to entertain an immediate appeal from its decision if the strike were called off. The strikers, after voting to return to work this morning, said an appeal will be filed.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY REJECTS BAN ON RED PARTITION OF REICH

BY E. E. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The British Labor party today bowed at its annual meeting to the wishes of its executive board and went on record as not opposing Russian views regarding territorial changes in eastern Europe.

The party rejected a motion to denounce "schemes for dismemberment" of Germany. It acted after being told by Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, that the party's executives were reluctant to tread on the toes of Marshal Stalin of Russia regarding frontiers. Stalin had made it clear, Dalton said, that his government looked forward to territorial adjustments in the east.

The Labor conference passed a resolution calling for disarmament of Germany and Japan and the imposition of reparation and restitution duties on the German and Japanese people. Deputy Prime Minister Attlee said:

"We cannot acquit the German and Japanese peoples for the crimes committed in their name." He urged formation of a world organization to preserve peace, with Britain, the United States, and Russia playing major roles.

PUBLISHERS ASK PRINTERS' UNION TO ALTER RULES

Representatives of the nation's newspaper publishers voted yesterday to request the International Typographical union to repeal or make mutually satisfactory interpretations of certain of its legislation.

The particular legislation mentioned was enacted at the ITU's 1944 conventioin and, according to the publishers, "vests in the ITU executive council the one-sided right to interpret and to abrogate local contracts entered into in good faith by publishers and local unions."

Represented at the meeting were the American Newspaper Publishers association, the Inland Daily Press association, the New England Daily Newspaper association, the Southern Newspaper Publishers association, and the Pacific Northwest Newspaper association.

YANKS FREE 1,000 ALLIED SOLDIERS IN SAAR PRISON

SARREGUEMINES, France, Dec. 12 (AP).—The first sizable group of prisoners of war recaptured from the Germans was in American hands today. There were nearly 1,000 Russian, Polish, and Yugoslav soldiers left behind in a prison camp hospital when troops of the United States 35th infantry division threw the Nazis out of this borderland city. The group included Poles captured in the first battle of Warsaw in 1939.

The first thing they asked for when a platoon headed by Sgt. Michael J. Pagliaro, 4909 Patterson st., Chicago, burst open the gates to the barbed wire inclosure was American coffee. It was promptly delivered after the last Nazi guards were eliminated.

WALKOUT OVER, MANY ST. LOUIS THEATERS DARK

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 12 (AP).—Almost half of the St. Louis metropolitan area motion picture theaters failed to reopen tonight altho an 11 day walkout of film exchange employes and projectionists ended early today. Inability of many of the 80 closed theaters to obtain new films immediately was said to have caused the delay.

The walkouts by film exchange union locals were in protest to delivery of films to three St. Louis county theaters which employ one nonunion projectionist each. Members were ordered back to work today by Felix Snow, international vice president.

WARD OFFICIALS CALLED TO WLB STRIKE HEARING

Also Ordered to Explain Defiance of Board.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—A threat of strikes at Montgomery Ward stores thruout the nation was raised tonight as the war labor board summoned company and union officials at a hearing Thursday at 2:30 p. m. on strikes at four Detroit stores.

Samuel Wolchok, president of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes of America, announced that the Montgomery Ward organizing committee had been called into emergency session in Washington Thursday at 10 a. m.

Wolchok said the purpose was "to determine policy regarding the current strike situation in Detroit as it affects Montgomery Ward workers thruout the country." A union source said that the policy conceivably could be a request for supporting strikes.

Summoned to Hearing.

The WLB summons to company and union officials was the latest development in a long series of actions involving Montgomery Ward.

The board, it was asserted, will seek to determine why its orders have been ignored. The company has refused to accept orders directing maintenance of membership, arbitration, check-off of union dues, seniority, and back wages.

The board, in addition to scheduling the hearing in the Detroit strike, said it also had directed the mail order house, headed by Sewell Avery of Chicago, to explain on Friday at 10:30 a. m. why it had failed to comply with orders in six other cities.

Follows Seizure Pattern.

The other cases involve Montgomery Ward stores or plants in Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Cal., St. Paul, Minn., Chicago, Denver, Colo., and Jamaica, N. Y.

The action followed the board's usual pattern of procedure in noncompliance cases, leading to seizure by the army if the orders are not carried thru.

The WLB proceeded in this way last May before the army moved into Ward's Chicago plant, forcibly removing Avery from his office.

The issue in that strike was the company's refusal to put into effect maintenance of membership for the same mail order union. The company contended then that the union lacked a majority in its plant. It forced a national labor relations board election, which the union subsequently won.

UAW Backs Strike.

The Detroit strike began Saturday and won the backing of the CIO auto workers, whose secretary-treasurer, George Addes, earlier today appealed to the White House for government seizure of the Montgomery Ward properties.

Meanwhile, the four Detroit stores remained open. A union spokesman, asserting 1,500 of 2,200 employes joined the walkout, said only "bobby soxers, working part time, remained at work." A company spokesman contended a majority of the regular personnel was on the job.

Linked with the Detroit case are those involving 260 employes at the Denver plant and 250 workers at Jamaica. The issues at those two branches are the same as at Detroit except for minimum weekly rates.

The number of employes, issues, and date of the board order in the other cases:

Portland—450 employes, represented by AFL teamsters; maintenance of membership and wage rates; regional board directive affirmed by national board Oct. 30, 1943.

San Rafael—52 employes, AFL retail clerks; San Francisco regional board on May 1, 1944, directed maintenance of membership, wage rates, overtime, vacations, no-strike, no-lockout clause, and minor issues.

175 in Chicago Case.

Chicago—175 employes in printing department and display factory; June 16, 1944, directive ordered 5 cent hourly increase for employes with company since Oct. 2, 1942, and 3 cents for those hired after that date, maintenance of membership, seniority, and grievance machinery.

St. Paul—1,091 employes, CIO International Longshoremen's union; March 14, 1944, Chicago regional board directed seniority promotions, 7.5 cent hourly increase, and minimum rate of 50 cents per hour. The national board also directed maintenance of membership April 11, 1944, and on Nov. 21 the union reported no compliance.

ARMY TO 'TAKE' LOOP TO BOOST WAR BOND SALE

Machine gun bursts and rifle fire will be heard at State and Madison sts. tomorrow noon in a 20 minute sample of the army's new E war bond show, "Here's Your Infantry." One thousand troops led by Maj. Wayne King and an 80 piece band will march in a State st. parade from Wacker dr. to Congress st.

Infantry tactics and weapons will be demonstrated briefly at State and Madison sts. The show's first performance will be given at 8 p. m. tomorrow in Grant park. It includes the destruction of a Jap pillbox by bazookas, mortars, and flame throwers. The show will be presented every afternoon and night in a different neighborhood thru Dec. 22.

Francis M. Knight, war loan drive chairman of Chicago and Cook county, believes the army show will increase local sales of small denomination E bonds. The latest figures yesterday, he said, reported E bond sales at $55,996,000, only 52.4 per cent of quota. Corporations exceeded their quota by 10.5 per cent with a total of $664,116,000.

Walsh. Both left the hospital together yesterday.

Mrs. Guennewig's baby is a boy, John Thomas. Mrs. Leszczynski's baby is a girl, Adrienne. Both have brown hair and blue eyes. Both mothers' husbands are overseas.

BRIGGS AND BOHN PLANTS CLOSED BY LABOR ROWS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 12 (AP).—Labor disputes today closed the Outer dr. plant of the Briggs Manufacturing company, making 1,450 workers idle, and plant No. 3 of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation, affecting about 500 more.

The walkout at Briggs followed an argument over the transfer of an inspector. The dispute delayed production of ball turrets for bombers.

Neither Bohn officials nor leaders of local 208, UAW-CIO, were able to assign a reason for the walkout at the Bohn plant. The union called a meeting for Wednesday to determine the issues involved.

Transport Strike in Reading.

Reading, Pa., Dec. 12 (AP).—A surprise work stoppage by 220 trolley and bus operators paralyzed public transportation today in this war production center of 111,000, inconveniencing thousands of war workers. The operators were members of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes.

The stoppage also affected nearby Lebanon, a city of 25,500 serviced by the same company.

The union, which defeated an independent group in a collective bargaining election several months ago, had asked the WLB to approve 20 cents an hour increases in the operators' present wages of 80 cents hourly, but the request was denied.

CROMIE'S A REAL SANTA CLAUS TO YANKS' PARENTS

Tribune Story Tells Them Sons Are Returning.

A merry Christmas is in sight for the families of American soldiers mentioned by Robert Cromie in a dispatch printed in yesterday's TRIBUNE. The story disclosed that the men were on their way from France to the United States for a 30 day furlough. It gave friends and relatives of the fighters their first information that the men soon would be home.

Carl E. Moen, 5508 Adams st., whose son, Corp. Clare Moen, was mentioned in the dispatch, said, "We're very excited about it. His mother is in the loop shopping for some things before he gets home. She wants to fix up his room before he gets here."

Mother "Thrilled to Death."

Mrs. Harry C. Lassen, 949 N. Humphrey av., Oak Park, mother of Sgt. Warren Lassen, exclaimed, "We're thrilled to death. It's such a surprise we haven't made any plans yet."

She said the family recently received a letter from Sgt. Lassen, but he had not mentioned a furlough. Cromie's story also gave the soldier's family its first information that he had been promoted from corporal to sergeant. In addition to his parents, a sister, Marjorie, 13, is excitedly awaiting the soldier's homecoming.

Corp. Robert S. Harmon's furlough trip to the United States was important news to his brother, Walter R. Harmon, Oak Park policeman. When a Tribune reporter told him the news, Harmon said he would immediately notify his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harmon of 1039 S. Grove av., Oak Park, and the soldier's wife, Francella, of 230 N. Mason av.

Father Seriously Ill.

"His father is seriously ill and Robert's arrival may help him," the soldier's brother said. "He tried to get home before, but couldn't make it. I'm sure his presence will help his father."

Others interested in Harmon's furlough are four brothers, Walter, George, Leo, and John, and a sister, Marie Harmon, who is a movie actress in Hollywood, Cal.

All Ripon, Wis., was in a dither when it learned that the home town hero, Capt. Jack Scott Gerrie, winner of the distinguished service cross, the bronze star, the croix de guerre, and the Purple Heart, is en route to his home on leave.

Plan to Join His Fiancee.

His mother, Mrs. Chester A. Gerrie, said she and his father, factory manager of Ripon Foods, Inc., plan to spend the Christmas holidays with the captain's fiancee, Lt. [j. g.] Gerene Verheyden, WAVE officer, stationed in Washington, D. C.

"Now, of course, we're hoping he'll be able to join us there," Mrs. Gerrie said. "We first got the news this morning when some one read the story in THE TRIBUNE and telephoned us from Milwaukee. After that we got several calls from Chicago. This surely will be a very merry Christmas. God has been good to us. I wish I could share this gift with all mothers everywhere."

$5,500 FIRE DESTROYS HOME.

The home and furnishings of Elmer Peterson, 2332 Sherman av., one-half mile west of North Chicago in Lake county, were destroyed by fire yesterday while Peterson and his wife were away. The Petersons said that their loss was approximately $5,500.

Survivor

Lt. (j. g.) William E. Lynch with Mrs. Lynch in the North Western station yesterday.

Spending two days and two nights clinging to a life raft, which carries so many wounded men that you can't get aboard, while Jap ships hurl shells at the raft part of the time isn't anything a returned naval officer wants to talk about very much.

That's the verdict of Lt. [j. g.] William E. Lynch, 24, one of the 150 survivors of the escort carrier Gambier Bay, sunk by Japanese surface fire and bombs in the action near Leyte on Oct. 25. Lt. Lynch returned with his wife, Elizabeth Mary, to their home at 1515 N. Linder av. yesterday after a train journey from the west coast.

After 48 hours in the water during which they ate only a few malted milk tablets, small landing craft picked up Lynch and his fellow survivors about 15 miles off the coast of Suma. Five wounded men died during the ordeal. Lynch was in charge of the 5 inch gun battery on the carrier when it was sunk together with another escort carrier and a light carrier.

CHICAGO MARINE WALKS INTO JAP FIRE FIVE TIMES

Heroic exploits of Chicago marines were recounted last night by Maj. Gen. William H. Rupertus of the United States marines, who succeeded Lt. Gen. Vandegrift as commanding general of the 1st marine division, at the annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers association in the Stevens hotel. At the same time he lauded Illinois manufacturers for the kind of materials they are sending to the fighting forces—then made a plea for more of them.

Gen. Rupertus, himself a hero of Guadalcanal and other battles, was unstinting in his praise of the Chicago marines.

He told of Pvt. Emil Robert Cigoi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cigoi, 2235 Huron st., a member of the crack 5th regiment of the 1st marine division.

Brother on Bataan.

"Bob Cigoi was a tall, good looking man of 29 with the poise and appeal of the Hollywood type marine," the general said. "He was a golf professional when Bataan fell. And Bataan meant something to him because his kid brother was there.

"Just before we shoved off for Peleliu, Bob, who had served in other engagements, volunteered as a flame thrower to lead the assault on the pill boxes we knew were there. His equipment was lost in the surf, but that didn't stop Cigoi. He had had long training with the use of explosives, so he went ahead as a demolitions man.

"Five times his outfit was pinned down by automatic fire from concrete emplacements. Five times Cigoi went ahead of the riflemen, ahead of the flame throwers, to blast the Jap gunners out of the paths of the marines. Five times he went forward, across that bullet swept coral, alone. Five times he set his explosives and came back safely.

Found Besides Jap Gun.

"Back at the command post Cigoi made his report. It was a highly unusual report, ending with this remark: 'No matter how many I get I'll never get even. I'm going out again.' Bob Cigoi did go on again the next day. They found him beside the twisted wire and cement of a Japanese machine gun position."

The general told of the heroism of 1st Lt. William A. Looney, 1411 Arthur av., at Natamo Point, east of Cape Gloucester. Looney brought his two light machine guns up and slugged it out at point blank range with a Jap 75 that was firing cannister. Of the 12 marines who manned and supported the two machine guns, Lt. Looney was the only one to walk away after the Jap gun was silenced.

Two Sacrifice Themselves.

Gen. Rupertus also told the stories of two other great marines, Corp. Lewis Kenneth Bausell, and 2d Lt. Carlton B. Rouh, both of whom covered with their bodies Japanese grenades to keep them from exploding among comrades. Lt. Rooney was a witness of Rouh's heroic act on Peleliu.

Lauding the war goods made in the Chicago district, Gen. Rupertus urged that every one do his part to produce more weapons and material, so urgently needed on all fronts.

LT. MARY O'CONNOR TO RUN NAVY'S AIR EVACUATION SCHOOL

Lt. Mary O'Connor.

Lt. [j. g.] Mary Ellen O'Connor of the navy nurse corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Connor, 1423 Warner av., has been designated flight nurse in charge of the navy school for air evacuation of casualties, establishment of which was announced yesterday by the navy department in Washington, D. C. Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntyre, surgeon general of the navy, said the school would be started at the naval air station at Alameda, Cal., this month, with a class of 24 nurses and 24 pharmacists' mates. Lt. O'Connor is a former flight instructress and stewardess for United Air Lines and is said to hold the record among American women for hours and miles in the air—2,500,000 miles and 8,800 hours.

Shooting Landlord Fined for Terrorizing Tenant

Alfred J. Basile, 37, of 1508 N. Fairfield av. was fined $100 yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan of Municipal court, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Basile's second floor tenant, Louis S. Nagy. Nagy complained that on two occasions Basile fired shots near his apartment. Basile, he said, wants him to move. Judge Caplan set Feb. 5 for a ruling upon a motion to vacate the fine.

VARIED MARKETS WAIT WAR END TO TRY SYNTHETICS

Many New Uses Found in Laboratory.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—America's synthetic rubber will open a vast new field for post-war enterprise in manufacturing a variety of rubber products ranging from diapers to office flooring. From private industry and from government offices here come reports of research and development now under way in preparation for new and better civilian goods.

James F. Clark, head of the rubber division of the war production board, said a large number of companies are receiving allocations of synthetics for experimentation. Synthetic rubber is plentiful for all necessary uses. Allocations up to 200 pounds a month are allowed for research and, under the limitations including man power regulations, allotments are being made for civilian goods. The tire shortage is not caused by any lack of synthetics. It is caused mainly by shortages of man power and tire making facilities.

Promise New Wealth.

"The synthetics promise thousands of new jobs for Americans," said Clark. "They promise new wealth for the national economy."

Industry does not see any limits to the possibilities from this new product. Col. Bradley Dewey, who resigned as rubber director Sept. 1, said while meeting with manufacturers in New York last week that consumption of artificial and natural rubber after the war is likely to be 50 to 100 per cent greater than before the war. He cited two factors:

1. The American plants, built in war time with 750 million dollars of taxpayers' money, will stabilize prices. A manufacturer of rubber products will be able to calculate the costs of his raw material. The public as well as the manufacturer will be protected from exorbitant prices for rubber occasionally effected by the Dutch and British cartel in the years between the two world wars.

Serves Many Uses.

2. Synthetics can be made with a variety of physical and chemical properties adapted to special uses. Certain synthetics are better for some purposes than natural rubber. In passenger car tires synthetic is now rated as good as natural rubber and the industry is working toward manufacture of a heavy truck and bus tire without the present requirement for a portion of natural latex.

According to Dr. Gustav Egloff of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Chemists, one company has produced 12,000 types of synthetic rubber, 200 of which have post-war uses.

He estimated laboratories have evolved about 25,000 types.

"The adaptability of synthetics to particular uses," he said, "will improve as experience is gained in manufacturing.

"One of the latest developments is heat conducting rubber. This material is in use as de-icer on airplane wings, in temperature control equipment, in shoes and floors to prevent sparks which are common causes of explosions in hospitals and in plants handling inflammable materials.

It Eliminates Vibration.

"An enormous market can develop for synthetic rubbers to eliminate vibration in airplanes, motor vehicles, trains, and street cars.

"Synthetic rubber is here to stay and we have only started developing types for new uses. It will be competitive with natural rubber not only on a quality but also on a price basis."

At du Pont's, in Wilmington, Del., spokesmen for the chemical corporation predicted wide usage of synthetic for floor covering and for upholstery, mattresses, and pillows. This company in 1932 pioneered neoprene, one of the common synthetics, but the development of civilian products was just getting underway when research was turned to war output.

After the war, according to du Pont, neoprene will be found in many articles of clothing and household equipment. In girdles, it is said to be resistant to laundering and perspiration, characteristics also desirable for suspenders, garters, elastic tops for stockings, and elastic for children's garments.

New Uses for Neoprene.

Synthetics will coat light weight fabrics for baby pants, crib sheets and mattress covers. Du Pont also predicts bottle nipples will be made of neoprene.

"Even when natural rubber becomes available again after the war," said the company official, "neoprene's unusual properties are expected to keep it in the forefront for a great many applications in industry, in the sporting goods field, in clothing, and in the home."

America's war born synthetic industry has a capacity of a million tons a year. Before the war, imports of natural rubber approximated 600,000 tons a year. Both will be used after the war, with price probably being an effective factor in determining the relative volumes. Synthetic, from the more economical plants, is less costly than the average pre-war price of natural rubber.

VETERAN OF 8 RAIDS ON JAPAN TELLS HOW B-29 FOILS ATTACK

Maj. Gust Askounis.

Maj. Gust Askounis, 26, a former Lindblom High school boy who has eight missions over Japan to his credit and who is now on leave at his home, 3834 W. 63d pl., yesterday described admiringly the B-29 Super Fortress he has piloted safely over thousands of miles of enemy held territory.

Its speed and fire power are so great, he said, that it is able to take care of itself without fighter escort. He told how Jap fighter pilots have abandoned their plan of passing and turning headon into the bomber because its speed brings it out of the danger zone before the maneuver can be completed.

Maj. Askounis went overseas last April and has been stationed in the China-India-Burma theater. He holds the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with oak leaf cluster, and the CBI theater ribbon with three battle stars. He is married and has a 15 month old daughter.

LANGLIE NAMES MAGNUSON TO SENATE VACANCY

Olympia, Wash., Dec. 12 (AP).—Republican Gov. Arthur B. Langlie appointed Rep. Magnuson [D.] today to serve the unexpired term of Sen. Bone [D., Wash.], who resigned Nov. 13 to take a federal judgeship.

Magnuson was elected Nov. 7 to succeed Bone and would have taken office as senator next January in any event.

Langlie said the appointment was "based entirely upon the possibility" that his state would benefit thru putting Magnuson ahead of other new senators in seniority for committee appointments.

CIO PAPER SEES PERIL IN LINK OF HILLMAN TO REDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—A prominent CIO publication was on record today "now that the election is over" as admitting that disaster for the entire labor movement will result from a continuance of Sidney Hillman's coöperation with communistic forces.

The Wage Earner, official organ of the Association of Catholic Trade Unions, Detroit chapter, in its latest issue, conceded that the danger of Hillman's methods had been minimized by labor papers during the Presidential campaign lest politicians "distort and exploit what we say."

"The evidence wasn't great enough to support the wild charges that the CIO Political Action committee was a Communist front," the paper said in an editorial. "But it is also a fact which cannot be denied that Sidney Hillman and the top PAC leadership opposed exclusion of the communistic elements.

"It is also a fact that in the New York American Labor party, Hillman and the PAC openly adopted the extremely dangerous policy of accepting Communist aid and using the Communists."

Hearing of Mother Who Left 2 Alone Postponed

Mrs. Helen Powers, 21, of 517 W. 26th st., arrested for leaving her two children, Patricia Ann, 4, and John, 2, home alone from 8 p. m. to 12 p. m. Monday while she was at a show, told Judge Francis Borrelli in Domestic Relations court yesterday that she had expected her husband home from work by 8:30 p. m. She was charged with contributing to the dependency of minors. Judge Borrelli continued the case to Dec. 19.

HEROIC STORY OF FLAMING DEATH ON A DESTROYER

Ensign Tells of Battle in Philippines.

[By telephone to the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Dec. 12.—When Vice Adm. Oldendorf's fleet lay across Surigao straits in the darkness and wiped out a Japanese task group coming up from the Sulu sea to attack our Leyte forces last month the destroyer Alfred W. Grant got caught between the two fleets. She came out badly damaged and crippled, with casualties lying mangled on the deck and burned in the engine room.

But the Grant came back, and her story is told today in a report by Ensign Tom Ham of Atlanta, Ga., her gunnery officer. It is one of the rare occasions when the navy has allowed the telling in such stark detail of the damage done a ship in combat.

Live steam volcanoed into the ship's boiler room, ammunition went off, the steering control was gone, and the Grant, lying between the American and Japanese guns, swerved erratically while damage parties tried to bring her under control.

Ship's Doctor Killed.

One repair party was wiped out and the ship's doctor was killed. The engineer was wounded; officers and men were lying about wounded by shrapnel and burned by steam.

The Grant, with other ships, was on a torpedo mission, meeting the enemy force of battleships and cruisers just as our own battleships were to open fire. Ensign Ham told how the order came and the torpedoes were on their way.

"Exactly two minutes before the torpedoes were to reach their target," he said, "it happened. There was a series of low, quick sounds like split second thunder, each cut off by a dull flash. Geysers of water leaped up from both sides of the Grant, spewing over the bridge.

Shrapnel Sprays Deck.

"There followed a sickening crunching sound, then a blast. The ship seemed to pause and shudder. Fires broke out, then more splashes intermingled with the screams of injured men.

"We were right in the middle of the line of fire. Shrapnel was spraying the deck. Shells were landing everywhere. We were down by the bow and listing heavily to port.

"It may have been five minutes, it may have been a year, but just as suddenly as it had started the firing ceased. The steam shut off. There was an eerie silence broken only by low groans from here and there on the dark decks. Then cryptic reports began pouring up to the bridge over the remaining ship's phones."

The messages said repair party No. 2 had been wiped out; there is a fire at .40 MM gun No. 4; several men are trapped in one of the fire rooms; compartment flooded with live steam; 10 men dead on the port side amidship; a man with both legs shot away lying back aft; another man with an arm gone is lying on the superstructure deck.

"Then urgent calls began pouring in for the doctor," Ensign Ham continued. "But the doctor, Lt. [j. g.] Charles A. Mathieu of Portland, Ore., was dead. So was one of the corpsmen. The only man left in the medical department was Pharmacists Mate W. H. Swain Jr.

"With the whole mess dumped in his lap, Swain set up an emergency battle dressing station and directed all first aid work—a boy of 20 handling a job big enough for a score of doctors.

"They hauled up the engineer from below. He was burned black. They rigged a huge compress to hold him together and covered his charred body. When he kept asking what time it was, the men kept telling him for hours that it was still night but that dawn would come soon. He died without ever knowing he was blind.

Carry Up Shells.

"While Swain, helped by others, patched up the men, the repair parties returned to the job of patching up the ship. Gunner's mates plunged down into the ship, groped for heavy shells, and lugged them up slippery ladders to heave them over the side. Engineers dived down into the flooded bilges and closed the seacocks thru which water was gushing in. Others went into the compartments, chin deep in water and sticky black oil, to stuff mattresses in shell holes below the water line and rig emergency patches.

"R. H. Parker, machinist's mate 1st class of Rocky Mount, N. C., saved the lives of at least six men. He ran forward thru a hail of shrapnel and shut off the valves securing the steam and fuel supplies to the lower compartment. Then he went into the steamy fireroom to bring up wounded.

Cuts Off Mate's Foot.

"Parker could tell you how it is to crawl over a pile of burned flesh that used to be your shipmates. He could tell you how it is to have two helpless shipmates, burned black and unrecognizable, look up at you from a red hot steel deck and ask you to drag them off to where they would stop burning.

"Parker could tell you how it is to whip out your sheath knife and finish cutting off the smashed and dangling foot of a shipmate, then rig a torniquet of your belt in order to try and keep some of the blood in him. He might be able to describe the sickening splash when he tossed the foot over the side."

There were other heroes on the Grant that morning. Some of them came back and some of them didn't. When the light came the Grant was still helpless in the water and eight enemy ships had been sunk. Our vessels came to the Grant's aid and she was tacked up and brought home for repairs.

The crew just held her together, Ensign Ham said, adding that "it is men like that who'll take her out to fight again."

CHINESE DRIVE ON IN KWANGSI; TAKE RAIL TOWN

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 12 (AP).—Chinese troops, advancing a dozen miles into Kwangsi province down the Kwelchow-Kwangsi railway, captured the railway town of Nantan and the nearby town of Mangchang today, the Chinese high command announced.

The Japanese, ousted from Kweichow after an ambitious invasion of that province, are retreating toward Hochih, 25 miles farther down the railway, the Chinese said, after having suffered heavy losses.

An American bulletin said close air support was being given to the advancing Chinese, with the enemy being bombed out of strong points and then strafed in the open. While the Chinese took heart from their continuing sucesses on that southern front, they were pulling in troops from the north to meet an anticipated massive renewal of the Japanese effort.

WHY THOUSANDS OF DOCTORS have prescribed this for BAD COUGHS

Acts AT ONCE To Bring RELIEF!

For years thousands upon thousands of Doctors' Prescriptions called for Pertussin to relieve coughs — bronchial, croupy, and night coughs—due to colds. This is the same effective yet inexpensive Pertussin you can get today from your drugstore.

Pertussin brings quick relief because it's scientifically prepared to work internally. It acts at once to relieve your coughing spell and to increase natural secretions in the respiratory tract in order to soothe dry, irritated membranes. It loosens sticky phlegm so that it is more easily raised.

Pertussin is entirely free from opiates, chloroform, and creosote. Safe for both old and young—even small children. All drugstores.

CHICAGOAN AWARDED D. F. C. FOR EXPLOIT IN PLOESTI FORAY

S Sgt. W. A. Woeslaw.

Staff Sgt. W. A. Woeslaw, 20, top turret gunner on a Liberator bomber, was looking directly at the bomber off his right wing after a raid on the Ploesti [Rumania] oil fields, when it disintegrated before his eyes. The wing of Woeslaw's ship sheared thru the wreckage of its companion plane, which had received a direct hit with an anti-aircraft shell.

"Our plane wasn't damaged," Sgt. Woeslaw said yesterday.

Woeslaw and the other members of his crew were awarded the distinguished flying cross for this raid. The sergeant, whose home is at 3746 S. Kedzie av., also won the air medal with three oak leaf clusters after completing 51 bombing missions.

Sgt. Woeslaw, home on furlough, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Woeslaw. His uncle, Emil Bourgeois, is a mailing room employe of THE TRIBUNE.

ARMY COOK GETS A MESS OF 8 JAPS ON PALAU ISLES

Corp. Nickolas Buonadonna, 29, of Chicago Heights, a former steel worker, did not think he would get a chance to shoot many Japs when the army made him a cook, but the army disclosed yesterday that he did as well as most riflemen and machine gunners in 17 days on the Palau Islands.

He killed eight Japanese soldiers, including two with one hand grenade on the night of Oct. 4, when the Japs were trying to worm close enough to throw grenades into the Americans' foxholes.

After Buonadonna killed two Japs with one grenade, one of his buddies threw a grenade that hit a coconut tree and bounced back into Buonadonna's foxhole. Buonadonna tossed it out again, but lost his right hand when it exploded a few feet from him. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Buonadonna of 1535 Hanover st., Chicago Heights.

HIRAM WALKER'S GIN

Not yet but soon your dealer will be able to offer you Hiram Walker's Gin . . . and make the following statement:

It is gin made with the same imported botanical ingredients used in the making of Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.

And between Repeal and Pearl Harbor, Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Pre-War Supply

To produce the gin quality that won this pre-war preference, Hiram Walker established contacts with plantations in China, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Saxony, Spain—and other sources of top-grade "aromatic botanicals" essential for fine gin. And Hiram Walker purchased abundantly in the best crop years.

As a result of this long-term policy, Hiram Walker always had a treasured supply, years and years ahead of requirements. It had such a supply in February 1942 when gin distilling was suspended in favor of war production.

Hiram Walker has this supply today . . . carefully guarded. It is sufficient in quantity to assure pre-war quality until peace permits new importations of the rare herbs and roots and berries that are distilled with American grain spirits to produce Hiram Walker's Gin.

THIS IS NORTH WESTERN'S "PAL" HOLLAND

CHICAGO NORTH WESTERN SYSTEM

On a 5½-mile stretch of double track, just outside of Norway, Iowa, Section Foreman Arthur M. (Pal) Holland keeps himself and his crew mighty busy. Theirs is one of the important jobs of railroading. For this piece of main line, like all other "North Western" track, must be kept in perfect condition.

Significantly, "Pal" Holland has five sons who went into service, all five former "North Western" employes. And a grand lot they are! There's Cyril, in the Field Artillery, now in the Southwest Pacific. And Sergeants Leon and Arthur, both fighting in France—Leon with the Engineers, Arthur in a Gun Battalion. Creighton, too, is in France, with the Infantry.

Finally, there's Blaine, who enlisted in the Navy. A medical discharge brought him back to Norway, so once again he's a member of the "North Western" family, working as a section laborer.

When a "North Western" man steps out of his working clothes and into Uncle Sam's uniform, we admire him for it. But when five of them, all from the same family, don fighting garb, it's a story well worth telling. Naturally, we're proud of the Hollands. They're typical of legions of Americans, each fighting in his way to speed the day of total victory.

SENATE REJECTS F. D. R. PLEA FOR SEAWAY, 56-25

Passes River and Harbor Bill Without It.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Disregarding a last minute appeal from President Roosevelt for approval of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, the senate today defeated the proposal by a vote of 56 to 25.

The President's support of the project was in the form of a telegram to Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.], sponsor of the St. Lawrence measure, who read it to the senate in the closing minutes of the debate. Aiken said he had asked for the President's views on the measure.

"Of course, I want action as soon as possible on the St. Lawrence seaway," the President telegraphed Aiken. "It is logical and inevitable. The quicker the better."

Navigation Bill Passed.

The St. Lawrence project had been proposed by Aiken as an amendment to the rivers and harbors bill, which provides for postwar projects costing 498 million dollars and which was passed by a voice vote shortly after the St. Lawrence amendment defeat. The measure, already passed by the house, goes to a house-senate conference committee, which will consider amendments added by the senate.

Among the authorizations in the bill was a sum of 25 million dollars for the Illinois waterway and Indiana Harbor canal.

Aiken's amendment would have given congressional authorization to a 1941 agreement between the United States and Canada for construction of a seaway, dams, hydroelectric installations, and other works on the International rapids section of the St. Lawrence. The project would cost 421 million dollars, of which the United States would put up 277 million.

Bill Sponsor Opposes Seaway.

In today's debate on the St. Lawrence amendment, Sen. Overton [D., La.], sponsor of the rivers and harbors bill, said it was futile to incorporate an international arrangement in a bill providing only for river and harbor development within the United States. He argued that the seaway proposal should be the subject of a treaty.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], usually a staunch supporter of Mr. Roosevelt's policies, also spoke against the Aiken amendment, saying he was concerned with the question of whether the subject should be considered as a treaty.

Explaining that the St. Lawrence agreement would give Great Britain perpetual navigation rights on the Great Lakes, Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.] warned against hasty consideration of the measure.

Aiken, who was winding up five days of argument in favor of the seaway project, accused the opponents of the measure of using technicalities to block the St. Lawrence proposal. He said private utilities that want the exclusive right to develop electric power on the St. Lawrence were behind the effort to kill his amendment.

ZOOKEEPER GETS FAREWELL FROM 'WILD' FRIENDS

Bushman, the gorilla, and other wild animals that were Floyd S. Young's charges during his years as keeper of the Lincoln park zoo wouldn't leave him last night, even after he left his office for the last time.

When Young, who is retiring in advance of his 65th birthday next Jan. 7, stepped into the Illinois Athletic club for a chat with friends he was greeted by a cacophony of roars, growls, shrieks, and squeals from an array of wild and not so wild animals.

His friends, gathered to surprise him with a farewell party, were wearing papier mache masks. Most of the guests were Chicago park district executives. George T. Donogue, general superintendent, wore the head of a monkey; Blaine Hoover was disguised as Bushman, Thomas Nash was a hippopotamus, Robert MacArthur was Felix the cat, and Dr. E. J. Young, a close friend, was Mickey Mouse.

Before the evening was over, a waitress [Hoover] had caused Young to jump out of his seat by dropping a tray of tinware and had planted three large lipstick imprints on his forehead. A live, 4 foot California bull snake was presented to Young, who plans to close his home at 1504 Olive st. and move with his wife to the southwest where he can pursue his hobby—collecting rocks.

Flying Boat Mars Soars 33,600 Miles in Month

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Dec. 12 (AP).—The navy's gigantic flying boat Mars flew more than 33,600 miles in November, breaking all its previous records, the Pacific wing of the naval air transport service said today. Seven round trips between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands were made during the month, and more than 300,000 pounds of cargo were carried.

EXPECTS PLANES WILL SOON GO AS FAST AS SOUND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—The speed of sound soon may be attained by navy fighter planes, Rear Adm. D. C. Ramsey, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics reported today. This would mean that navy fighter planes would exceed 700 miles an hour, far in excess of the top speed of any known enemy planes.

"It is anticipated," said Ramsey in a report to the house naval committee, "that in the near future the top speeds of fighter aircraft in service will approach the sonic range, and be accompanied by further marked increases in rates of climb and service ceilings."

In addition to the increased speeds, Ramsey reported performance of all types of planes has been stepped up and better armament and armor, self-sealing fuel tanks, more powerful engines, better electronic devices, and other equipment "improve vastly the ability of each type to carry out its designated mission."

PASS 2.6 BILLION FLOOD CONTROL AND ROAD BILL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—Compromise versions of a $1,000,000,000 flood control bill and a $1,673,000,000 post-war road construction measure were passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

The two measures had been passed previously by both branches but differences over amounts and procedures had tied them up in conference.

Neither bill appropriates funds. In the case of the flood control bill, the projects are authorized for construction after the war. Later congressional action would be necessary to make the money available. The measure retains, provisions giving states the right of review over federal projects.

The flood control bill embraces a broad plan for development of the Missouri river valley prepared by the army engineers and the reclamation bureau.

TRICKED AGAIN.

A review of the international air conference held recently in Chicago will show that the British lost a vital advantage when they failed to get this country to agree to limit the number of aircraft which will carry passengers and freight between nations after the war. The British lost another advantage when they failed to get a rate adjustment clause in the world air treaties.

Great Britain counted on these two devices to keep the United States from putting "clouds of airplanes" into service between nations. America has the transport aircraft; England hasn't. This country's position was simply that the public ought to be given cheap, safe air service, everywhere. Our air line operators knew this would be impossible under the traffic quotas and rate structures the British proposed, and so did everybody else in the country except the global thinkers of Washington.

The United States had no intention of driving Great Britain out of the post-war air. But as long as Christmas Islanders were not going to fly to us, and England was in no position to fly to them, we did not see why Americans, who had the airplanes, shouldn't be allowed to start an air line to Christmas Island if they wanted to.

Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Viscount Swinton, chairman of the United Kingdom delegation at the air conference, put up a resolute fight for air traffic restrictions and lost. The global meeting ended up with an innocuous world organization having power only to advise, consult, and discipline its membership for infractions, and with two air transport agreements which allow varying degrees of freedom to fly and operate air lines, but place no restrictions on rates or the number of planes to be flown.

Lord Swinton announced, just before the conference closed, that his government would sign one of these transport agreements, granting the right to fly over English soil and the right to land there for refueling or emergencies. This was hailed as quite a concession on England's part, and a major sacrifice in the interests of global harmony.

Then came the sharpest trick of the air conference. Lord Swinton, when he signed this document, wrote above his seal: "I declare that, failing later notification of inclusion, my signature to this agreement does not cover Newfoundland." The colony of Newfoundland, which includes Labrador and which was formerly a dominion, lies along the great circle air route between America and Europe.

The value of the daily flights of the army air transport command across the Atlantic to Europe has been as great as it has been only because the planes land and refuel in Goose Bay, Gander, Botwood, and the other Labrador and Newfoundland bases. Aircraft can fly nonstop across the Atlantic to almost any point in Europe, but the ships can carry more passengers and less gasoline, which means safer and more economical operation, when they stop for refueling a third of the way along the route.

If American air transport companies want to use these bases after the war the state department will have to make overtures to London and we can expect that the British will drive a hard bargain. Otherwise, American planes cannot even fly over Newfoundland, let alone stop there. We can land and refuel any place else in the United Kingdom and colonies, but not in Newfoundland, where it will do us the most good.

Lord Swinton, who declared at the closing session of the conference that the will to cooperate "is in the hearts and minds of the peoples of all lands," may have meant what he said. He may have inserted the Newfoundland reservation on last minute instructions from his government, but it certainly is far removed from anything approaching coöperation.

Americans have a right to be angry over the Newfoundland reservation. They may have reason to see in it, in fact, an act of aggression by what we formerly considered a friendly ally. This country signed all of the air agreements, without any reservations whatever. We kept faith. Adolf A. Berle Jr., chairman of the United States delegation, had prepared a speech lauding Britain's spirit of concession, in which he said she was giving up a "possible stranglehold" on the Atlantic, mentioning Newfoundland by name. He read it thru without change.

The incident may reflect credit upon Mr. Berle as indicating his good faith, but it obviously does no credit to his skill in negotiation. A representative more watchful of national interests would have made the same reservations with regard to Hawaii as the British made concerning Newfoundland. If they were to block our Atlantic flights, we should have been able to block their Pacific flights. It may be too late to rectify that situation, but we are warned as to what we may expect from British outposts on our doorstep.

If the closing incident of the Chicago air conference is an indication of England's future attitude toward the commerce of this country it is going to be increasingly difficult for Americans to tolerate the presence of British crown governors in the West Indies Islands.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES.

The house by a wide margin voted to freeze the social security taxes for another year, and the senate has now followed suit. A veto by the President has been predicted. This tax at the existing rate of 2 per cent, half of which is paid by employes and half by employers, brought in $1,292,000,000 in the year ended June 30, 1944. The government paid 670 million dollars for old age and survivor benefits and administrative expenses in that year. It used the balance in the same way that it used the money that came in from income taxes, liquor and tobacco taxes, and import duties. It went out as fast as it was received to pay for the war, interest on the debt, and the routine expenses of the government.

The treasury does keep books a little bit differently on social security taxes. It maintains a special account called the "federal old age and survivors insurance fund," and theoretically sets aside some of its own bonds to cover its abstractions from the fund. But it keeps the money just the same and spends it just like any other money.

We aren't kicking about that. What we object to is the pretense that is made that the money isn't spent, but is being laid aside to pay the benefits.

"The federal old age and survivors insurance fund" consists of the government's own promises to pay. It will be able to redeem those promises by collecting some more taxes or by selling bonds to the public, which in turn will have to be redeemed by taxes.

The social security tax ought to be frozen where it is, because taxes already are about at the limit that can be carried. The argument that future generations will have to dig up the money to pay the promised pensions unless the tax is now raised is the bunk. Future generations will have to do that if the rate is raised to 5 per cent, for the very good reason that the government is spending the revenue as fast as it is collected. There is no magic which will enable the government to spend some money on the war and still have it on hand 20 years from now to pay pensions.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT AND PARTY LABELS.

The Mason and Dixon line still serves to divide Americans as voters and as politicians seeking votes in support of public policies. Historical issues that have no bearing on present conditions keep like-minded men in opposing camps. The tragic result is that they cancel each other out when they go to the polls.

In consequence the country is dominated by a small minority which finds its policies and motives in foreign ideologies and foreign allegiances. Not more than a million pro-Russians [including with the Communists their fellow travelers, befuddled intellectuals, and some equally befuddled leaders of labor] and not more than a few hundred thousand citizens who prefer England to their own country, now dominate the United States politically and dictate policies to serve the interests of their foreign allegiances at the expense of the American people.

In the last campaign the pro-Russians took over the fourth term machinery and the pro-British made the task of the PAC easy by foisting Gov. Dewey on the Republican party, sabotaging its principles and denying the voters any real choice between the candidates. This temporary alliance cannot be permanent. The quarrels between the two minorities to whom Mr. Roosevelt owed his reelection are already making Washington strident. It is inevitable that they continue and become more violent. The struggle over American foreign policy has degenerated into a contest between those who wish to support the British interests and those who favor the Russians. Among those who formulated our foreign policy the proponents of a single minded devotion to the interests of America have no voice.

There was a day when the Ohio river possessed no significance as a political boundary. The south and the west were natural political allies. Their alliance was based on faith in the future of America and a desire to realize that future unhampered by the worshippers of status quo in Boston, Philadelphia, and New York.

In furtherance of that ideal the statesmen west of the Alleghanies brought on the only war that the middle west has ever actively desired. The nation has a distorted view of the War of 1812 because too many of the histories have been written by New England Whigs and their spiritual descendants. New England, which suffered most from the impressment of seamen, was willing to tolerate that indignity for the advantages of trade, but the west could not tolerate the constant Indian warfare incited by British agents based in Canada. The War of 1812 broke the Indian power, British interference ceased, and the settlement of the Mississippi valley became possible.

We cite this incident because the spirit of 1812 is still the dominating spirit of the majority of Americans west of the Appalachian system. It is a spirit of men whose faith rests on the resources, human and inanimate, of America, who seek to bring the development of those resources, as yet imperfect, to a finer flower. In foreign policy it is the spirit that recognizes the strength of America and its ability to stand alone, if need be. In domestic policy it is the spirit of self-reliance, the conviction that government is not a panacea for all of the ills of mankind.

Leadership must be found to bring the Americans together again who still subscribe to this spirit. The task is not easy but it is not insuperable. Some party label must be found under which outworn issues can be scrapped and forgotten. The mechanics of elections being what they are, this is not a task to be attempted in a few months' time. The work must begin at once if such an organization is to be tested in the congressional elections two years hence and is to bid for victory in 1948.

THE TRIBUNE will support any label or any movement that will work effectively to bring the American government back into the control of Americans.

BUDAPEST BY BIRD'S EYE.

Budapest, reported partly in flames from Russian bombing, has often been ranked among the four most beautiful cities of Europe. The other three, on this column's all-star list, are Rome, Venice, and Florence.

* * *

We are speaking, of course, about major cities of metropolitan status. There is room for argument in this matter of civic beauty, for tastes in urban environment vary. For example, many American writers, in their reports on the last time they saw Paris, seem to think that the modern Garden of Eden is located in the vicinity of a couple of fairly low-down cafés in the Montparnasse district, the Dome and the Select.

* * *

The last time we saw Budapest in Burton Holmes' travel pictures [the only method by which we have enjoyed the Hungarian capital], we thought that it was the most beautiful city in Europe. For sheer pleasure of vistas, without romantic notions about historical backgrounds or rhapsodies about wine, women, and song, we voted a straight ticket for this double town on the Danube.

* * *

Buda, on the right bank, covers rocky heights which provide a magnificent panoramic view of Pest, the meanders of the river, and the Hungarian plain beyond. The architecture of both cities leaps up to meet the eye, and many of the public buildings, palaces, and churches are notable. An island in the river called St. Margaret's, corresponding to the Ile de la Cité in Paris, offers no ancient Gothic fane, but the charm of a park and pleasure ground with hotels, cafés, and swimming pools among century-old trees and rose gardens.

Around the rock of Buda is a range of hills 1,500 to 2,000 feet in height, well forested. Suburban villas have invaded this former hunting preserve of the Hungarian court, but game survives there: deer, partridge, and wild boar. This region, the equivalent of a national park, can be reached from the heart of the city in 20 minutes. Nature and Budapest are close companions.

* * *

THEIR CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Perhaps they tried to keep them there in heaven
And showed them Christmas trees with rainbows hung,
They may have told them real stars lit the branches,
That carols by the angels would be sung.
If so, I think each soldier said politely
That it was beautiful, but turned away
To stack his halo, crown, and harp up neatly,
Then asked for leave—to be home Christmas day.
St. Peter must be writing out the passes,
They are wrapping up your gifts before they go,
For they gave all they had to earn these treasures
And they would share the richness that they know.
O, you will feel their presence Christmas morning,
And you will hear their laughter all day long,
And they will watch to see how you receive them—

Letter from a Foxhole in Alsace.

Linemaster: I've just been reading the Linebook that my aunt was gracious enough to send me. It's almost as tho a part of Chicago were right here with me. This morning I've thought of a lot of just ordinary things that people back in Chi have and take for granted: The Outer dr. on a nice sunshiny morning; a walk down Michigan blvd.; a "pop" concert at Orchestra hall; a malted milk and maybe two; clean sheets and a heavy wool blanket; a couple of Mom's delicious poached eggs on toast; a good football game; the Blackhawks in the Stadium; a huge plate of French fries in any of the places on Howard st.

Yeah, they're all mixed up, but I wrote them down as I dreamed along. The Linebook is really good this year. I'm fighting so I can enjoy the next one from the depths of my favorite chair back in the Windy City. Pvt. Bill Krause.

TO A WAR BOND.

What shall I spend you for ten years hence?
I've given the subject small heed;
There's a house in my dreams with a white picket fence,
And for that you'd be handy indeed.

I may trade you in for a mink coat, or sable,
The question can wait until later.
Be it trinket, or travel, or food for the table,
My need, at the present, is greater.

For to me you are worth far more today
Than ever in years to be. . . .
You're helping, in such a glorious way,
To bring my boys back to me.

O. C. H. asks: "Has a shoulder patch been authorized for the navy Seabees?"

Yes, it's a small round patch worn on the left shoulder one inch below the shoulder seam. It has the famous "bee with all the gadgets" and has the word "Seabees" embroidered in a semicircle underneath.

C. L. T. asks: "Has the navy adopted the gold chevron for overseas service?"

No, only the army. Navy men have ribbons.

E. L. R. asks: "I have had my national service life insurance for two and a half years and pay $7.20 per month. Is it true that one can keep such a policy at the same rate after the war?"

No, the insurance you have is a "term" insurance and the contract expires after it has been in force five years. If you are still in service then you may take out another policy at your "attained age," which will call for a higher premium. If you are not in service then the contract lapses unless you convert it to ordinary life or 20 or 30 pay life. The premium on your insurance if you convert it will depend on your age at the time of conversion. As soon as the insurance is converted, the insured begins to build up a "cash surrender value" and dividends.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

OUR UNCONQUERED VIRUS DISEASES.

So many inquiries reach us concerning the nature of virus diseases that it may not be out of place to discuss them. Not only do these enemies attack human beings but all living things—plants, animals, birds, and fish. In consequence, gardeners, veterinarians, and members of the medical profession are deeply concerned in winning the battle against these destroyers.

We have just passed thru a sizable epidemic of "polio." We haven't seen the causative factor because it is a virus. But we know that it can work havoc, with resulting paralysis.

The only way we can identify these "varmints" is by means of the ultramicroscope [electron] or an investigation of their behavior. We can gain some idea of their size by comparing them with bacteria. If we assume [figuratively] that a colon germ is six feet in length, the organism responsible for yellow fever would be about three inches in diameter.

So far as disease is concerned, they are to blame for practically all of the unconquered and some of our conquered ailments. They play the lead in smallpox, chicken pox, measles, shingles, numerous skin conditions, distemper among dogs, foot and mouth disease in cattle, and yellow fever. They can induce several kinds of inflammation of the lungs, the common cold, rabies, and many disorders of the nervous system.

How are they acquired? Contact may be direct from the ill to the well, or it may come via animals, insects, or birds. We have a type of influenza among swine which is now well understood. This affliction did not exist prior to the widespread plague of human influenza in 1917-1918.

As a rule, these tiny culprits select certain tissues. For example, one variety will choose the lungs, another the nervous system, still another the skin. But they may not remain in a single locality. Not infrequently they will wander thru out the body.

Cold sores are brought on by a species which is quite like the one which produces encephalitis. The "starter" in shingles is practically a carbon copy of that which causes chicken pox.

Physicians and scientists of the future will have their hands full in devising preventive measures. In addition, they must discover how to corral these vicious outlaws. But considerable progress has been made. Vaccination against smallpox is nearly 100 per cent protective. If the vaccine against yellow fever is not as yet perfect it will soon become so. Thus the world will be rid of a dreadful scourge. There is a wide field for the development of other types of immunity. We do know that ultraviolet light can change the habits of viruses.

Because they can multiply within the cells, they bear a close relationship to hormones. One form that attacks the tobacco plant has been crystalized. As such it will remain inert for years but will again become potent if it is brought in contact with tobacco leaves in the field.

Up to now our specific remedies are few in number. The sulfa drugs are useless, with but few exceptions. We can, however, rely upon serum from a patient who has recovered, as his circulation will contain a large number of antibodies—toxin neutralizing elements. This fluid may be administered to one who is afflicted with the identical malady.

Notes on a Learned Lady.

Marianne Craig Moore, contemporary descriptive poet with six books of poetry behind her, has just been awarded the $500 Harriet Monroe poetry prize by the University of Chicago. Her selection was a trifle unusual in that the competition was judged in air mail correspondence between eminent poets of two continents, but apparently that was no more unusual than Miss Moore herself.

Alfred Kreymborg in his autobiography, "Troubadour," wrote quite a sketch of the lady and of his amazement at her extraordinary fund of knowledge. Never having found her at a loss on any topic, he decided to stump her on something—anything. He felt certain that the only experience completely strange to her would be a ball game, so he invited her to one.

"Well [he wrote], I got her safely to her seat and sat down beside her. Without so much as a glance toward the players at practice grabbing grounders and chasing fungos, she went on giving me her impression of the respective technical achievements of Mr. Pound and Mr. Aldington without missing a turn in the rhythm of her speech until I, a little impatient, touched her arm and, indicating a man in the pitcher's box winding up with the movement Matty's so famous for, interrupted: 'But Marianne, wait a minute, the game's about to begin. Don't you want to watch the first ball?' 'Yes, indeed,' she said, stopped, blushed, and leaned forward. The old blond boy delivered a tantalizing fadeaway which hovered in the air and then, just as it reached the batter, shot from his shoulders to his knees and across the plate. 'Strike!' bawled the umpire. 'Excellent,' said Marianne.

"Delighted, I turned to her with, 'Do you happen to know the gentleman who threw that strike?'

"'I've never seen him before,' she admitted, 'but I take it it must be Mr. Mathewson [Christy].

"'I could only gasp, 'Why?'

"'Strike two!' interrupted the umpire.

A Tale of Long Ago.

Some recent remarks in this space on the crowded La Salle Street station prompted a letter from a Toledo telegraph operator who at the turn of the century learned telegraphy to escape the drudgery of the farm. With a student operator pass he came to Chicago to buy some new clothes. It was his first trip to a large city and after he had made his purchases he returned to the La Salle Street station. A commercial telegraph station, operated by a woman, was in the main waiting room. He worked his way to the seat nearest the sound of the instruments and listened intently to the cackling of the keys. Suddenly all the instruments were cut off and a dummy instrument started over and over with, "Smile, you ham; smile, you ham; I want to see you smile." He recalls that the woman and the messenger boys were highly appreciative of his extreme embarrassment.

Post-War Promise.

Every one else is planning the post-war, and the laundry industry is not to be outdone. Now comes word of a shirt presser that can dry, iron, and fold 135 shirts an hour [every man, of course, will possess at least 140 shirts], of a laundry print symbol which becomes visible only under an ultraviolet lamp, and of infrared lamps that will be used to dry clothes. A mechanical folding device "working with unfailing precision" will fold sheets uniformly straight and with corners squared, flying laundries will be accepted as a matter of course, and textiles, ranging from children's dresses, fireplace rugs, draperies, negligees, and curtains to work uniforms will be flame-proofed.

A VETERAN TO STRIKERS.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—On this anniversary of our little yellow brothers' surprise party, I want to say how overjoyed I am every time I pick up the paper and see where "I" [that aggregation of true Americans, the strikers] have again stuck up for their rights. I think they are right, for if any one should slap my wrist or say anything to me except in a soft voice, I'd strike, too.

We in the service never had such hardships to contend with. We didn't have any nasty old foreman ask us to work. All we had to do was to live in that nice, comfortable New Guinea jungle, sleep in air conditioned foxholes, live on juicy "K" rations. We didn't have to be awakened by a nasty old alarm clock, either, for we were awakened by the pleasant sound of gently falling bombs. Some of us could sleep right thru that tho. Many are still sleeping and will sleep there forever. We didn't have to take a street car either, we could joyfully walk to work, enjoying the pleasant whine of the snipers' bullets. Ah, yes, the strikers' life is hard.

The strikers have a right to put "I" before "we." They have to stick up for "me" because the soldiers, sailors, and marines left them all alone to carry on the terrific battle of the home front and I know they would all enjoy a vacation in combat for it would be so much easier work. And such enjoyable work, too: Cutting throats, jabbing bayonets, and seeing your buddies falling. We enjoyed it tremendously.

The strikers say they are making it easier for the boys overseas by making working conditions better for them to come back to. The slight incidental fact that their strikes will help many not to come back is too remote a possibility, not to be considered at all. They gave no strike pledges, but of course that was just a campaign promise.

So go to it, strikers, all the men in service love you and they'll certainly thank you plenty when they get back [those who do come back].

A DISABLED VET OF WORLD WAR II.

EXERCISE IN METAPHOR.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—We trust that our new secretary of state will not foul out on his first time at bat in the big league.

To take the bit in one's teeth carries an appeal to the grandstand but to be forced to swallow it is tantamount to having one's ears pinned back.

Let us hope that Mr. Hull has been retained as coach for what appears to be developing into an all-rookie team.

SKEPTIC.

4-H AND FARM SUBSIDIES.

Macomb, Ill., Dec. 7.—I wonder if the happy, husky looking 4-H boys and girls pictured in THE TRIBUNE this week are determined to accept no federal subsidies.

Free men cannot maintain their status as such when bound to their rulers by money in hand. The willingness of the farm population to accept unearned money is dangerous. Other groups will demand similar assistance. With aid comes control and regimentation.

"ALARMIST."

DEFENDS THE NMU.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—I am a member of the National Maritime union, CIO, and I have sailed the high seas during most of the war period.

You try to berate the CIO. We believe in unions operated by the rank and file and broke away from the Seamen's union [AFL] because it was not. A study of our constitution will enlighten you.

Another thing, you berate us because we have taken an interest in politics. We are a part of the people and believe we have a sacred duty to perform, to try to make the working man's sojourn on this earth as pleasant as possible. Does not our Constitution say a government for the people, of the people, and by the people? It clearly did not mean a government of the moneyed class, for the moneyed class and by the moneyed class, did it? Anyway, anything that betters the working man and his family, betters business. We made voluntary political contributions and were not forced.

L. R. LARRICK.

CIGARETS FOR PRISONERS OF WAR.

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 8.—Those G. I.s in England can consider themselves lucky, getting five packs of cigarets a week. My husband is stationed in France and his weekly ration is three packs.

Why should we Americans give prisoners of war cigarets when our own boys who are fighting and dying for us have to do without?

GLADYS FINK.

REPUBLICANS CAN'T COMPETE.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—I have read all headache letters, also the gloating ones, since the election and none was right.

The Republican party just cannot be internationalist. It doesn't know how. It came into being to save the Republic, and that is its job.

No one can give this country to Europe better than the Democrats. They have the practice.

JOSEPH F. BERNIER.

SCANT RETURNS.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—As our blood and treasure are being expended in ever increasing volume our political influence seems to wane. This is an inglorious role for America to play. What really is our foreign policy?

SOLD FOR TAXES.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—1. I have been informed by the county collector that property which I own in another state has been sold for taxes. No notice was given me of the sale. 2. Is there any way for me to redeem the property?

C. W.

1. In general, the obligation rests upon the taxpayer to pay his taxes rather than upon the collector to make a demand.

2. Write to the county clerk there for an estimate for redemption. Your chances of redeeming depend, in part, on how much time has elapsed and on whether a tax deed was issued. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

URGES FORCING YOUNGER 4-Fs INTO WAR JOBS

Draft Aid Proposes Plan to Stigmatize Rebels.

BY JOSEPH HEARST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Col. Francis V. Keesling, selective service legislation officer, today told the senate war investigating committee that pressure to force workers into war production jobs should be put on young 4-Fs rather than on older men.

He said the new draft order by War Mobilization Director Byrnes, forbidding occupationally deferred men in the 18-37 age group to change jobs without draft board permission, should control labor turnover and that once the war production jobs were filled thru a recruiting drive the man power problem should be solved.

He added, however, that men in the 38-45 age bracket should be forbidden to leave specified plants in critical areas without approval.

Pressure Drives Suggested.

Keesling said that if younger men did not go into war work voluntarily, pressure drives should be organized locally under which those taking war jobs would be honored in some manner and those refusing would be placed under a stigma of some kind. If that didn't work, he said, he favored legislation that would force them into critical jobs and keep them there.

He said younger men who have been rejected for military service can move into war jobs with less disturbance to the civilian economy than older, married men and he asserted they are vulnerable on the ground that the majority of the men doing the actual fighting are of their own age.

Some "Shirking" Expected.

Keesling said he believed some persons would shirk their duties even under a properly administered voluntary program.

"It is for these few people that I believe very limited legislation establishing a penalty for failure to comply with the program is needed to protect the vast majority who are willing to do their job provided we do not permit a few to make suckers of them," he said. "We cannot very well call upon the people to be patriotic under a program which would penalize the fellow who is being patriotic and confer benefits upon the fellow who is not doing his duty."

Controls Termed Vital.

Keesling termed Byrnes' new draft order a big step in the right direction and said it represents a policy which, if carried out and extended thru pressure labor drives, will stop turnover and solve the war production man power problem.

"This curtailment of turnover will remove one of the greatest, if not the greatest, obstacles and handicaps which have been permitted to remain in the paths of labor and management for over three years," he said.

"Only by controling turnover and the shift, not only from war job to war job but particularly from war job to peace time job, can there be proper maintenance of war production man power, and, when the proper time comes, an orderly plant by plant demobilization of war production man power.

"This demobilization would mean that man power would be retained in each plant until that particular plant's war production was completed."

COURT REFUSES CITIZEN RIGHTS TO 29 GERMANS

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered a further investigation of the background of 29 members of the German-American National alliance after he refused to follow a recommendation of naturalization examiners that the alliance members be admitted to citizenship.

The court's refusal to permit the men and women—some of whom denied membership in the organization—to take the oath of allegiance came after Examiner Irving I. Freedman's offer to the court of a 37 page confidential report on the organization made by the federal bureau of investigation.

"I'll not receive any confidential report on these people," said Judge Barnes.

The 29 applicants were:

Nicolaus Weber, 1904 Howe st.; Bruno Ulbricht, 4455 Stewart av.; Joseph Koller, 1928 Kenmore av.; Elizabeth Murschel, 2771 Sheridan rd., Evanston; Richard Jaitner, 2904 N. Judge Barnes continued the hearing until Jan. 22, ordering the examiner meanwhile to submit brief histories of each individual.

ACT TO SPEED SHIFT TO WAR JOBS IN DRAFT

War man power commission officials in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, meeting yesterday in Chicago, announced that all United States employment services offices were being "alerted" to provide the fastest service possible in the transfer of nonessential workers to critical war jobs.

Anticipating a hurried exodus of selective service registrants between 27 and 38 years from their peace time benches, the WMC prepared to waste little time in welcoming them to the foundries and munitions shops. Approximately 300,000 workers are needed thruout the nation to meet critical war production needs.

The officials discussed the most feasible means of tightening job ceilings for employers who have been using skilled workers needed in more vital roles. Conferences are planned in critical labor market areas to obtain voluntary compliance with further cuts in staffs of noncritical establishments. The selective service "work or fight" ruling might help the situation, it was said, but the WMC will continue its tightening up program.

FIANCEE KILLS SELF IN HOME OF NAVAL OFFICER

Became Radio Producer.

He stated they were expressions of love which recalled pleasant episodes of the past. They also mentioned Lt. Stanley's hope of being released from the navy [he is 44] to accept one of three positions offered him in the radio field.

Stanley, who began adult life as an actor, director, and stage manager of stock companies, graduated into radio and became the producer of many nationally known programs. During the World's Fair of 1933-'34 he was in charge of the Television Exhibits corporation show. He directed several movie shorts and one full length feature, Maurice Chevalier's "The Smiling Lieutenant." He joined the National Broadcasting company in 1935.

Produced Quiz Show.

While with NBC and later with the Blue network, Stanley produced the Quiz Kids show, Clara, Lu 'n' Em, Oboler's horror show, "Lights Out"; the Life of Mary Marlin, and a number of so-called "soap operas." When he entered the navy early last year, he was put in charge of radio productions in press relations. In this capacity he produced "Meet Your Navy."

Nervous strain eventually brought about a breakdown which heralded the pneumonia attack of Nov. 30. In a letter he wrote to Miss Thompson Nov. 13, Lt. Stanley said:

"They tell me I am valuable around here, but am trying so hard to get released to inactive duty status. Ye gods, younger men, like Robert Taylor, are getting out. I have three excellent jobs to go to, and if I don't hurry some of those other guys are going to get them."

Offered to Help Her.

In other letters he expressed hope the annulment of her marriage to Corrado would go thru in a hurry, and reminded her that the estate of his aunt would be settled in March. "To hell with money," he added. "We'll live on love." He offered also to assist her financially if she needed help.

At the hospital yesterday, Lt. Stanley was at a loss to know what he had said or done to give Miss Thompson the impression he no longer loved her. The passage in her note, "My life has been a horrible mess since the day I was born," was cleared up last night.

Tells Her Story.

The story was told by Mrs. Clarence Gleason, 450 Bangs st., Aurora, who at first was understood to be an aunt of Miss Thompson.

"Actually," she said, "I am not related to her at all, tho we always rather regarded ourselves as kin. This is what happened: Just 34 years ago my uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lehman of Elgin, were standing in a railway station there, waiting for a train. A nicely dressed young woman, carrying a baby about a year old, asked my aunt if she would hold the child for a few moments. My aunt took the baby and the young woman went away, saying she would return shortly. She never came back and my uncle and aunt kept the baby.

Spent Childhood There.

"She was christened Josephine Anna Lehman and spent her early childhood in their home. In 1918, Mr. Lehman died and my aunt was forced to place the little girl in St. Vincent's orphanage at Freeport. Sometime during the years she spent in the orphanage, the girl changed her name to Virginia. It was as Virginia Lehman that she attended school in Minnesota after leaving St. Vincent's. Her education completed, she went into advertising and exploitation work."

She worked for a time as a professional model and later did advertising and publicity for the Philip Morris company. About 1930 she was married to Russell Thompson of Skokie, then an auditor for the Phillips Petroleum company and now a soldier stationed in England. This marriage ended in divorce soon after 1941.

Weds Former Boxer.

Retaining her first husband's name, Miss Thompson was married last Feb. 6 to Corrado, a former boxer [he once fought King Levinsky to a draw when both were light heavyweights], and employe of the city of Evanston. A few days after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Karlson, 8035 Keating av., Skokie, told Mrs. Corrado they were planning a party for her and her bridegroom.

"Don't do it," she replied. "This is not working out." The Karlsons heard from her on the west coast. Her letter told of the failure of the Corrado marriage, and added she had told him to get an annulment. Other friends said Corrado had told her to get an annulment.

All were agreed, however, and Corrado acknowledged that an annulment was granted less than two months ago. Corrado briskly declined to discuss the case.

$30,000 BLAZE SUFFOCATES ONE OF EMPLOYES

Frank Mares.

Frank Mares, 45, of 2860 Poplar st., an employe of the Craftsman Wood Service company, 2727 Mary st., was suffocated yesterday in a 3-11 fire which swept the plant. Harold Hunt, president of the company, said the fire apparently started where workmen had spilled some lacquer thinner, which was then covered with sawdust. Deputy Fire Marshal Michael Cody estimated damage at $30,000.

Dairy Sued for $41,000 on Price Ceiling Charge

Damages of more than $41,000 were sought in a suit filed in federal District court yesterday by the office of price administration against the Bowman Dairy company, 140 W. Ontario st., on charges that the firm collected more than ceiling prices on whole milk powder and 12 per cent butterfat powder. Marion W. Isbell, area OPA director, said the specified damages covered the whole milk powder sales and that the court would be asked to estimate excess charges made by the firm on the other type.

'HORSE PLAYER' SEIZED IN $6,000 EMBEZZLEMENT

Charles Calvert, 46, of 3025 5th av., will be arraigned today in Felony court on a charge of embezzlement from the Cavanna Drapery and Curtain Cleaners, Inc., 3501 N. Ashland.

Calvert was locked up last night at the Warren av. police station. J. Arthur Kealy, company attorney, said Calvert admitted he had stolen approximately $6,000 in two years as company manager and bookkeeper. Calvert told police he had spent most of the money "playing the horses."

Bureau of identification records disclosed that Calvert was sentenced to the Bridewell three years ago for embezzlement.

ARMY TO FREE TEXTILE HANDS TO MAKE DUCK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—The army will release skilled textile workers from its forces in this country because of the critical shortage of heavy duck for tents, Sen. Maybank [D., S. C.] said tonight.

The South Carolina senator also said the office of price administration has agreed to leave to the army the question of ceiling prices on duck it buys. This might mean a boost in price to stimulate production.

Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the army service forces, met with senators from the large southern cotton-cloth producing states—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee—late today to discuss the "extreme shortage of cotton duck." Maybank reported that Somervell asked the senators to wire governors of those states for full coöperation in recruiting workers so that the mills can run three full shifts.

DRAKE VICTIM'S DAUGHTER SOON TO GET ESTATE

Legal papers were filed yesterday in Probate court to make it possible for Mrs. Patricia Goodbody and Miss Elizabeth Born to claim next month their shares of the $432,000 estate left by their mother, Mrs. Adele Born Williams. Mrs. Williams was shot fatally by a mystery woman in the Drake hotel last Jan. 19.

In her will Mrs. Williams left Mrs. Goodbody $161,438 and Miss Born $151,538. Miss Born previously had received $10,000. Mrs. Williams originally intended to leave the estate in trust to her daughters. However, her will left optional with the executors the question of whether to create a trust for them or to give them their shares outright.

On the basis of that provision, Lt. Comdr. William A. Redfield, executor, filed papers yesterday exercising his right to distribute the estate instead of investing it in trust. Distribution therefore will be possible after Jan. 20, 1945, a year after Mrs. William's death.

TELLS OF KILLING WIFE IN DISPUTE OVER OTHER MAN

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 12 (Special).—Elmer E. Burchfiel, 28, Decatur war worker, was named in a murder warrant late today for the shotgun slaying yesterday of his wife, Mary, 23, during a quarrel over another man, Chief of Police H. J. Schepper said.

Assistant State's Atty. Roy B. Foster said Burchfiel had confessed fatally shooting his wife, also a war plant worker and mother of a son, Gail, 3. Burchfiel said he and his wife, who came here last year from Shelbyville, Ill., quarreled when he charged her with having had illicit relations with a fellow war worker.

The machinist told Foster his wife said she cared more for the "other man" than for him, so he shot her in the back. He said he shot from the dining room and his wife, who was in the bathroom, fell over the edge of the tub.

"She was suffering so I shot her again in the side," he said.

HOW BOMBSIGHT WORKS IS TOLD FOR FIRST TIME

20 Engineers Tell Its Secrets.

The famed and highly secret Norden bombsight, which has made possible the high altitude, pin point bombings of the American air forces, was completely revealed for the first time yesterday to a group of Chicago newspaper men during a tour of the Victor Adding Machine company, 3900 N. Rockwell st., one of the major bombsight manufacturers. Twenty Victor company engineers explained the device to the reporters.

Two Main Parts.

The sight—contained in a black box about a cubic foot in size—consists of two major parts, an upper and a lower unit. The lower unit is called a stabilizer, which consists of some 900 parts, and the upper unit or the sight proper. It is relatively simple, consisting of only a few hundred parts, some of which are machined 40 times more accurately than the mechanism in the finest watches.

As a completed mechanism, the bombsight accomplishes the following things in a split second's computation: Figures the speed of the plane, the falling speed of the bomb, the rotation of the earth, the curvature of the earth, the density of the various layers of air thru which the bomb must fall, the speed of the wind at various levels, the altitude of the plane, the plane's ground speed, and solves several other more technical problems. A competent mathematician, said one company official, probably would not be able to figure in all these factors at all, let alone in a split second's time.

Keeps Track of Turns.

Another problem solved by the bombsight during the bombing run is any possible variation in the plane's flight. If anti-aircraft fire forces the plane off its course this is instantly accounted for by the stabilizer.

This stabilizer, which is balanced to an accuracy of 7 billionths of an inch, will keep a plane on a perfectly level flight, even tho all crew members are killed, until the gas supply is exhausted or the plane is shot down.

Sight Flies Plane.

A bombardier goes thru a number of operations on a bombing mission. He sets the bombsight at the height from which the attack is going to take place, and adjusts it for the weight of the bombs, possible wind directions and velocity.

As the target is approached, the bombardier aims the telescopic sight, catching the objective on hair lines, and sets the sight to follow the target automatically as it comes beneath the plane. The flight of the plane then comes entirely under control of the bombsight.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Janet Miller Dixon to Be Married Soon

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE news that Mrs. Janet Miller Dixon is to be married soon, probably during the Christmas holidays, is of particular interest today. The announcement of her engagement to Prof. James Grenville Southworth of the University of Toledo is made by Mrs. Dixon's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Stocker Miller of Astor st.

Where and when the wedding will take place has not been decided, but after their marriage Chicago will lose Mrs. Dixon, for she will move to Toledo to live. Prof. Southworth is a member of the department of English at the university. He and Mrs. Dixon met last summer.

From New York comes the news that Mrs. Dorothy Wooden Archibald of Chicago, Miami, Fla., and The Plains, Va., widow of the late H. Teller Archibald, was married Monday to Capt. J. D. Stetson Coleman of the marine corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Coleman of Macon, Ga. The ceremony took place in St. James' chapel, New York, the Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan officiating.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morris Wooden of Washington, D. C., was attended by Mrs. Norman B. Woolworth. Capt. Coleman, who was attended by his uncle, Eugene W. Stetson, and Howard Phipps, recently returned from service in the South Pacific. He attended Phillips Exeter academy and was graduated from Yale university, at which he was a member of Scroll and Key. The new Mrs. Coleman is expected back in Chicago later this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pearson of Evanston announce the marriage Dec. 2 of their daughter, Eleanor Mary, to Pvt. James Barnes Tucker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker of Santa Ana, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker came here for the wedding, which took place in the Pearson home. The bride is a graduate of Smith college and of the Graduate Teachers', college of Winnetka. Pvt. Tucker, who is stationed at Camp Gruber, Okla., is a graduate of Cornell university.

Thru the Looking Glass

Here and there about town you'll find ensembles of beauty aids, all in the sweet scent of moss rose, that make delightful gifts. They're so pretty, so dainty, all of them, that they'll be cherished as much for their eye appeal as for their glamor.

One set, beautifully packaged in porcelain white and emerald green with a delicate design of the pink moss roses as the principal motif, is priced at $5. In the box are two packets of sachet—gay little envelopes to tuck away with finery; a box of dusting powder, a fat cake of soap and a bottle of cologne in the Victorian rose fragrance that scents all the items.

If you feel there's nothing very novel about such things as cologne and soap, we'd like to remind you to give these containers a second look. The cologne bottle, for instance, is a collector's piece. Like a dainty alabaster vase, it will be a decorative boudoir adornment long after its fragrant liquid content has been exhausted. The powder box, too, is rather special. It's white, spattered with the tiny pink moss roses, and in design it's not like any other you can find.

The moss rose fragrance is sure-fire. Women adore it because it's dainty and distinguished. You can find this ensemble, or other combinations of the moss rose items that any woman on your list will be crazy about.

House Slippers Practical as Gifts This Year

BY REA SEEGER.

House slippers, long the objects of derisive quips, are, this Christmas, important gift ideas. You'll not find the frivolous confections of glittering gold kidskins or petit-point embroidery nor any of the fabulously ornate affairs of seasons past, but the wearable and surprisingly practical models of war time will be available. All leather slippers are also conspicuously absent, so are the leather soles and high leather heels. But what you will find are brilliant examples of the ingenious designers, using unwanted and un-needed fabrics.

The velvet shoe is new and interesting. It actually is a flat soled half shoe, made of all manner of gay colored velvet. Some pairs are lined with fleece, others with velvet or satin. They look warm and they're definitely decorative. Scuffs made of thick cotton fleece are exceptionally smart and festive looking. Unusual colors, like yellow, rose, carbon-blue, raspberry, and gold, vie with whites, pastels, and the sturdier lounging colors, such as crimson, brown, copper, and black.

Gay satin house slippers with medium high heels are available, but the supplies are limited and going fast. High boots for lounging come in jaunty models of toast-warm fleece and are lined with such eye-catching materials as leopard skin printed fleece. Some holiday numbers are red on the outside and green within, or white outside and scarlet within, or the same combination of green with red lining. White bunny fur slippers are wonderfully luxurious to behold and twice as swank on the feet. A few, and a very few, brocades in exquisite colorings can be located if you really hunt for them.

Down-to-earth shoppers are assured that fleece lined overshoes in black or brown water repellent materials are abundant, so are the toe-rubbers for the more particular shoppers.

Air Force Play Really Carries Terrific Punch

"WINGED VICTORY."

Play written and directed by Moss Hart; with original music and arrangements by T/Sgt. Harry Horner, costumes by Sgt. Howard Shoup, choral direction by Lt. Leonard de Paur, lighting by S/Sgt. Abe Feder. Presented by the United States army air forces at the Civic Opera house, Tuesday evening, Dec. 12, 1944.

THE CAST.

Allan Ross.....S/Sgt. Mark Daniels
Frankie Davis.....Sgt. Dick Hogan
Danny [Pinky] Scariano...Sgt. Don Taylor
Irving Miller.....S/Sgt. Edmond O'Brien and more than 300 others.
Musical Director.....M/Sgt. Joseph Bushkin

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Even in peace time, with civilian actors, Moss Hart's "Winged Victory" would be a crack show. In war time, when the more than 300 uniforms of the A. A. F. are no masquerade but the real thing, it carries a terrific punch. Moving into the Civic Opera house last night for a five week engagement to aid army charities, it seemed to me just as fresh, just as funny, and just as poignant as when I saw it in New York almost a year ago. Expertly written, vividly acted, superbly staged, it spins like a theatrical top on revolving stages that give its 17 scenes camera speed, and at least from where I sat the sound amplification was admirably focused. I doubt that any one could have been disappointed, not even the woman who at the end of act one was saying, hopefully, "Well, maybe the next act will be about the navy."

Sorry, lady. No dice. This is Moss Hart's play about the army air forces, and I don't quite see how for the purpose he could have written a better one. Where a lesser craftsman might have gone berserk with such a wealth of material, Mr. Hart stuck firmly to his story. Tho you are bound to leave the theater tingling a bit to the sight and sound of this huge show, what you will remember is the story of three boys who wanted to fly and what happened to them from the day they left home until two of them flew their plane, "Winged Victory," into battle.

For the third boy didn't get there, and the second didn't get there the way he planned, as pilot. How and why these things happened are told concisely and with the utmost skill, and it seems to me in telling them Mr. Hart not only has created a giant recruiting poster, but also has told those who wait at home what happens to their sons, their husbands, and their brothers when they enlist in the A. A. F. He tells them how tough it is to make the grade, why it is no disgrace not to make it, and why it is a lifetime thrill to win those wings. He tells those things in taut theatrical terms that make a memorable show.

Were white paper just a little less precious, I would like to print that full cast of more than 300, because it deserves to be printed. That cast gives a live, crackling performance that defies the long reaches of the opera house and comes right on and shakes hands with the audience. It's a shame to mention Sgt. Don Taylor's Pinky Scariano [used by Mr. Hart to make a wreck of your heart, which he then proceeds to mend], or Staff Sgt. Mark Daniels' likable hero, or Staff Sgt. Edmond O'Brien's hilarious Irving from Brooklyn, without doing exactly the same service for dozens more. Suppose we give them all a salute with flags of praise flying. You couldn't do less for actors who can turn what might be just a mock graduation ceremony into something that makes you proud to the very marrow of your bones.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Not Fooled.

The grandmother brought Susie downtown, and the mother took a few extra minutes from her white collar job in a book store to introduce Susie to Santa Claus. Small but alert, Susie waited her turn with the other children until Santa greeted her.

"What's your name?" he asked.

"What's yours?" Susie countered, wise to those false whiskers.

Quiet Room.

The majority of office workers and employes of stores and factories take "time out" each morning and afternoon. Those of us who seek something else than to sit in a stuffy restroom and indulge in useless chatter, gossip, or smoke could use this "time out" to great advantage if we had a quiet room available. For this reason I think it would be wonderful if chapels were installed in office buildings, factories, and department stores for employes who feel the need of spiritual restoration during the day's work—a place to read inspirational literature of their own choosing in quiet, a place to pray or meditate, to find solace for heartaches. Men and women of any creed could make use of such a chapel. Furnishings should be simple, either with chairs or pews and some kind of altar. It would mean the sacrifice of only a small amount of space, and we would have a daily reminder, in our places of employment, of God's will in our lives. MALVA ANDRE.

Who was it who chopped up the cherry tree that was chopped down by G. Washington? I. M. K.

Without Reservations.

Has life gone sour? Do you crave the sight of new faces, no matter how gruesome? The answer is simple: Get a job behind the front desk in the biggest hotel in town—any town will do. Of course there's just one catch to the solution: During working hours you must be three parts encyclopedia, two parts Dale Carnegie, one part crystal gazer, with a dash of insanity for seasoning. There's one more immeasurably helpful suggestion: Be sure to practice walking a brisk 20 miles a day in ground grippers.

The approach is easy. Pass within 100 feet of the assistant manager's desk [looking as tho unemployed] and he'll make a lunge. You'll be working inside of 20 minutes. As you push bodily before the clamoring masses, you find every face has the look of "I want a room for the night even if I have to break every bone in your body to get it." Then you start answering questions: "Isn't that letter for me?" [What letter?] . . . "Did my mother ask for me?" . . . "Did any ensign leave a message for a lieutenant junior grade?" . . . "How many cubic feet in my room?" . . . "May I speak to Mr. J. Basket Blum?—J. as in John, B. as in basket." . . . You can't believe your ears.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANCY, France, Dec. 12.—Following signs which read "Red Cross Doughnut Dugout," you find a large building filled with G. I.'s sipping coffee, munching doughnuts, reading, having mending done, listening to a hot swing band, or eagerly showing pictures of the wife and kids to sympathetic Red Cross girls, who may not know English but express proper appreciation by smiling.

The club is run by two midwesterners, Miss Mary Alice Gale, Duluth, Minn., on leave from New Mexico State Teachers college, and Mrs. Elizabeth O'Connor, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., whose husband is in the army. They are the only two Americans in the club and direct a staff of 80 French volunteer workers and 45 paid French helpers.

Like other Red Cross clubs, which mushroom wherever you find American troops, this one tries to do whatever the Yanks ask, whether it's to relay messages, find lost relatives [they are currently searching for one Franco-American soldier's grandmother], or, as it did not long ago, permit an embarrassed soldier, who had torn his trousers getting out of a truck, to find refuge in an unused office while the garment was mended.

The club—Miss Gale objects to any one calling it a doughnut dugout despite the signs—also provides writing rooms, piano, facilities for table tennis, and billiards, and a fine collection of swing records. In short, it's a spot where a G. I. can wander in and forget the war for a few pleasant hours.

Miss Gale, who is the club director, has done a highly creditable job of locating such varied items as German blackboards on which to list messages, German shelves, sinks, and even a whole truckload of German doors, which will be used to make partitions in lieu of lumber.

Mrs. O'Connor, who is program director, keeps her eyes and ears alert for talent which may be wanted at any moment to sit down and start hitting it up on the piano. She sees that the club has several shows weekly, either G. I. talent or U. S. O. shows, and has special shows for such days as Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's. She has military police on the lookout for a Christmas tree, which will be set up in one corner of the main hall and decorated with spun glass which Miss Gale found in a German warehouse.

It would be possible to write on and on since every Red Cross club has a thousand tales and deserves several thousand words, but in view of paper rationing let's just quote the opinion of Pvt. Jerome H. Zegart, 22, of 1863 S. Springfield av., Chicago, a CHICAGO TRIBUNE clerical employe on military leave, who worked for Reuben Cahn, editorial writer.

Zegart, a member of the 4th armored division artillery, was sipping one of the 3,600 cups of coffee dispensed daily when I found him and asked how he liked the club.

"Makes you feel like you're home again," he said.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

CORROBORATION.

"After Uhlmann sobered up he remembered that he had talked too much, tho he wasn't quite sure how far he had gone. In a roundabout way he tried to find out from String. He said he was an awful liar when he was soused, but String could see Uhlmann was worried and he began to get scared of the fellow. A few weeks later somebody shot into the cabin where String was sleeping. The bullet passed over his body so close that it ripped the bedding. String could not prove that Uhlmann had fired the shot, but he felt sure of it. That day he left his job at the Johnny-B and never went back."

"On the river. Five or six miles above Mammoth."

"I'm obliged to you, Mr. McMurdo."

"If you are innocent, I hope this will help you. Tell Crews you heard it from me."

The fugitives rode into the night up the trace which led them past the big rocks from which they could look down into the valley below. They made a dry camp.

By day the valley stood out in sharp detail. The silvery river wound along its floor, and here and there cottonwood groves dotted the banks.

Before they reached Mammoth they left the road, cutting across the baked desert to a bend in the stream a few miles above the town. A barbed wire fence barred the way. They deflected, to follow the fence. It brought them, after two right angle turns, to a neat white-washed adobe house. The woman who came to the door pointed up stream.

Fraser found String as gaunt and as hungry-looking as he had been a dozen years earlier. He was glad to meet Fraser and hash over old times and acquaintances. To Stan's younger friend he did not pay much attention.

At Crew's insistence they stayed to eat dinner in the unplastered adobe house of two rooms which went with the ranch. Not until they were nearly finished eating did Fraser lead the talk back to their host's freighting days at the Johnny-B.

String agreed that Bob Webb had been a fine man, a good boss, always fair and reasonable. "Different from that fox Packard as day is from night." He pulled up and looked hard at Fraser. "I could tell you something, Stan, that would give you a jolt."

"I don't reckon you could tell me anything about that old snake in the grass that would surprise me," Fraser replied carelessly.

Crews was piqued at this cavalier indifference. "That's what you think, old timer. I know better."

That the ranchman wanted to shock his friends but did not think it would be wise to talk was clear. Bob guessed that his presence had something to do with String's reticence. When dinner was finished he strolled away to take a look at some horses in the corral.

Fraser nodded toward the retiring back of Webb. "He's all right, Sloan is, but it was smart of you to wait till he had gone to tell me about Jug."

It turned the scale. Crews had been telling himself he had better not tell what he knew, but now he changed his mind.

"What would you say if I told you Bob Webb wasn't killed by an accident but on purpose?" he asked.

"Sure as you're a foot high."

"But—he was blow up in an explosion down in the mine."

"That's right. He was asked into the drift by a man who had set the charge and made an excuse to beat it in time."

Stan showed frank incredulity. He shook his head. "No, String. Some one must of pulled a whizzer on you. Did the fellow claim he was there and saw all this?"

The rancher hesitated. He could still stop without giving any details. But Fraser was a close-mouthed fellow, and String had an answer so pat and startling that it was not in him to suppress it.

"More than that. He told me he was the one who did it."

"Somebody told you he murdered Bob Webb?"

"Practically." Crews nodded his head in affirmation. "And who gave him five hundred dollars to do it."

"How came he to do it—to tell you, I mean?"

"He let it out soon after when he was dead drunk and blowing the money."

It was time, Fraser felt, to put the direct question. "Who?" he asked.

"To get hold of the mine."

"Yes, sir, and he got it. Somebody shot at me one night while I was in bed. Just barely missed me. I knew it was Uhlmann. You see, he kinda remembered telling me. I lit out prontito. That fellow is a killer, and I knew I wouldn't last long there."

Bob watched for a sign from Fraser to rejoin the others.

Not till after they had left did Fraser repeat to his friend what he had just learned. They discussed whether they had better try to get Crews' sworn story down on paper or wait until they needed it. Stan favored the latter plan.

"If he has to sit around and wait after going on record he might get scared and skip. Leave him lay. He'll stay put. When we need him he'll come thru."

Bob, too, was of the opinion that there was no need to rush him.

Bob picketed his horse and lay in the brush in the shade of a clump of ocatillos while Stan rode into Mammoth and bought supplies at the little store there. It was certain that the stage had brought up news of the fight on the plaza, but unless by mischance somebody recognized Fraser he was not likely to be taken for one of the fugitives.

A couple of loafers in chairs tilted back against the wall of the store watched Fraser tie at the rack and bowleg to the store. He stopped to pass the time of day with them. They gathered that he had come down from the Tonto Basin where he had been helping on a drive of stock for the Hash-knife outfit.

The proprietor of the store was a scrawny little man wearing glasses. Fraser ordered flour, bacon, and other supplies. He bought also a coffee pot and a fry pan.

More Used Toys Sought for Goodwill Industries

A request for used and discarded toys which can be made usable for Christmas has been made by the Goodwill Industries of Chicago. Walter C. League, executive secretary, said the demand has been so great this year for this type of material at the seven Goodwill stores that stocks virtually are depleted. The greatest demand is for scooters, bicycles, wagons, dolls, doll carriages, and metal toys of all kinds, Mr. League said.

Beautiful New Books Are for Littlest Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Both the head of the children's book department [representing all publishers] and I agreed that this year's crop of new books leans strongly toward the younger children—that is, the littlest and those who have already begun to read fluently themselves or are avid about being read to.

There have been published in recent years more attractive books with a religious feeling than ever before. Some of these have an exquisite format: color, drawing, type, and page arrangement. Others present their material interestingly, but are less decorative and appear in ordinary book size. In the first group is a new book of familiar hymns illustrated by Masha and, as was her book of carols last year, with piano accompaniment. This is published by Random House and the price is $1.50.

Another new book is "Prayer for a Child" by Rachel Field, illustrated by Elizabeth Orton Jones. It is published by MacMillan company and the price is $1.50. This is a tender book, dedicated to a child, Hannah. The many things blessed in this gentle prayer are those dear and familiar to a very young child. Rachel Field, besides her adult fiction, wrote for little children for many years. This book puts a lovely finish to her writings for them.

For the not-so-young [and not religious in feeling] I'll have room to mention two, different from each other and also different from many books one sees.

The first is "The Christmas Anna-Angel," a charming story of two Hungarian children, illustrated by the Hungarian artist Kate Seredy, published by Viking Press, price $2.

The second, which I believe city children, and perhaps many country children, will love [and their mothers]; is "The Park Book" by Charlotte Zolotow, published by Harper Brothers, price $1.75. The text and the pictures in color follow, from morning until night, a day in Central park and the people [old and young], the animals and happenings that pass before the eyes of a child.

Our Orchestra Again Performs with Rare Skill

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange, conductor. Presented at Orchestra hall Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 12, 1944. The program:
"Amaryllis," Suite for Orchestra.....Handel-Beecham
[First performance in Chicago.]
Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis, for Double String Orchestra...Williams
Symphony No. 8, B minor, "Unfinished".....Schubert
Symphonie-Fantastic, F sharp minor.....Miaskowsky
Siegfried's Rhine Journey, from "The Twilight of the Gods".....Wagner

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

It is difficult not to be recklessly jubilant about yesterday afternoon's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Hans Lange, because it sustained last week's hopeful impression of improved performance. There were shabby spots, notably in the winds of the lovely "Amaryllis" suite Sir Thomas Beecham arranged from the dance music of Handel, and the Siegfried's Rhine Journey began majestically in the shadowed luster of the burnished brass, the orchestra no longer possesses the tonal resources to storm the Wagnerian heights. But there were indications, welcome past belief, that the old splendor, properly coaxed, can return.

This was most consistently true in the revealing performance of Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on a Tallis theme, a distinguished work played with somber beauty by the double string orchestra, highlighted in sober restraint by John Weicher's and Franz Polesny's violins, Milton Preves' viola, and Dudley Powers' cello. With first chair men of that caliber, no orchestra can be inextricably lost.

Nor, or so it seemed yesterday, can it wander too far from the path of true music when Mr. Lange adds to his unquestioned musicianship the relaxation, the authority, and the understanding to match his integrity. Nothing was forced, almost everything fell simply into place, and the best of the concert was both restful and stimulating, as concerts should be.

Never a man content with the obvious, Mr. Lange chose an out of the ordinary program. The "Amaryllis" suite, played for the first time here, is a find worth keeping, to be heard at its most bewitching some day when the winds are in fettle to match the strings. The Schubert "Unfinished" was effortlessly played, which isn't as easy as it sounds, and it was a good idea to revive the Miaskowsky Symphonic-Fantasie commissioned for the orchestra's golden jubilee. It is an effective piece of work and should become one of the orchestra's successes once that orchestra is back in golden jubilee form to play it. I hope we don't have to wait until the diamond jubilee for that to happen.

Color Contrast Pockets Accent Paris Costumes

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Single large pockets in contrasting colors and materials, placed in the front of mid-season suits and dresses; multi-colored bags to match millinery, and costume jewelry to go with oddly shaped buttons are the highlight of Schiaparelli's current fashion parade.

A huge leopard skin pocket adorns the middle of the waist of a black woolen dress, presented with matching fur bag and a high toque. A two-piece beige dress is trimmed with a square purple pocket of cotton velvet attached to the belt. Accompanying the latter are a beige pillbox hat with a huge purple velvet bow in the back and a woolen bag in the same beige with purple velvet straps and clasp.

Schiaparelli's sport ensembles have exaggerated padded shoulders and big brass buttons placed on epaulets, at the sides, in the back, or on pockets. There are chains, earrings, and bracelets to match the buttons.

For evening wear Schiaparelli shows a long black velvet gown with mutton sleeves and flared skirt. Belts are made of plaited green, yellow, blue, and red beads. Matching triple bracelets and choker are worn with the gown. A floor length, brocaded satin gown in pale blue has glimmering rhinestone buttons in the back. Similar rhinestones form triangular earrings and a necklace.

Novelties in Jeanne Lanvin's mid-season fashion show include hand-painted flowers, figures, and geometrical designs on sports dresses and evening gowns and mounted lace motifs on afternoon dresses.

Several long backless and sleeveless dance dresses in pastel shades are trimmed at the wide hem and fitted waist with huge painted poppies, purple and yellow daisies, or bright blue gentians.

A dovetail design made up of green, black, red, and yellow crossed lines is painted around the neck line, cuffs, and hem of a purple dressing gown. Another model, in pink crepe, has a large multicolored flower motif on the roomy wing sleeves.

White lace forms six-petaled flowers on the pockets and shoulders of a black woolen afternoon dress. On a similar dress the same mounted flower motif in yellow lace appears all the way down the center of the back. Identical trimming adorns the waist and matching elbow length gloves.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

For several days I have had comments from readers concerning the very glamorous nature of the hands which have recently been under discussion. "It is all very interesting," they say, "but we never get such cards. Why don't you give us some of the hands that we hold in real life?" Very well, if you have had too much of the lilies, here comes some sesame.

I have been discussing for some time how to behave with an enthusiastic partner. For the next two or three days, I shall offer some suggestions as to how to conduct yourself with a partner of the sour face variety. By that, I mean, those who respond to your opening bid with the discouraging call of one no trump. They, like the poor, are always with us.

It seems very difficult for most players to judge whether to go on or not in the face of this gloomy response. I have devised a very simple method to help you over this hurdle.

It is this: Place your hand over the cards that constitute your opening bid and see what you have left. These we shall call the surplus. If you have only one trick surplus, make up your mind that you are not going game.

If you have a trick and a half surplus, there is the possibility that you can go game, provided that your partner has more than a minimum no trump takeout. If you have two tricks surplus, make sure that your team gets to game, and you must accept the responsibility yourself. Do not ask your partner to do your work for you.

In today's hand, North responded to partner's opening spade bid with one no trump. South bid two no trump, whereupon North quite properly contracted for game. North was justified inasmuch as he had promised his partner only about one trick and he actually had one and one-half.

South's problem was really an easy one, he had but one ace more than an opening bid, which meant that game was out of the question and he should have passed quite promptly to his partner's one no trump response.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

The bidding has proceeded as follows:

What do you bid now?

Mrs. George A., Chicago — I've painted the insides of my parchment shades a light color to give more light. First I applied a coat of colorless shellac [or substitute] and then used a flat paint, applying it horizontally. The results are good.

Helen H., Oak Park—When two glasses stick together I place them upright in a pan of warm water, then fill the inside glass with cold water.

Mrs. George S., Lincoln, Neb.—To keep a paint brush in shape [I'm the painter around our house these days] I load it with paint, then draw it, flat side down, across the rim of the paint can. It will ruin the shape if the brush is drawn across the can edgewise.

Comedy Pair's Screen Humor Low and Dull

"LOST IN A HAREM."

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

It may be possible that there are lower forms of humor than those indulged in by Abbott and Costello in "Lost in a Harem" — three months of movie reviewing have made us cautious about proclaiming ultimates. But, brother, it's low, low, low, and dull, dull, dull. It's Keystone comedy of early vintage, blown up and wired for sound.

Abbott and Costello are first discovered in a floor show in some benighted cafe on the edge of an oriental kingdom. Their act is so corny that it causes a riot and they land in jail. Human life being as cheap as it is today, we could have thought of a better punishment — and it would have saved thousands of feet of film.

But no, they have a lady friend, Marilyn Maxwell — who's pretty enough in the Hollywood manner—and for the love of this lady the rightful ruler of the neighboring kingdom, whose throne has been usurped by a wicked uncle, propositions them—said proposal being that he will get them out of jail if the boys will help him regain his kingdom.

The boys get out of jail, not without comic incident, of course; with Marilyn and the usurped prince [John Conte], they make their way to the palace of the wicked ruler. The prince had counted on his uncle's susceptibility to blondes to work the restoration trick, but he hadn't taken into consideration the old boy's two magic rings, which he needs only to flash in the eyes of people he doesn't like to hypnotize them and make them do his bidding.

In fact, it's even simpler than that. For example, while the boys are staring fascinatedly into the depths of the magic stones, the king, merely in passing, calls them termites, but it's sufficient to set them gnawing at the furniture.

But enough—there's no need to eat a whole turkey to tell how long it's been in storage. Jimmy Dorsey and his band are present—they've been mesmerized by the magic rings into playing parades for the king, regardless of the union ruling on parades. They might well have played more—it wouldn't be the first time music has been used to plug the cracks in a seamy film.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 12.—Walt Disney's "The Three Caballeros" will get a special premiere in Mexico City Dec. 21—several weeks before it's shown in the United States. The affair down there will have all the aspects of a diplomatic event, with President Camacho, Ambassador Messersmith, and high ranking officials from Latin America attending. The Disneys will fly down for it. Didn't I say some time ago that Disney's pictures did more toward creating good will between our Latin American neighbors and ourselves than any mess of words our visiting firemen have delivered? They understand Disney, but most of the visitors we've sent down don't even understand their language. I know—I was thoroly ashamed of myself for not being able to understand them when I was down there. . . . Peter Lorre, Sydney Greenstreet, and Geraldine Fitzgerald will be starred in John Huston's story, "Three Strangers," with Jean Negulesco again at the megaphone. This is Wolfgang Rheinhardt's first production since getting out of the army. He's still working on "The Miracle," which, as you probably remember, was his father's outstanding production. . . . Diana Lewis [Mrs. Bill Powell] has signed a new contract with Metro, with the promise that her next would really be a good part.

Boy Meets Girls.

The Andrews Sisters will have the old groaner himself [Bing Crosby] as the first guest star on their "Eight to the Bar Ranch" opening Sunday, Dec. 31. Bing and the girls will sing "Don't Fence Me In," which they've already put on a record. The comedy writers are going to be hard put to it when they learn that Bing has sold his horses. . . . Warners don't let their players in on what they're going to do. Dennis Morgan didn't know until I told him in Fresno, where we all put on the bite for over $7,000,000 worth of bonds, that he'd been switched from Bette Davis' to Ann Sheridan's next picture, and he danced for joy. . . . Erroll Flynn doesn't know what his next will be, "The Frontiersman" or "Don Juan." But Errol's made up his mind that he'd like Lauren Bacall for the girl, whichever it is. I just can't see the little Bacall in calico and on a horse, can you?

Running True to Form.

I'm told that Roz Russell's "Roughly Speaking" is really "Mrs. Yankee Doodle Dandy," but good. If you remember the book, both mamma and papa and the children had a tough time holding onto a job. The night Louise Randall Pierson and her husband saw the preview, he turned to her after it was over and said, "Honey, I think you ought to know I just lost my job today." . . . Betty Blythe, "Queen of Sheba" 23 years ago on the silent screen and now doing a cross-country tour in "Wall Flower," aims to get here some time in May. . . . Tex Ritter believes he has a good story about the war experiences of a Texas Methodist preacher, now in the marines, under the title "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory." Ritter is writing it with Irving Yates, hoping the studios will be interested. . . . Cornel Wilde, as Chopin, plays the piano in "A Song to Remember." But what you hear is the artistry of Jose Iturbi, while you look at Wilde.

He's a Lady, Lassie Is.

When I called in "Lassie" he was resting from a heavy scene in "Hold High the Torch," but he got up, extended his front paw, and when I left, made a graceful bow. Some actresses could learn from him. . . . Paul Whiteman always gets 'em and he surely did for his anniversary party at Earl Carroll's. There were the Harold Lloyds, Joe E. Brown, Kay Francis, the Rudy Vallees, Stirling Holloway, Andy Devine, John Hodiak, and beautiful Mrs. Carl Post, among many others. They stayed on until swept out to make way for the evening show. . . . Harry Von Zell took his 16 year old son, Kenneth, along to a bond rally, and the kid did better than his pappy. . . . Alfred Hitchcock has nothing on Pine and Thomas. Director Bill turned the megaphone over to Bill Gargan, so he could act in his own picture.

They'll Be Missed.

Gracie Fields' parents, here during four blitz years, have returned to England. Gracie's mother packed and repacked her belongings every week. She brought over her choice china cups and saucers, which she would use only if a well known came to tea. Soon as they'd left, she'd grab dishes, repack them, and be ready to set sail. What a story those parents would make! Gracie told me that with her first big money she bought herself a Rolls Royce. Every time she rode in it she was mobbed, so she got herself a Ford, turned the Rolls over to her parents, and they took folks riding who'd never been in a car before. . . . Tallulah Bankhead took her friend and Bill Eythe dining. Talu, of course, never stopped talking, and Bill didn't get a chance to speak, so excused himself for a few minutes. And then Talu was overheard saying to the friend, "Didn't I tell you he was a genius!"

WHITE SOX GET HOCKETT, ORENGO IN TRADES

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Con Jennings, director of athletics at Marquette university, who owns a summer home on a lake near Watersmeet, Mich., hopes to live there after retiring and teach history in the local high school. . . . Writing from Italy, Pvt. Jackie Sheehan, the bicycle racer, "hopes the Krauts won't scuttle all their breweries" before he gets to Germany. . . . Yankee Scout Joe Devine, who picked Joe Cronin off the San Francisco sandlots, believes he has in Johnny Candenasso, another Pacific coast sandlotter, a shortstop who some day may rival Joe, that is if Uncle Sam doesn't claim him before he can report to the Yanks' spring camp. . . . In 41 football games played against teams representing five major conferences or groups, Tulane has established an enviable record. . . . The Green Wave has won 27 games, lost 13, and tied one. . . . Broken down by conferences, the Wave has won two and lost one against the Pacific coast; won seven and lost three against major eastern teams; won 10 and lost three against the Southwest conference, as it now is organized. . . . Only the Western conference has an edge in the competition, Tulane having won only one out of three, but one of those setbacks was back in 1921 at the hands of Michigan. . . . Softball officials estimate that the game attracted 131,000,000 spectators in 1944. . . . When Coach Slip Madigan of the University of Iowa appeared as guest speaker recently at a fraternity sports dinner he noted that the chief item of decoration was a pair of football goal posts, adorned with the Old Gold and Black of the Hawkeyes, which stretched across the speakers' table. . . . Slip's first remark, upon being introduced was, "I am very happy to be here, gentlemen. It is the first time I have been under a goal post this year." . . . Lt. [j. g.] Sam Wicklow, former coach of the soccer squad at the University of San Francisco, is a regular now with the kickers of Bainbridge naval center. . . .

Two of Oregon State's most promising basketball candidates are 6 foot 6 inch Ted Henningsen and 6 foot 4 inch Dick Straight, both of whom were discharged from the army following knee operations. . . . When Nick Cullop, new manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, was breaking down fences with home runs for Minneapolis the fans of the city gave him a "day." . . . When Nick came to the plate to receive a collection of gifts he doffed his bat to the crowd, revealing his shiny bald head. . . . Altho he hit two home runs that afternoon, Owner Mike Kelly called Nick to his office after the game and bawled him out. . . . "Nick," said Mike, "when the scouts in the stands saw that head the price on you dropped $5,000." . . . Howie Odell, who wasn't a unanimous choice for the head coaching job at Yale, now is called the best liked occupant of the berth since Tad Jones, which is praise, indeed.

Ancient and Modern.

Where are the hats of yesterday
That once we used to wear,
The kind that fitted on the head
And covered up the hair?

How dignified they used to be,
Such dignified chapeaux,
That made the giddy look sedate
If price was high or low.

The picture changed, how frivolous
Are those now on display,
A wisp of felt, a colored veil,
Or flower garden gay.

The grandmamas, how young they look
In saucy ones they buy,
They rival any debutante
And do not even try.

The men [God bless 'em] ridicule
Our milliners today,
But we, we hunt another hat
And go our merry way.
—Hilda Butler Farr.

The Nail on the Head.

Ever so often from time to time
Some reader to me has said,
"Tell me, how is it you so often seem
To hit the nail on the head?"
Well, I just sort o' mingle with people,
In sorrow, in worry, in fun;
Just sort o' stop, look, and listen,
And first thing you know, it's done.

I chat with Ernie Hohaus,
Home from h's camp on short leave,
And learn of the boys, their problems and joys,
What they feel and hope and believe;
I talk with the girls at Kretz's;
They tell me of those they serve;
The night clerk at the old Merchants' hotel,

Each waiting a loved one's return,
And I sense the infinite longing
And the hopes that in each heart yearns;
We're really all pretty much alike
When everything's done and said,
So merely thru livin' the knack is given
Of "hitting the nail on the head"!

SCORE EARLY AND OFTEN IS PACKERS' PLAN

Green Bay Cool to Herber Feud.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 12.—It was inevitable that Arnie Herber's name eventually would be mentioned. And it popped up this afternoon during a free for all conversation after the Green Bay Packers had bundled up for a workout on the University of Virginia campus.

The Packers are going to see their old pal, Mr. Herber, Sunday afternoon in the Polo Grounds and the eastern papers are making much of an old sports situation—castoff player joins rival team and singlehandedly wreaks revenge.

Throws Touchdown Passes.

The story is that Herber asked for a contract from his Green Bay coach this summer and, failing to get it, showed up at the New York Giants' camp in Bear Mountain, N. Y. It is suspected that Red Smith, Lambeau's ex-line coach, now aligned with the Giants, might have arranged for Arnie's comeback effort.

Anyway, Arnie, a portly fellow of 34, caused a stir by throwing three touchdown passes in Sunday's 31 to 0 rout of the Washington Redskins. In so doing he pitched them to the eastern title, and the stakes are even higher Sunday. This one's for the National league championship and an invitation to participate in the College All-Star game in Evanston next August.

Dodges Personal Issue.

Herber having been gingerly introduced into the gabfest, some one braved a sharp answer from Lambeau by inquiring if the Packers are worried about Herber causing any undue aerial depredations. Curly quickly answered:

"I'm sure we can stop Herber." Then, he amended it:

Lambeau was reminded that the Packers didn't stop the Giants a few weeks ago when they were soundly beaten, 24 to 0.

"We won't get beat like that again," answered Curly.

Save New Trickery.

The Packers might have been overconfident going into this 24 to 0 game, Lambeau admitted. First thing they knew the alert Giants had intercepted a pass and scored a touchdown. They intercepted another one, but the Packers held on the 2 yard line. Then the Giants came back with a field goal for a 10 to 0 lead at the half. The western champions had some new trickery arranged for that contest, but they decided to save it, Lambeau said. The new plays are being rehearsed down here, which is a good idea.

Cochran Beats Hoppe to Win Billiard Title

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—Welker Cochran, the San Francisco veteran, swept to the national three cushion billiard championship tonight by defeating Defending Title Holder Willie Hoppe of White Plains, 50 to 44, in 31 innings.

Cochran, undefeated in the 10 day tournament, made the former "boy wonder" his ninth successive victim. Hoppe won seven and lost two. The round robin tourney had 10 entrants.

Cochran's victory earned him first place money of $2,500.

Hoppe had a chance to tie Cochran for first place, but after the defending champion led for two innings, the match was all Cochran's.

Cochran overcame Hoppe's 4 to 2 lead in the third frame with a run of seven, and from then on the closest the silver thatched champ could get was 37 to 35 in the 24th frame.

Cochran's seven was his high run, while Hoppe's best cluster was five. Score by innings:

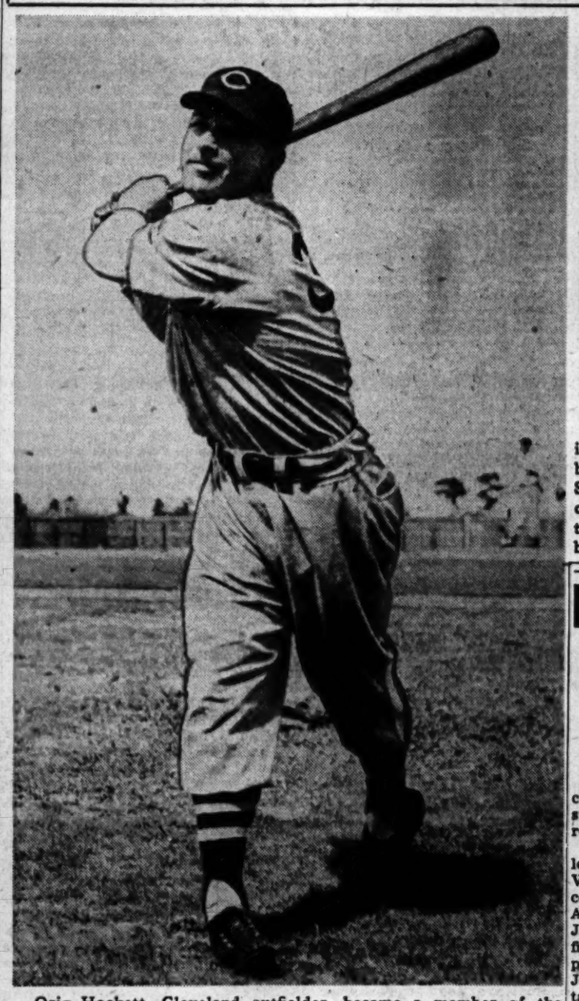
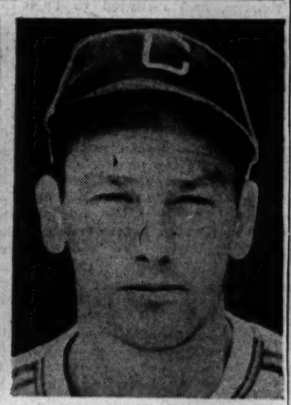
Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., beat Ralph Greenleaf, Detroit, 50 to 37 in 44 innings in the final match of the tourney. This gave Bozeman seven victories against two defeats, the same as Hoppe, but Hoppe was awarded second place because he scored more points, 441 to 427.

INVOLVED IN SOX TRADES WITH TIGERS AND INDIANS

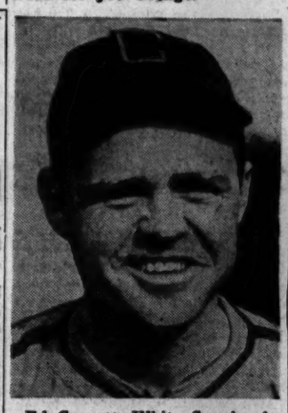


Orie Hockett, Cleveland outfielder, became a member of the White Sox yesterday after Chicago caused a minor disturbance in an otherwise tranquil trading market at the major league meetings. Hockett came to the Sox in exchange for Ed Carnett. [Acme Photo.]

Joe Orengo, who has seen service with both major leagues, also became a member of the White Sox family yesterday when Chicago sent Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb to the Detroit Tigers. Orengo batted .201 last season.



Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb, White Sox infielder, will report to his father-in-law, Steve O'Neill, manager of the Tigers, for spring practice, following the Sox action in sending him to Detroit in a trade for Joe Orengo.



Ed Carnett, White Sox handyman and one time Cub, went to the Cleveland Indians yesterday in the deal that brought Oris Hockett to Comiskey park.

ILLINOIS FACES NEW CHALLENGE IN BID FOR HORSE SHOW HONORS

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Leading in blue ribbons after four evening programs and one matinee were the Hawthorn farm of Libertyville, John F. Cuneo's contribution to the competition of national champions; the Dodge stables of Rochester, Minn.; James L. Younghusband's Barrington stables, and H. Leslie Atlass' Sunny Ridge farm of Wheaton.

Illinois Mare Wins.

Meadow Wisp, a 4 year old mare from the Hickory Creek farm of West McHenry, Ill., owned by Frank Howard, walked off with first honors in the $1,000 stake for three-gaited saddle horses, the highlight of the evening. The event drew a representative field of 23 and the judges lost little time deciding in favor of the Howard entrant. Second place was won by Blaze of Glory, owned by Mrs. Elaine Victor Mahle of Wilmette. Guiding Moon, from the Hillcrest-Carm farm, took third, and Susezette Lee Rose, shown by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hackett of Tennant, Ia., was awarded fourth place.

Curt G. Joa's Captain Bird, a blue ribbon winner in the junior fine harness horse class at the Louisville state fair in September, repeated last night in the $500 championship stake, the secondary feature. The Hillcrest-Carm farms' champion from Sheboygan, Wis., was given the judges' decision over Martha Rex A., owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Gould of Harlan, Ia., only after a third judge had been called in. Third place went to Sweet Rhythm, owned by the Dodge stables, and fourth place was taken by Big Shot, owned by Mrs. P. A. Thomas Jr. of Evanston.

Show Crowd over 21,000.

The attendance was estimated at 5,000, bringing the total for the first five performances to approximately 21,500.

Tonight, however, the pace will be increased with the presentation of four championship awards carrying $6,000 of the $80,000 total war bond purse distribution set up for the nine evening and five matinee sessions.

Early arrivals will see a fine field in harness ponies compete in a $1,000 stake. Shortly afterward three gaited saddle horses 15.2 hands and over, will step out in another $1,000 event, part of the competition for the $10,000 world's championship stake which closes the show Sunday night.

Field of 19 to Compete.

The program's co-feature will be a $2,000 stake, the mare division of the $10,000 grand championship event. It has drawn a field of 19 of the nation's best five gaited mares from eight states and representing 17 stables.

The show will go on a two a day schedule starting tomorrow and continuing thru Sunday. Matinees start at 2 o'clock and evening performances at 8 o'clock.

VANDERBILT TO RETURN TO BIG TIME FOOTBALL

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 12 (AP).—Vanderbilt university will return to the big time football wars next year after two seasons of informal play, officials announced today.

Chancellor O. C. Carmichael said that a 1945 Southeastern conference schedule would be arranged, and that pending the return of former Coach Henry R. [Red] Sanders, now a lieutenant in the navy, McNeill [Doby] Bartling had been asked to "handle the details, which will be involved in planning the 1945 season."

WEBB GOES TO TIGERS; INDIANS TAKE CARNETT

Majors to Draft New Agreement.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—The Chicago White Sox, who yesterday figured in the first player deal of the major league convention when they traded Lefty Jake Wade for Lefty Johnny Johnson of the Yankees, today accelerated the trading market in deals with the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians.

In the deal with the Tigers the White Sox obtained Infielder Joe Orengo in exchange for Infielder Skeeter Webb and in the transaction with the Indians Chicago acquired Oris Hockett in a trade for Ed Carnett.

Webb batted .211 last year and Orengo .201. Last season Carnett played in 126 games and in every position available to a left handed player—all three outfields, first base, and even took an occasional turn at pitching. He batted .276 and batted in 60 runs. Hockett played in 124 games last year for the Indians in which he batted .289 and batted in 50 runs.

Rewrite Major Agreement.

Simultaneously with the flurry of activity on the trading market, the two minors announced appointment of a committee which will write a new major league agreement to supplant the 23 year old pact which was junked yesterday.

The batting averages of the writers of the new agreement so to speak, will not be known until they reveal their handiwork shortly after the first of next year. On their words and phrases will hinge many vital developments. Most informed baseball folk believe the rewriters will keep the teeth which gave the late Comissioner Landis czarlike powers. Or they can fashion subtle platinum handcuffs which would be little more than ornamental bracelets on the new commissioner.

Five from Each League.

The committee is made up of five men from each league and represents men of rather diversified views on baseball procedure.

None on the list, however, has been quoted as being opposed to perpetuating the dictatorial powers under which Landis ruled so long and so well. Here is the committee:

P. K. Wrigley, owner-president of the Chicago Cubs; Sam Breadon, president of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals; Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Horace Stoneham, president of the New York Giants; Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Don Barnes, president of the St. Louis Browns, champions of the American league; Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians; Jack Zeller, general manager of the Detroit Tigers; Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox; Joseph Hostetler, secretary of the Indians, and American league attorney.

Family Reunion in Detroit.

In the Chicago-Detroit deal Manager Jim Dykes lost a golf companion with Webb's passing but Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers made possible a family reunion. Webb is married to Steve's daughter, Olive.

Yesterday Manager Ossie Bluege tried to get Dykes to take Pitcher Roger Wolff in exchange for Joe. Today he led with Alejandro Carrasquel, the Venezuelan right hander, but Dykes wouldn't listen to that one, either.

Convention Closes Today.

The White Sox today announced dates for six exhibition games to be played next spring on successive week-ends. Manager Dykes will take his Sox to Evansville, Ind., to meet Detroit, March 24 and 25, and the two teams will return to the Chicago training ground in Terre Haute, March 31 and April 1. Pittsburgh will play in Terre Haute April 7 and 8.

The convention will close tomorrow with the joint meeting of the two leagues tomorrow morning.

But Smaller Kill in 1945 Is Predicted.

BY BOB BECKER.

The hunters who visited the day shooting places around the Horseshoe lake refuge in southern Illinois this fall killed slightly more than 7,000 geese. The kill figure for the season had been fixed at 6,000.

On Nov. 13 the shotgun brigades in the pits and cornfields around the refuge had killed 5,100, so on that day an order was signed by the fish and wildlife service to stop all hunting on the 17th, when it was expected that the take would hit the 6,000 figure, or possibly exceed it a little. But two days of stormy weather which turned the geese out in large numbers resulted in a heavier kill than anticipated, so the final kill was slightly better than 7,000.

Altho the fish and wildlife service has made no official announcement about the number of geese that can be shot down there next year, we'll hazard this guess about 1945: The season in 1945 in Alexander county will be so arranged that there won't be 7,000 geese killed down there. Nor will there be 6,000 taken by hunters. The take from the Horseshoe lake concentration is going to be reduced considerably.

Jimmy Wilson Notified Son Missing in Action

Ex-YankRides to Town Upon a Dandy Pony

The rumbling tanks and track tread artillery of the army's mechanized cavalry didn't appeal to Buck Davis, a horse and pony trainer from Paris, Edgan county. He accepted them as necessary, but his heart was back with his ponies.

Recently Davis received a medical discharge, and returned to Paris. When he entered the army he had disposed of his stable of ponies and horses. Their new owners had grown attached to the animals, so Davis was forced to try to build up a new stable.

Proves a Tough Job.

It proved to be an uphill task. Davis found a few ponies, but none that showed promise of becoming show material. Then he heard that a man named George Cooley had some ponies at Newton, Jasper county, 70 miles from Paris.

In a pasture at Newton Davis saw a pony that looked good. The animal was shaggy and its unkempt coat bristled with burrs. It also appeared to be wild as a mustang, but Davis knew a good pony when he saw one.

Starts Work on Pony.

"I'll take him," Davis told Cooley. "He looks like a high stepper to me."

Then followed an arduous period of grooming, taming, and training. At last Davis had the pony slicked up like a circus performer, and eating out of his hand. The little animal became the talk of the town.

Yesterday the pony—Top Tune—had become the talk not only of Paris, but of horse and pony lovers everywhere. For Top Tune, competing against some of the nation's finest, had won first prize in the toughest pony competition of the entire Horse show at the Coliseum—the high stepping class.

WRITERS AWARD NEIL TROPHY TO BENNY LEONARD

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Benny Leonard of the maritime service today was awarded the Edward J. Neil plaque by the New York Boxing Writers' association as the man who did the most for the sport during 1944.

Leonard was selected over such luminaries as Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, who was awarded the plaque in 1941; Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery, and Beau Jack, who drew $36,000,000 in war bond at a Madison Square Garden show in August, and Willie Pep, featherweight king.

The plaque is awarded annually in memory of Eddie Neil, Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent, who lost his life in 1938 while covering the Spanish revolution.

Leonard entered the merchant marine in 1942 and recently was promoted to lieutenant commander.

Previous winners of the award were: 1938, Jack Dempsey; 1939, Billy Conn; 1940, Henry Armstrong; 1941, Joe Louis; 1942, Barney Ross; 1943, all boxers in the armed services.

7,631 See Robinson Stop Sheik Rangel in 2d Round

ILLINI THREATENS DE PAUL RECORD, MIKAN'S SCORING

De Paul university will risk a six game winning streak and Capt. George Mikan his 21 points per game scoring average when the Blue Demons meet Illinois on the double header basketball card Saturday night in the Chicago Stadium. The other game of the evening pairs Northwestern and Marquette.

Phelan to Center.

It can readily be assumed that Coaches Ray Meyer of De Paul and Doug Mills of Illinois are plotting plenty of strategy for their showdown. One of these maneuvers may be the shifting of George Mikan to forward if the ailing Jack Phelan is able to start at center for the Demons. Meyer believes Mikan will function even more brilliantly at the forward post.

A scoring duel is in prospect between Mikan and Junior Kirk, Illinois' "Blitz Kid," both rated as fine a player as any in the country.

Hilltoppers Are Fast.

Northwestern, exceeding all advance predictions as to its season's prospects with the fairly easy conquest of a DePauw team that had humbled Indiana, will meet a fast and determined Marquette five that relies on speed to make up for its lack of height. Bill Chandler Jr., son of the coach and playing his fifth season on the team as a navy V-12 medical student, and Pedro Prado, Puerto Rican center, are among the Hilltoppers' standouts. The Wildcats are relying on Benny Schadler and Max Morris to pace the attack.

Hawks Shift Line-Up for Game Sunday

The Chicago Blackhawks hope that lineup changes will lift them out of the National Hockey league doldrums when they meet the Detroit Red Wings in Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

Manager Paul Thompson shuffled both forwards and defense men in yesterday's workout in the Arena, and he proposes to continue to experiment with different player combinations thru Friday's drill.

The only certainties in the Chicago lineup for Sunday are that Mike Karakas will be in goal and that the Horeck-Smith-Mosienko front line trio will remain intact.

CHAMPIONS KEEP ON WINNING IN SERVICE BOUTS

ROME, Dec. 12 (AP).—Three of four defending title holders showed their stuff tonight in the second annual interallied boxing tournament and when they had finished there appeared little reason to believe they couldn't go right on being bosses.

After Marcel Cerdan, flailing French sailor, put his professional middleweight opponent to sleep in 70 seconds on the afternoon card, Pvt. Larry Cisneros, Los Angeles, front line infantryman and a ringer for Tony Canzoneri, became the big hit of the night session by outpointing Pvt. Dixie Fleming, Las Vegas, Nev., Negro, to reach the pro welterweight semi-finals.

Defending Champion Wins.

The third defending champ, Gunner Rene Pons of the French army, had an easy time taking a decision over British Corp. James Connolly in the pro featherweight class.

Pons reached the finals along with Corp. Henry Jones, rugged Detroit Negro, in the pro heavyweight division and Corp. Melvyn Pullen, Dayton, O., in the amateur bantamweight class. Jones outpointed Pvt. Major George Markwick, a big Britisher. Pullen knocked out Pvt. Alphonse Johnson, Washington, in the second round.

Americans in Semi-Finals.

Pvt. Leon Atkins, Baltimore, outpointed A. M. Jakes, British army, to reach the amateur middleweight semi-finals while Pvt. Richard Ward, Philadelphia, advanced to the amateur lightweight semi-finals by default.

Pvt. Murray Cain, former New York Golden Gloves boxer, defeated Pvt. Thaddeus Lee of Baton Rouge, La., in three fast rounds in the lightweight professional division.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

CORPORATE TAX TERMED BAR TO NEW INDUSTRY

Kills Big Business, Says Voorhees.

Present corporate taxes make it impossible to start new job creating enterprises and are slowly killing big business, Enders M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of United States Steel corporation, told 2,200 business and industrial leaders last night at the annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the Stevens hotel. He said present corporate taxes favor inefficient high cost companies to the disadvantage of well managed low cost companies.

Voorhees, who watches the purse strings of the world's largest steel company, criticized the entire tax structure, including personal income taxes.

Induces Fraud Element.

"The corporate income tax not only is destructive in its effects; it induces an element of fraud," he said. "There is no use blinking the fact that taxes and regulations are setting back the moral clock and there is every reason to believe that all income taxes are heading into a moral outlook, not unlike the moral outlook on violations of the Volstead act.

"There is no way of explaining all of the vast increase in the amount of hand money in circulation except on the ground that many transactions are being carried on with cash that leaves no trace. The inevitable consequence of bad laws is the moral degeneration of evasion."

Voorhees said that corporation taxes are costs and over a period of years are paid by the customer in higher prices than he would otherwise pay.

Thrifty Plant Sets Prices.

"The most efficient producer—that is, the man with the lowest cost—is the one who attracts the customers," he continued. "His price is the one at which other producers must sell. Thus all customers of all producers pay a price which includes the income tax of the low cost producers. But only the low cost producers turn over to the government the taxes they collect. The less efficient keep what they collect, paying less taxes because their costs are higher. This is in effect a subsidy.

"The high cost producer could not meet the low cost producer's prices based on manufacturing costs. The income tax clears a cost area for him to absorb his higher costs."

Voorhees said the present high tax rates are particularly severe on the small business trying to get started on Main st. First, the high income taxes make it difficult for a small business man to find any one with capital from whom he may borrow. And once he does get started the high taxes make it difficult for him to store surplus with which to carry on expansion.

Regulatory Maze Discouraging.

"It has always been hard to translate a creative idea into a going business venture," he said. "Today's taxes are among the penalties making it almost impossible. Now the maze of tax, price, labor, and other regulations, producing great uncertainty even with expert and costly advice, discourages even the most hardy."

Voorhees said present tax laws favor the large established companies and apparently make their positions more secure. He added that it would be significant if we could find a method of discovering the extent to which law is forcing concentration of business.

"What we are having is something in the nature of a freezing process in which big business, because of its bulk, takes the longest to die," he continued. "New and small businesses and the growth of all business are the warm lifeblood of all enterprises be they large or small. We in United States Steel know that if new and small customers are frozen out and existing customers frozen in, we too shall eventually freeze."

Offers One Solution.

Voorhees said he could see only one way out of the tax trouble, a form of taxation that would permit real competition among producers, would not shelter inefficiency, and would return to the government in taxes all the tax cost collected from the customer. Higher costs must be met by increased efficiency, not penalized by taxes. He said the American economy must be carefully examined to learn what part of United States goods and services can be turned over to government and still leave the country able to promote real human progress.

Child's Apparel Maker Incorporated in Illinois

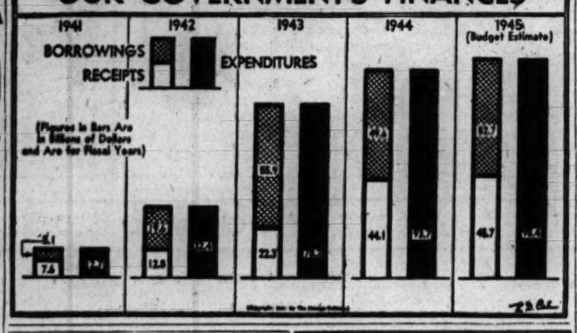
OUR GOVERNMENT'S FINANCES



State, Lake Corner Sold for $300,000

BY AL CHASE.

A Chicago syndicate of three persons will pay $300,000 for the southeast corner of State and Lake sts., on which a post-war six story building may be erected, it was learned yesterday. The property, cash payment for which is in escrow, is owned by the James F. Porter estate. Arthur W. Rubloff & Co., broker in the transaction, is manager of the present building, and is expected to have charge of the proposed improvement.

The price established a value of $2,740 per foot for the 109½ foot frontage on State st., and $40 per square foot for the 7,489.8 square feet of land. The land fronts 68.4 feet on Lake st. and adjoins the Chicago theater on its other two sides.

Plan to Raze Loop End.

Tentative plans of the syndicate call for razing the present six story Loop End building, built soon after the Chicago fire, and replacing it with a modern, fireproof structure when building restrictions permit. Balaban & Katz corporation, which occupies the two upper floors of the Loop End [connected with the Chicago theater], may lease all of the office space in the new building, it was said.

The late Sol H. Goldberg, millionaire manufacturer and inventor of the "hump hairpin," leased the State-Lake corner in 1928 for 99 years at an average rental of $115,000. He planned a monumental skyscraper which never materialized.

Disappointed, Loses Leasehold.

This was just one year prior to the big stock market crash of 1929, and Goldberg made this comment on his acquisition: "In view of the present wild state of the stock market I believe the time opportune to get out of this hazardous field of finance and I'm investing my surplus capital in real estate."

Goldberg, however, found disappointment in real estate, and in 1933 he lost his leasehold thru default of taxes.

Samuel B. Epstein of McInerney, Epstein & Arvey, was attorney for the syndicate in the current purchase, and Gordon, Buckley & Edmonds represented the seller.

DISMISS HOWARD STOCKHOLDERS' INJUNCTION SUIT

A suit by three stockholders requesting appointment of a receiver for Howard Aircraft corporation and an injunction to restrain the company from concluding negotiations with the navy was dismissed yesterday by Judge Campbell in United States District court.

The court ruled the plaintiffs had failed to prove their allegations that the corporation's executive committee "controled and dominated the corporation and dissipated the corporate assets of the company," and said a settlement of losses on plane sales negotiated by the company with the navy was legal and proper.

The navy agreed, under terms of the settlement approved last week by Judge Campbell, to pay a net amount of $141,431 plus interest on the sum owed; to provide funds to meet termination claims of subcontractors, and not to exceed $72,300 to enable the company to pay any retroactive vacation pay owed.

National Tea and Kroger Report Sales Increases

National Tea company sales rose 9.06 per cent to $7,769,120 in the four weeks ended Dec. 2, the grocery organization reported yesterday. The number of stores in operation decreased to 831 on Dec. 2 from 881 a year ago. Kroger Grocery and Baking company reported sales of $35,814,153, up 10.5 per cent.

People and Events

Four employes of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday received awards for efficiency suggestions made this year from Britton I. Budd, president, at a luncheon in the Palmer House. They were Edward M. Fee of Northbrook, Miss Grace M. Baird of Crystal Lake, Dominic Cecconi of Skokie and Paul H. Engel of Joliet.

C. A. Powel, president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, will address the institute's Chicago section tomorrow night in the Stevens building. He will discuss his plan for a nation-wide association of engineers to speak for the profession in government and industry.

Standard Forgings corporation has won the army-navy production award for the fourth time, George E. Van Hagen, president, said yesterday.

Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic manager, will address the Western Society of Engineers tomorrow in the organization's headquarters at 205 W. Wacker dr.

Warren Wheary, sales manager of Schneider Metal Manufacturing company, has been elected vice president in charge of sales, Christ Schneider, president, said.

CHICAGO SHOE SHOPS AWAIT RATION FREE PIGSTRIP FOOTWEAR

Chicago shoe stores will handle ration free "pigstrip" [bacon rind] shoes as soon as they are available, which probably will not be for several months, spokesmen said yesterday. A WPB order effective Dec. 1 permits their manufacture, partly to alleviate a shortage of children's shoes.

An official of one shoe chain said the pigstrip shoes probably will sell at about $4 a pair. The leather is best suited for children's shoes and women's play shoes, he said, and predicted a substantial amount would be used for brown and white saddle oxfords. Soles must be of unrationed material, such as reclaimed rubber or plastic. The pigstrip was said to wear as well as many types of leather, and can be embossed to imitate other leathers.

Sawdust Trail Takes Turn to Synthetic Tire

The conversion of sawdust to wood sugar from which come such products as butadiene used in synthetic rubber production was explained last night by Carl A. Rishell, research director of American Forest Products Industries, Inc., at the annual meeting of the National Lumber Manufacturers association in the Blackstone hotel.

Wood sugar, commonly known as corn starch sugar or glucose, is converted from sawdust thru the Scholler-Tornesch process, a German development, which involves hydrolysis of wood waste [sawdust]. Hydrolysis is accomplished by trickling sulphuric acid thru sawdust under pressure and heat, he said.

Yields 50 Gallons a Ton.

One ton of sawdust will produce approximately one-half ton of wood sugar, which provides the basis for 50 to 60 gallons of ethyl alcohol, he said. One of the most important industrial uses of alcohol today is in the production of butadiene for synthetic rubber, he asserted.

Construction of the first large commercial plant in the United States for "hydrolizing sawdust" is underway in Springfield, Ore., and it is expected to be completed by spring. This plant will be capable of producing 10,000 gallons of ethyl alcohol a day.

Has Another Product.

The same ton of sawdust will produce in addition to the sugar about 600 pounds of lignin, he said. It is expected that lignin will be used as a base for such products as plastics, fertilizers, water and gas purifiers, and road binders.

Discussing other developments in wood research, Rishell told of a new resin glue which has made possible the production of laminated keels for ships. The glue holds the laminae together under salt water and other ocean conditions, he said.

CUT NEWSPRINT ORDERS OF U.S., CANADA ASKED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—WPB has asked Canadian authorities to cut by 15 per cent all United States newsprint orders for December delivery totaling more than 150 tons. Publishers and other United States users who have ordered larger quantities from Canadian mills "should accordingly revise their requisitions downward by 15 per cent" to provide for the reduction, WPB's announcement said. The action was taken to bring United States orders for 1944 into balance with the tonnage which Canada had agreed to ship this year, WPB said.

N. Y. CENTRAL ORDERS 4,000 NEW BOX CARS

The New York Central system has placed orders for the construction of 4,000 box cars to cost 13 million dollars, Gustav Metzman, president, announced yesterday. Delivery is scheduled by next Oct. 1.

Despatch Shops, East Rochester, N. Y., will build 2,000 of the cars and American Car and Foundry company the remainder, 1,000 each in shops in St. Louis, Mo., and Madison, Ill.

4 Cent Wheat Ceiling Boost in Effect Now

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade are expected to raise the ceiling on wheat futures trading by 4 cents a bushel at a special meeting this morning prior to the opening of the market. Their action would correspond with that of the office of price administration last night in lifting the ceiling on cash wheat 4 cents, effective today.

OPA said the increase was necessary to fulfill the requirements of the stabilization extension act of 1944. The higher prices were calculated to reflect parity to producers. The increase affects all levels of distribution.

The price of bread, however, will not be affected, said OPA. Flour ceiling changes were not necessary because of a flour production subsidy payment of 19 cents a bushel. This payment will remain unchanged until Dec. 31. A new rate for January, based on wheat prices under the new ceilings, will be announced later this month.

December Future at Peak.

The OPA action conformed with expectations in the grain trade. December wheat futures have advanced about four cents a bushel in the last 10 days, and yesterday rose to $1.69¾ per bushel, a peak since early April and within 1⅝ cents of their ceiling. Deferred contracts eased on profit cashing late in the session, but December held within ⅛cent of its top at a gain of ⅞ cent. Other futures were ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Buying came mainly from professional traders in anticipation of the ceiling hike, tho some demand arose from strength in cash grain which has been selling at or near ceilings. No. 1 hard winter wheat sold at its $1.72⅞ ceiling in Chicago for the first time since last spring.

Corn Reacts After Rise.

Approval of an increase of 75 cents a hundred pounds in the ceiling price on nearly all heavy hogs, an action officially admitted to be an attempt to increase feeding of corn, led professional traders to buy corn futures. Prices rose fractionally to a new peak, but country sales of 500,000 bushels of cash corn brought a reaction, and the close was ⅛ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower.

Oats finished ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. Rye was ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher, and barley unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

Clear, cold weather in the middle west combined with bids of $1.15, net track Chicago, for No. 2 yellow corn swelled country offerings to the highest level in several weeks.

OMAHA RESIDENT GROUP WILL BUY UTILITY CONTROL

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—A contract has been negotiated calling for the sale of the common stock of Nebraska Power company by American Power and Light company to a nonprofit corporation organized by a group of Omaha residents, American Power and Light, which controls Nebraska Power, said today.

The Omaha purchasing group said the acquisition would be the first step in a program for refinancing of the Omaha utility and the ultimate acquisition of its properties by public bodies of Nebraska.

In 1942 an offer was made for Nebraska Power by the consumers' public power district of Nebraska of $40,680,000 with certain adjustments for property additions and current position under a specified formula. The purchase price under the present transaction will be determined on the basis of the same price and formula after deductions for the cost of retiring outstanding securities.

CHICAGO MAIL ORDER ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

Directors of the Chicago Mail Order company, third largest organization in its industry, have elected Robert W. Jackson president, the company announced yesterday. Formerly vice president, Jackson succeeded Edgar L. Schnadig, who became chairman of the board of directors.

Jackson will be responsible for the direction of an aggressive expansion program which includes acquisition of additional retail outlets in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, and Iowa. The company now has retail stores in Kankakee and Springfield, Ill.

Jackson has been with the company more than 20 years, Schnadig more than 25.

BRITISH USE PEANUTS TO MAKE LOW COST WOOL TEXTILE FIBER

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Development of a new synthetic wool fiber from peanuts, which is readily adaptable to mixture with real wool, cotton, or rayon for manufacture of inexpensive textiles, was announced today by Imperial Chemical Industries.

David Trail, I. C. I. scientist, who developed the synthetic, predicted it would produce warm, mothproof clothing from peanuts for millions who could not afford real wool. The synthetic fiber, called ardil, is made from peanut protein after oil for industrial uses has been extracted. The residue is usable as cattle feed.

Trail said the cost of producing ardil was expected to be about the same as that of rayon. "It is unlikely it will ever be cheaper than cotton, but it should be much cheaper than wool," he said.

WFA DEVELOPS PLAN TO AVOID WASTE OF EGGS

Would Aid Civilian, Utilize Surplus.

BY ANNE DOUGLAS.

Drawing on its experience during the serious "overproduction" of eggs last spring, the war food administration has developed a program for 1945 thru which it hopes all eggs not consumed by civilians will go to lend-lease, the army and navy, and foreign relief. The program was announced yesterday at a trade meeting in the La Salle hotel by Lt. Col. Ralph W. Olmstead, deputy director of supply of the WFA office of distribution.

Of particular interest to consumers was Col. Olmstead's pledge of a campaign to get retail associations, chain stores, and egg retailers generally to sell eggs at lower prices than this year. Even during the period of heaviest production last spring eggs sold at retail in Chicago for as high as 50 cents a dozen.

Won't Sell Back at Cut Prices.

He said production costs will not go down next year, however, and warned that WFA will not sell eggs from government inventory back to the industry at cut prices.

Beginning Jan. 1 a support price of 27 cents a dozen for producers for candled eggs and 24 cents for current receipts will go into effect. The 27 cent price represents 90 per cent of parity as required by law. The price to consumers must reflect the support price paid to farmers, said Col. Olmstead.

WFA expects to ship 150 million pounds of dried eggs to Russia in 1945, Col. Olmstead disclosed. The United Kingdom will receive 70 million pounds, the same as the United States army and navy. Governments of liberated areas in Europe, such as Belgium, Holland, and France, will get 75 million pounds for civilian relief. Such relief shipments probably will have to be subsidized, but "not very heavily," he said.

Outlet for 25 Million Cases.

With this expected demand at a total of 365 million pounds and the Jan. 1 inventory of WFA at approximately 100 million pounds the agency will contract at the beginning of the season for not less than 250 million pounds of dried eggs, allowing for adjustments.

In addition, the British are expected to take from 1 to 3 million cases of shell eggs, providing a total outlet for 25 to 28 million cases of eggs. The highest surplus estimate is 27 million cases above domestic civilian demand, said Col. Olmstead.

WFA also will be able to dispose of some eggs thru the school lunch plan, or to institutions, he said. If a surplus still remains, the agency will fall back on last resort methods used this year and even convert eggs into tankage if necessary, altho he said that probably would not be necessary.

"Not for WFA to Decide."

Whether a surplus egg problem would exist if prices were allowed to fall during periods of peak production is not for WFA to decide, said Col. Olmstead. The agency is committed to maintain and carry out the support price, as required by law. He expressed doubt, however, that civilians would consume all the eggs no matter how low prices were.

WFA will buy eggs and store them if forced to do so, he said, but promised that such stocks would not be dumped on the market later to disrupt normal trade. Of the large stocks bought by the agency during 1944, less than 150,000 cases of shell eggs remain, he disclosed.

Altho program details have not been completed, WFA will guarantee a market for breakers and freezers of eggs, Col. Olmstead said.

Other problems confronting the industry this year which will be taken up by WFA in formulating its support program will be storage space and suitable shipping cases and packing material.

EXTRA 30 CENTS DIVIDEND VOTED BY CHICAGO MILL

Chicago Mill and Lumber company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 30 cents and the regular quarterly 30 cent disbursement. McGraw Electric company authorized an extra payment of 50 cents.

Hart Schaffner & Marx declared a dividend of 40 cents, which brought declarations for the year to $1.60 on the new common stock, against $3.50 last year on the old $20 par common. Early this year the common was reclassified on a basis of 2½ shares of new $10 par common for each old share. On this basis, the company paid the equivalent of $4 on the old stock.

Government Attitude Held Key to Plentitude of Jobs

The number of jobs that will be provided for returning service personnel and the 20 million war workers who will have to find new occupations will depend on whether the government "strives to create a business climate favorable to the production of civilian goods" during reconversion, Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, said yesterday.

In a forecast of business conditions, in a speech before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, Ayres urged business men to do necessary financing early, eliminate extravagant war time production practices, and refrain from overstocking inventories. In the labor field he predicted for 1945 more strikes and unemployment but higher hourly straight time factory wage rates.

New Jobs to Be Needed.

"When the service men begin to come home in large numbers and when the demobilization of the munitions makers gets under way in earnest, we must have real jobs for our young people; many of the jobs will have to be new ones," Ayres said.

"But jobs do not just happen, nor are real jobs brought into being by federal deficit financing. Self sustaining jobs flow from successful combinations of enterprise and capital. They involve the taking of risks by managements which assume those risks in the hope of making profits. Hence it follows that the number of jobs available always largely depends on whether the political climate that is created by the national administration is hospitable or inhospitable toward business enterprise."

Relating that some government planners propose to maintain full employment thru stimulating exports on a grand scale, Ayres said similar schemes failed on two previous occasions.

The United States provided foreign countries with purchasing power after World War I thru public loans, but there was a serious depression in 1921, he said. Later in the same decade private funds were advanced, but the experiment ended with American investors holding large totals of defaulted foreign bonds.

Raps 'Spread the Work' Plan.

Ayres also was critical of proposals to create a durable prosperity by spreading the work at home, saying:

"One of our great labor organizations has just adopted a resolution asking congress to establish a six hour day and a five day week to spread employment. The assumption is that there is just so much work to be done, and that it should be thinly spread so that each worker may get some of it.

"Of course the assumption is false. Prosperity depends on increasing the total of goods and services so that each of us may have a greater amount when the total is divided. It is still true that self sustaining jobs flow from the combination of capital and enterprise operating in a friendly political atmosphere."

HOGS ADVANCE MORE; CEILING ON BIG STOCK IS RAISED TO $14.75

Prices for all classes of hogs, except heavy stock held down by the $14 ceiling, rose again yesterday as snow and icy roads kept supplies on farms. After almost all receipts had been sold, the office of price administration announced an increase in the ceiling to $14.75 a hundred pounds, Chicago basis, on all hogs except sows, stags, and boars. These were restricted to $14, regardless of weight. The changes are effective today.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., yesterday said a proposal for flat price ceilings on live cattle will be submitted by the OPA to Stabilization Director Vinson.]

Most light classes of hogs showed gains of 15 to 25 cents, selling 65 to 75 cents above last Friday. The average was $14.40, up 20 cents. Early buyers paid a $14.60 top.

Lambs sold steady to 25 cents higher. Steers slumped 25 cents and heifers were steady to 25 cents lower. Competition was brisk for beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls.

NO IVORY TOWER POLICY, SENATE CAUTIONS OWCS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—A senate military subcommittee cautioned the office of war contract settlement today to avoid "the ivory tower psychology" in protecting business against reconversion impacts. It said that only by "grass-roots" contact with the problems of contract termination will the OWCS "really be in a position to formulate, let alone enforce, effective policies."

Headed by Sen. Murray [D., Mont.], the committee recommended an extension of the life of the Smaller War Plants corporation beyond next July 1, and that it be authorized to make reconversion loans to small businesses "based upon a liberal appraisal of their future business prospects." Its present authority is limited to making loans for war and essential civilian production, contract termination and surplus property loans.

The report suggested the OWCS take specific action to "protect the government against waste and fraud" and that it develop "a comprehensive program to guarantee speedy settlements for subcontractors."

STOCKS LOWER WHEN TRADERS TURN CAUTIOUS

Armaments Shares Resist Downturn.

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—The stock market average declined today after eight successive advances, longest sustained upswing since March, but scattered strong spots persisted and early losses of a point or more were reduced in most cases at the close.

Caution, more than a revival of bearishness, inspired trimming of accounts when the market opened on the idea the extended advance called for a substantial technical correction. Dealings dwindled on the retreat, but picked up toward the end when recovery became apparent.

Armament Issues Aided.

Expectations of a long, hard conflict in Europe again propped individual issues with an armament rating, but most rails, motors, steels, and rubbers declined thruout and minus signs predominated at the close.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 at 57.4, the first loss since Nov. 30. Of 921 issues traded, 409 declined, 300 advanced, and 212 were unchanged. Transfers were 1,154,940 shares compared with 1,502,350 yesterday.

Contesting the trend and reaching tops for 1944 or longer were Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, and Magma Copper, which again reflected reports of new mining discoveries in Arizona.

BONDS MIXED; RAILS ACTIVE.

New York, Dec. 12 (AP).—Bond market trends were mixed today when rails continued to lead other groups in activity. Recent advances by carriers prompted substantial profit selling, but as in yesterday's session new buying interest developed on an early decline and resulted in many new highs among speculative rails.

The Associated Press rail average closed unchanged, the industrial down 0.1, and the utility and low yield each up 0.1. Transactions were $10,118,500 compared with $12,002,600 yesterday.

CHICAGO PRICES UNEVEN.

Prices were mixed as turnover decreased to 26,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among volume leaders were Libby, McNeill, up ⅛; Chicago corporation common, up ⅛; Domestic Industries, down ⅛, and New York Central, down ⅜. Among five issues reaching 1944 highs were Kentucky Utilities 6 per cent preferred, up 2, and Bliss & Laughlin, up 1½.

Has your Will kept pace with these changing times?

IT IS A WISE MAN who reviews his Will frequently. For the effectiveness of any Will may be seriously altered by changing circumstances. Today, under the extraordinary conditions of war, the changes may be even more acute.

Consider your Will, for instance. Has the executor you named been called into Service? Or has he, perhaps, moved to another city where he would not be available immediately should his services be needed? Or have the heavy demands of war deprived him of the time which your affairs may require?

And what about the estate itself? Has it remained constant or has there been some upward or downward shift in the value of the securities, business interests or other assets?

Since either or both of these circumstances, together with increased taxes, can vitally affect you and your family, it will pay you to review your Will at this time with your attorney.

Perhaps you may wish to consider the appointment of this bank as your executor or trustee. The officers of The Northern Trust Company will be pleased to place its 55 years of practical experience in the probating of Wills and in the administration of estates at the disposal of you and your attorney.

CHARGES WIFE ROUTS HIM FROM $100,000 HOME

She Threw Many Things at Him, Mate Says.

Charging he has been the target for a barrage of missiles ranging from a highball glass [with a highball in it] to heavy ash trays [both of crockery and of brass], Robert W. Tyson, Elgin loan company executive, yesterday filed a cross bill for divorce against his wife, Evelyn, in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva.

The Tysons' marital gymnastics first came to official notice last summer when Mrs. Tyson entered suit for separate maintenance, charging that her husband had thrown her down, injuring her spine, then had moved out of their $100,000 mansion at 935 Douglas av., Elgin, and had taken up residence at St. Charles. He used physical violence on other occasions, too, she said.

Tossed Cream Pitcher.

Tyson, who is 38, charged in his cross bill filed yesterday, that on one occasion, at dinner, his wife hurled the cream pitcher, at him, then followed up with knives, forks, and other articles. On May 30, in an Elgin tavern, she snatched a highball from the tray of a passing waiter and bashed it against his head, causing cuts which left permanent scars, the suit charged. On June 25, as he relaxed on the porch of his home, she let him have it with a heavy crockery ash tray.

Tyson usually stood his ground, but when she had at him with the furnace poker he fled the house, his bill stated.

Both Ask Custody.

Both parents asked custody of three children, Natalie, 17, Frederick, 14, and Robert W. Jr., 12. Mrs. Tyson now is living at the Elgin home with the children, whose affections, she charged, her husband sought to alienate. She also asked a financial settlement, listing among her husband's holdings the State Loan company, valued at $75,000.

PROBERS REVEAL 19 MILLION LOSS ON SHIPYARD JOB

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—The house merchant marine committee reported today that a war time ship yard in Providence, R. I., originally contracted for $6,050,000 cost over 27 million dollars.

The committee criticized both the maritime commission and the contractor, Rheem Manufacturing company, in a report on its investigation of the yard built to produce Liberty ships.

"The maritime commission," said the report, "did not properly safeguard government expenditures thru adequate supervision and control of an inexperienced contractor's activities and expenditures."

The original contract for a six way yard and 32 Liberty ships was let to the Rheem company March 24, 1942, at an estimate of $6,050,000. By January, 1943, the committee reported, the cost commitments had gone to 18 million dollars. In February last year Rheem surrendered the contract and it was taken over by the Walsh-Kaiser company and Henry J. Kaiser interests, who received an additional $9,200,000 to complete the job.

RADIO AMATEURS ARE WATCH DOGS FOR AIR LANES

Radio amateurs are proving Uncle Sam's watch dogs of the air in war time, the American Radio Relay league, national organization of radio "hams" disclosed in the current issue of QST, monthly publication of the league.

As members of the radio intelligence division [RID] of the federal communications commission, amateur operators have done an outstanding job for four years in policing the airways, tracking down clandestine stations, trapping enemy spies, and saving human lives, Oliver Read, Chicago amateur radio operator, wrote.

Since July 1, 1940, the division has put almost 400 illegal radio stations out of commission, including one traced by direction finding devices to the German embassy in Washington two days after the attack on Pearl Harbor. More than 200 axis spies in South America have been rounded up with the help of RID. Some 9,000 cases of alleged unlicensed or subversive transmissions in this country and elsewhere have been uncovered.

SECOND DIVORCE ASKED BY WIFE OF LLOYD FRY

Mrs. Lucile Forrester Fry, who lives in the Palmer House, charged her husband, Lloyd, wealthy roofing material manufacturer and inventor, with cruelty in a suit for divorce filed yesterday in Circuit court. She stated he is worth three million dollars and asked for an accounting of his property. They were married Aug. 23, 1915; divorced Sept. 27, 1921, and remarried Feb. 12, 1922. Fry owns a roofing company at 5302 W. 66th st., and has patents on devices and processes connected with the business.

"Makes no difference to me what they want to do when the war's over. I figure my boys have already made good in a big way."

THE QUESTION.

What does your home town have to brag about?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Seaman Dale C. Rennecker, Berea, O.—Berea is the home of Baldwin Wallace college, where music is the main subject. They just built a new bomber plant there. The sandstone quarries there were some of the largest in the world but they are almost dried up now. We also have beautiful swimming pools in Berea.

Seaman Erwin Sachse, Waterbury, Conn.—My home town is the brass center of the world. It's famous for the manufacture of compacts, makeup kits, lipstick, cocktail shakers, and anything made of brass—war products now. In addition, Waterbury has more beautiful girls per square block than any city in the world.

Corp. Julian Becton, Woodbury, Tenn.—Woodbury is nothing more than a wide spot in the road. It has a courthouse on one side of the road and several retail stores. Also a cheese plant, an icehouse, and one theater. I guess that's about all. The people there are all friendly and they all know each other.

Corp. H. T. Bramlette, Charlotte, N. C.—Charlotte was the home of the late Hal Kemp. Several prominent people hail from Charlotte, including Norman Conder, the opera singer; John Scott Trotter, the orchestra leader; Pvt. Hargrove, author of the book, 'See Here, Pvt. Hargrove," and, of course Corp. H. T. Bramlette.

Corp. Armand Nadeau, Pawtucket, R. I.—The first cotton mill was located in Pawtucket. Now there are several large factories engaged in the manufacture of cotton thread and other cotton materials. Another interesting thing in Pawtucket is Narragansett race track. It's a well rounded out city, I would say.

FARM FREEDOM TO WORK CALLED POST-WAR GOAL

The goals of post-war agriculture in America should be a return to unrestricted production, competitive market prices, heavy exports, and a higher standard of rural life for a smaller farm population.

These were the major conclusions of the Committee on Post-War Agricultural Policy, made public at the convention of the American Farm Bureau federation in the Hotel Sherman. Subtle repudiation of the agricultural adjustment administration, the office of price administration, and federal subsidies was evident thruout the report, which stated that "competitive market prices offer the only sound means of guiding production to a suitable level."

The convention was told that a smaller farm population can adequately secure sufficient production to fulfil the post-war needs of this country and additional foods for abundant exports.

In case of a post-war farm depression the report urges three remedies: a subsidized food consumption program for low income city families, deferment of farm mortgage payments, and, in case of a long and severe depression, certain income payments to farmers, not as nonproduction rewards but as outright aid to keep farms in production.

Louis Pasteur Monument Given to Medical Center

The Louis Pasteur monument, standing atop a pedestal west of the Chicago Museum of Natural History, was presented yesterday to the Medical Center commission by the Chicago park district. It eventually will be placed in Convalescent park in front of County hospital.

BUDGET MAKERS ATTEMPT BRAKE ON TAX BOOSTS

Chicago's tax bills paid in 1945 will be about the same as those in 1944, if the present intentions of local governments concerning their next year's budgets are carried out.

The city corporate [operating] budget will require the same levy as for the preceding year. So will the sanitary district and Chicago park district operating budgets. The county forest preserve expects to break about even on its levy. The budget of the school board is still in a fluid state.

Best guesses indicate that the county will need about $850,000 more than when the tax levy was 13½ million dollars. However, the sanitary district will levy perhaps $765,000 less for bond and interest funds. The park district expects to cut costs by $184,000.

City Economy Demanded.

At a meeting of the city council finance committee Ald. Lindell [9th] said there had been more pay raises asked than in any other year and that he recommended none be granted. He suggested that the state should divide the sales tax with the city and thus take some of the load from real estate.

City department heads had asked for a total budget of 72½ millions, and a tentative recommendation by City Controler Upham cut this to less than 61 millions. The finance committee, headed by Ald. Bowler [25th], whittled off a few minor items. aAction was deferred on a special $300,000 fund for the election commissioners, to be used if a traction proposition is to be voted on. Bowler indicated that public budget hearings would begin after Jan. 1.

Park Operations Cost More.

The park district announced a proposed budget of $22,836,000 for all purposes, compared with the preceding $23,021,000. Operating costs alone were figured at $11,788,000, against the 1944 appropriation of $11,440,000. Robert J. Dunham, district president, said the increase was needed to protect the park lands from lake storms, and the cost would exceed $400,000.

The sanitary district held a public hearing on its annual appropriation bill, tentatively estimated at $50,588,182. Only $25,016,445 of this is to be expended, however, in 1945. The district's estimated tax levy is $19,286,205, or $65,000 less than last year's. Representatives of union labor asked new wage scales, asserting the Little Steel formula is outmoded.

The Circuit court committee on help, which determines the number of employes in 13 county fee offices, will rule on petitions for an increase of 161 workers in five of these offices this afternoon.

SENATORS TOLD OF SLOW WORK BY HURLEY FIRM

Locker Job Canceled by Navy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—An account of the navy's experiences with the Narragansett Machine company, including cancelation of a locker contract for failure to make deliveries, was related to the senate military affairs committee today.

Robert A. Hurley.

The testimony concerning the Pawtucket, R. I., firm was given by navy officials during the committee's hearing on the nominations of former Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticuit and Lt. Col. Edward H. Heller of San Francisco, Cal., to the new surplus war property board.

Hurley, before being nominated to the board, was a vice president of Narragansett. Heller, as a war finance officer, passed upon war department loans to the firm.

Failed on Deliveries.

Lt. J. M. Orr told the committee the navy's contract with the company for 1,572 lockers was terminated because the company failed to make deliveries as scheduled on Feb. 1, 1944.

An investigation by navy officials a month later, he said, disclosed that the company had completed only one locker, which was rejected as not up to navy specifications. Nine others had been partly completed.

Everan Woodland, civilian engineer in the navy's bureau of ships, testified the locker doors fitted poorly and the lockers were badly warped and poorly welded.

Both witnesses said, in response to questioning by Sen. Austin [R., Vt.], that the company had been given ample priorities to obtain materials for the lockers.

First Contract Completed.

The company earlier had had some difficulties with priorities for another order for lockers, but the navy made allowances for delays resulting from the lack of priorities, Lt. Robert Brown told the committee.

Brown, who is attached to the office of general counsel for the navy, said that the first locker contract—placed prior to the time Hurley joined the firm in January, 1943—was completed and accepted by the navy. He said, however, that the company fell behind in deliveries and that one delivery was 102 days behind schedule.

William L. Mooney, retired insurance executive of Hartford, Conn., appeared in behalf of Hurley's nomination, as did Headmaster A. N. Sheriff of Cheshire academy, Cheshire, Conn.

Praised by Bowles.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles sent the committee a letter describing Hurley as "a man of high patriotism and complete honesty."

Harold Conroy, Hartford, Conn., machine operator and secretary of the New England district council of the CIO United Electrical Workers, said the New England CIO favored Hurley for the job.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kenney of California told the committee that Heller's selection as a board member was the "best that could be made from the west."

POLICE CAPTAINS POOL FIGHT ON MERIT BOARD

Judge Joseph A. Graber in Superior court consented yesterday to a stipulation that the motions of five more discharged police captains asking contempt of court citations against the civil service commission be consolidated into one hearing.

Attorneys for the captains—William J. Drury, Thomas Connelly, John T. Cartan, Louis Klatzco, and Walter F. Healy—agreed to the consolidation, he was informed. He continued the hearing to 10 a. m. today to allow the proposition to be submitted to Corporation Counsel Hodes. Atty. Michael F. Ryan, representing Capt. Healy, said his motion asking for a contempt citation will be filed this week; motions in behalf of the four other captains have been filed.

Walter L. Gregory, chairman of the commission, and William F. Clarke, a member, were found guilty of contempt for filing false records in the case of Capt. Thomas H. Harrison. Atty. Joseph T. Harrington appeared in court yesterday and asked permission to represent Clarke, but Judge Graber ruled that the city will continue to represent the commissioner.

6 FIGURE AUTO LICENSE PLATES READY DEC. 26

Six figure automobile licenses starting with the odd numbers will be passed out over the counter from the secretary of state's office at 336 S. Ashland av. when motorists begin filing applications Dec. 26, Chief Clerk Frank M. Kalteux said yesterday. On hand there, waiting only for the Christmas shopping and mailing rush to subside, are all license plates from 100,000 to 199,999, plus all similar sequences starting at 300,000, 500,000, and so on.

In addition, the Chicago office has license plates starting with 450,000. They are to help meet special requests from motorists who want to duplicate house numbers, income tax payments, or some other sentimental figure. In such cases, the first two digits will be a prefix denoting 1945.

"Any driver may have any number he wants, if we have it to assign," Kalteux said. All other numbers will be handled by Secretary of State Rowe in the Springfield office, which will conduct a mail order business as well as handle counter sales. Motorists who requested it before Dec. 1 already have been reassigned their 1944 plates.

$17,000 SHORTAGE; CASH EXCHANGE OPERATOR HELD

Frank Wojczynski, 40, operator of a currency exchange at 2950 Milwaukee av., was under arrest yesterday on five warrants charging grand larceny. The warrants were issued by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court.

Asst. State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson, who obtained the warrants, told Judge Dougherty that numerous residents of the Logan Square district had complained that money they had turned in to Wojczynski's currency exchange for payment of utility and other bills had not been applied to the bills.

In consequence, he said, residents of the neighborhood were being dunned for bills which they had paid.

Thompson said Wojczynski, when questioned, said his accounts were short not more than $3,500. Max Pyka of the state auditor's office, which had been investigating Wojczynski, placed the figure at $17,000.

Thompson said Wojczynski probably would be arraigned before Judge Dougherty today.

1 DEAD, 4 HURT IN TWO CRASHES OF THREE TRAINS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12 (AP).—Two crashes involving three trains in a snowstorm today resulted in death of an engineer and injury to four trainmen.

Claude Baxter Beales, 55, Alexandria, Va., died of burns a few hours after his northbound Southern railway passenger locomotive figured in the accident a mile across the Potomoc river in Virginia.
